Wilson 'Sorry' For Remarks

Alaskan Demos Win In Landslide

Pattern Followed By States In Past

JUNEAU, Alaska, Oct. 13 (AP)—Alaska Democrats scored an overwhelming victory in yesterday's "straw-in-the-wind" election, on the basis of mounting returns today from all parts of the territory.

The outcome assumed the earmarks of a virtual landslide for legislative seats. Congressional Delegate E. L. Bartlett, remarking that "Alaska almost always has pointed the way the nation will vote in November," made this forecast:

"This makes it thoroughly sure the Democrats will organize the national House of Representatives by some 30 seats."

The Democratic delegate led the way for the party by winning a sixth term by a margin of 2½ to 1.

Set Pattern In Past

Bartlett drew 72 per cent of the vote in his race with Mrs. Barbara Dimock, legislator. It compared with the 56 per cent vote he polled in 1952.

In past elections November results in the states have paralleled closely Alaska's October pattern despite the cross-currents of local feuding and controversy that mark the territorial campaigning.

In the three major divisions (districts) in which most of the votes were tallied, Democrats were leading for 26 seats in the legislature and Republicans leading for two.

In the remaining division, the remote and sparsely populated "Eskimo country" in the northwest, only the Nome precinct had reported and the trend was inconclusive. Three more House and two Senate seats are at stake there. Democrats held top spots in both the House and Senate races, but another was at the foot of the list. The delayed votes from the villages will decide those races.

Diversified Issues

In the race for the non-voting seat in Congress, Bartlett had 10,131 to 3,939 for Mrs. Dimock.

The campaign was waged on diversified issues. They ranged from which major party had done the most for Alaskan statehood to which had made the most federal funds available to the territory. Both congressional candidates supported immediate statehood for the territory. Mrs. Dimock also appealed for votes as support for President Eisenhower.

All Republicans Except Case Get McCarthy Okay

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he would not support Republican Clifford P. Case for a Senate seat and told newsmen "If I were living in New Jersey, I'm afraid I would be in the position of not being able to vote for U.S. senator."

Case is the GOP candidate for the seat being vacated by Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ). His candidacy has caused a split among New Jersey Republicans, with a conservative group led by former Rep. Fred Hartley attacking Case on the ground that his voting record as a House member was too liberal.

McCarthy Leaves Hospital

Critics also take issue with Case's stand on McCarthy. He said last July 7 that if he were elected he would "vote against continuing Sen. McCarthy as chairman, or as a member, of the Committee on Government Operations or any other committee with similar functions."

McCarthy, dismissed from Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital today after a week's treatment for a sinus condition, said he plans no campaign speeches but is "supporting all of the Republican candidates with one exception"—Case.

Reference To Morse

He made the exception, he said not because of what Case said about him "but for other reasons I think will be made public before the election."

Pressed for elaboration, he said: "I don't think we want another Wayne Morse in the Senate. Some of the material has been given to the (New Jersey) Republican state chairman—not by me."

He declined to say who supplied the information or what it contained.

Indiana Rivers Begin To Recede

HAMMOND, Ind., Oct. 13 (AP)—Floodfighters kept a watch for dike breaks and looters today while more than 4,000 persons waited for floodwaters to recede from their homes in the Calumet area and Plymouth.

The Yellow River began dropping from its 17.32-foot crest at Plymouth a day after the Little Calumet River started receding around Hammond, Gary and their suburbs.

Although the Little Calumet flood crisis was past, another 50 families were rescued from their homes in suburban Black Oak southwest of Gary, in addition to 50 other families brought out by boat Tuesday night.

Sunny skies encouraged disaster workers, but more showers were possible during the night.

Seventy miles to the east, Civil Defense officials in Plymouth enlarged their guard patrols after one home looting was reported. The usually tiny Yellow River, fed by a maze of drainage ditches through rich muclands, has chased out 400 families in Plymouth and 200 more around Lake Of The Woods northeast of the city.

Molotov Back Home

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov returned to the Soviet capital today after his eight-day visit to East Germany, Moscow Radio reported.

ALIVE BUT ACCUSED—David Fred Hagler, Jr., (above), a Fort Worth, Tex., businessman believed to have been killed and burned, turned up alive yesterday. Oklahoma officers promptly charged him with murder. The murder charge, accusing Hagler of killing an unknown man, was filed in Sulphur, Okla. A man's body was found Sunday near Davis, Okla., in a burned station wagon owned by Hagler's former wife. The body had been identified tentatively as that of Hagler. (AP Wirephoto)

FBI Helper Puts Finger On Reds Despite Threats

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP) — A former undercover man for the FBI put the finger on about 150 persons as past or present Communists today and told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee he had been threatened with violence for talking.

The testimony came from Herman E. Thomas of Allentown, Pa., who said refuse had been thrown on his porch and that his wife received telephone calls last night advising her that "stool pigeons should get out of town."

Sen. Welker (R-Idaho), acting subcommittee chairman, assured Thomas the federal government would give him and his family "full and complete protection."

Industries Infiltrated

In addition to naming a long list of men and women he swore were present or former members of the Communist party in the Lehigh Valley of Eastern Pennsylvania, Thomas reported that Reds have infiltrated key industries in the district.

He testified that in the Communist infiltration plot "steel is the most important basic industry, along with the electric and transportation industries."

Red infiltrators, Thomas said, had been instructed about what part American workers would play in the event of a revolution.

The witness reviewed the nearly 10 years he said he spent as an FBI undercover man in the Communist apparatus in Lehigh and Bucks counties. He also spoke of prior activities as a Communist between 1937 and 1939, before he left the party because of a conviction that it was "dedicated to overthrow of the government by force and violence."

College Professor Named

Asked to name persons who "to your certain knowledge were members of the Communist party," Thomas reeled off a long list, sometimes referring to a typewritten sheet.

Among others, he mentioned Ted Norton, identified as a professor at Lafayette College in Easton, Pa. and a wartime member of the War Manpower Commission. He said Norton was a member of the party's Lehigh Valley section.

Ex-Model To Give Up Bullfighting And 'Stay Woman'

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 13 (AP) — Marie Tamara Louwe, a South African mannequin who switched to bullfighting in 1952, had a talk with her doctors today and decided to go back to modeling gowns.

"The doctors told me I must undergo a surgical operation that would make me stronger, but less a woman, or give up bullfighting," said Marie, 26. "Although I love bullfighting, I want to be a woman to the end."

Veteran of about a dozen bullfights in Portugal, she said she will make her final appearance in the ring Oct. 31 and then head back to Johannesburg.

Haiti Reports Say Hurricane Killed Scores

'Hazel' Said To Have Virtually Swept City Of Jeremie Into Sea

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 13 (AP)—Unofficial reports said today Hurricane Hazel razed whole towns, killed or injured hundreds and caused untold damage in its sweep across Haiti's southwestern peninsula.

The only official report to come through after last night's storm said two were known dead at Aux Cayes, largest city in the stricken area. Earlier unofficial reports had put the causalties there at 200 dead and 350 injured.

Other unofficial reports said Jeremie, the peninsula's second largest city, was almost swept into the sea, with 200 dead and injured. There was no breakdown of these casualties.

The hurricane, its force somewhat blunted as it passed between the Haitian and Cuban mountains bordering the Windward Passage, headed into the Southeastern Bahamas today.

Aux Cayes, which has a population of 71,000, is the third largest city of this island republic, ranking after only Port au Prince and Cap Haitien. It is a bustling seaport for export of sugar, rum, coffee, cocoa, and rice.

Little was reported left of Jeremie, with a population of 11,000 and with 57,000 living close by. Jeremie is on the northern coast about 130 miles west of Port au Prince.

Two men who crossed mountains near Jeremie today said the hurricane blew the sea into the city and swept away all smaller structures. A prison hospital was demolished, the homes of Roman Catholic sisters and priests were washed into the sea, and the Custom House and bank were damaged.

Tropical Blow Curves Toward U. S. Mainland

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 13 (AP) —Hurricane Hazel, regaining strength after thrashing through Haiti, curved toward the north northwest late today, in the general direction of the American mainland.

The storm was headed for San Salvador, midway in the Bahamas Islands chain, and traveling in a direction between North and northwest. It was about 500 miles southeast of Miami.

Aircraft encountered winds of just under 100 miles per hour in the storm's northeast quadrant, the Miami Weather Bureau said in a 5 p.m. advisory.

At that time it was centered near latitude 22.4 north, longitude 73.5 west or about midway between the islands of Mayaguana and Acklins in the southeastern Bahamas.

Piping Error Found In A-Sub Prototype

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission said tonight that the same kind of defective piping that caused an explosion in the first atomic submarine, the USS Nautilus, has been found in the land-based prototype for a second submarine.

The second prototype is being built at West Milton, N. Y., by the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamics Corp., the firm which built the Nautilus at Groton, Conn.

The AEC said the company has accepted responsibility for what it called the error in the second prototype and is now replacing the piping at its own expense.

Flood Disaster Area

DENVER, Oct. 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower today declared the Pecos River region of New Mexico, which was hit by floods, as a major disaster area eligible for federal aid.

Wilson Arrives For GOP Dinner

Beall Declares Coffee Trading Controls Needed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Sen. Beall (R-Md) said today a new effort will be made in the next Congress to require federal regulation of coffee trading.

Gustavo Lobo Jr., president of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange where most of the trading is done, said his organization will continue to oppose such regulation, contending it would be both unnecessary and ineffective.

They spoke out as a Senate Banking subcommittee which Beall heads completed two days of hearings into the situation which brought sharp increases in coffee prices early this year.

House Derailed Plan

The Senate voted twice at the last session to put the Exchange under supervision of the Agriculture Department's Commodity Exchange Authority, but the House did not approve.

Douglas B. Bagnell, the CEA's director of compliance, testified as the last witness at the hearing. Asked whether he thought his agency could handle supervision of coffee trading, he said the Agriculture Department has repeatedly recommended such legislation.

Special Problems

He conceded, however, that coffee would present some special problems because all supplies are imported and many traders live outside this country.

Both Beall and Sen. Payne (R-Maine), who attended the hearings, told newsmen they considered federal regulation necessary to prevent abuses which might result in unfairly high prices for coffee. Beall said he thought the full Banking Committee would approve the plan, and that legislation would be ready for introduction when the new Senate meets.

Northeast Swelters; Wyoming Has Snow

[By The Associated Press]

The Northeastern United States sweltered in the second day of an autumn heat wave Wednesday but snow fell in Eastern Wyoming.

The mercury zoomed to 85 degrees in New York, breaking a 75-year heat record for the date. Newark, N.J., reported 88, a 14-year record, and Boston 86, only one degree shy of a 24-year record for the date. Washington, D. C., had 89.

Liquor Sellers Will Pay Father Of Crash Victim

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 13 (AP)—Two establishments which sold liquor to a driver subsequently involved in a fatal accident agreed today to pay $22,000 to the man whose daughter was killed.

Joyce Rebstock, 19, died last Nov. 1 when the car in which she was riding collided with another driven by Larence K. Cole, 25.

Her father, John Rebstock, sued a lodge of the Polish National Alliance and a restaurant, accusing them of contributory negligence in selling liquor to Cole before the accident.

The settlement was reached out of court after a four-day trial.

A-Plant Dispute Still Deadlocked

DENVER, Oct. 13 (AP)—A Board of Inquiry looking into a labor dispute at atomic energy plants in Tennessee and Kentucky has reported formally to President Eisenhower that a deadlock still exists.

The Denver White House today made public an Oct. 11 report by the board set up under the Taft-Hartley law.

On Aug. 11 the government obtained an 80-day injunction under the Taft-Hartley law to block a threatened strike at atomic plants in Oak Ridge, Tenn., and at Paducah, Ky.

The dispute involved about 4,000 men at Oak Ridge and 700 at Paducah.

On Oct. 4 Eisenhower ordered the board back into session for a new report.

Burial Service Held For Justice Jackson

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 13 (AP)—The body of Justice Robert H. Jackson was laid to rest today beside those of his parents in a peaceful little cemetery near this home city of his childhood.

A brief service was conducted privately amid the brilliant fall foliage in Maple Grove cemetery at nearby Frewsburg.

Earl W. Warren, the Chief Justice of the United States, and his seven remaining Supreme Court associates, were present as honorary pallbearers. The active bearers were representatives of the Jamestown Bar Assn. which Jackson once served as president.

Big-Power Talks On Disarmament Backed By West

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 13 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France joined Canada today in a call for a big-power group to tackle disarmament problems once more after the long-standing deadlock has been aired fully in the U. N. General Assembly.

They took a stand against a Philippine resolution which would have set Nov. 15 as a deadline for a report from the proposed big power group to the Assembly's political committee. That suggestion was made yesterday by the new Philippine delegate, Felixberto Serrano, without consultation with the big powers here. Western delegates said no real report could be made in such a short time.

Canada Urges Private Talks

Paul Martin, Canadian minister of health and welfare, told the Political Committee Canada believed the disarmament negotiations should be carried on in private, without the searching glare of publicity, just as the talks had been conducted in London last spring.

He proposed that the group be the same as the London conference—the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Soviet Union. It would work under the 12-nation U. N. Disarmament Commission rather than under the auspices of the Political Committee as Serrano proposed.

No Deadline Fixed

Martin did not fix any deadline for a report from the group but indicated the negotiations should be as thorough as possible.

After some spirited procedural talk in the committee, Serrano decided not to press for an immediate vote on his proposal but to wait until all resolutions are voted on at the end of the general debate, which is just beginning.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet delegate, expressed sympathy with the Canadian resolution but said he would have to study it.

Defense Chief Says That He Made Mistake

Secretary Declares 'Dog' Tale Distorted By 'Left-Wing' Foes

CHICAGO, Oct. 13 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said tonight "I am sorry I made inept remarks" about dogs while talking about unemployed workers.

Those remarks, he declared in a speech at a Republican fund-raising dinner, "were distorted by our left wing opponents."

Saying he wanted to "set the record straight," Wilson told his audience that even Republican Gov. William Stratton of Illinois was "disturbed by some incomplete press reports of some recent remarks I made in Detroit."

Stratton earlier today issued a statement urging that the secretary's Chicago speech be canceled because of Wilson's reference in Detroit to bird dogs which hunt for their food and kennel dogs which "sit on their fanny and yell."

Governor Changes Mind

An aide said at the time that Stratton would boycott the dinner. However, the governor announced later in the day that he not only would attend but would introduce Wilson.

"In the first place," Wilson said, "I admit that I made a mistake—an unfortunate mistake—bringing up those bird dogs at the same time I was talking about people. There are times when my remarks get me into trouble—especially in political matters—and I seem to be in trouble now.

"The way my remarks were distorted by our left wing opponents certainly looks terrible in print. I admit that.

"So, right here, right now, I want to say to the American people that I am sorry I made inept remarks which were subject to misinterpretation.

Sympathizes With Labor

"But there is one thing that I will not do, one thing that I know you would not want me to do. It is this: I will not let our political assailants get away with the charge that I am unsympathetic with the problems of workmen or that the vicious interpretation they have put on my statements represent in any manner my feelings for or philosophy toward the working men and women of this country."

The secretary said that the Democrats have "very little to talk about" in the campaign for control of Congress in the November elections.

So, he added, "They pick up and exaggerate all out of proportion inadvertent remarks that unfortunately have been made.

"They have done this to me. Even some Republicans, including your illustrious governor, were disturbed by some incomplete press reports of some recent remarks I made in Detroit."

He said "in fairness to them and to the world" he felt he should "set the record straight."

Eisenhower In Excellent Health On 64th Birthday

DENVER, Oct. 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower — "enjoying excellent health"—turns 64 tomorrow in the thick of a political fight where the outcome might be a big factor in whether he seeks a second term.

For a few hours tomorrow evening the President will put aside all thought of the Republican battle to keep control of Congress for a quiet birthday observance with a few close friends.

Then on Friday he will end an eight-week Colorado vacation and head back to Washington, stopping in Indianapolis to deliver a major address on the administration farm program.

Eisenhower celebrates his 64th birthday just six weeks after an annual physical checkup which the White House said showed him in excellent health.

Today Assistant Press Secretary Murray Snyder said the chief executive still is "enjoying excellent health."

His weight is 176 pounds, two less than when he took office in January 1953.

Since coming to Colorado Aug. 21 the President has played golf or fished for trout almost every day. Aides report him more relaxed and in better spirits than he has been for a long time.

When Eisenhower arrived in Denver he told friends he was having trouble doing something he always had been able to do—concentrate on his golf game once he got out on the course. He said he was all tied up in knots in concern about such problems as the Communist threat in the Far East.

As his vacation went on, however, the President became noticeably more at ease.

Benson Calls Goal Greater Freedom For Farmers To Plan

This is another in a series of articles by top executives in the Eisenhower administration offered by the New York Herald Tribune Syndicate to some 1,600 daily newspapers throughout the country as a public service. The articles are designed as mid-term reports to the American people on the administration's accomplishments and plans.

By EZRA TAFT BENSON
Secretary of Agriculture

In the extended discussion of farm policy this year, many key questions were raised. They ranged from the effect of the administration program on the nation's economy to what influence it might have on this fall's Congressional elections.

The answers were sometimes lost in the smoke of conflict. Because of this I would like to take up a few of the questions now to facilitate an impartial evaluation of the program.

QUESTION: Why did the administration undertake a revision of farm policy in an election year?

ANSWER: The existing program of rigid price supports was not working and was heading toward inevitable collapse. It was distorting our agricultural economy, piling up unnecessary surpluses, restricting our markets, tightening government controls on farmers and failing to maintain farm income. To have permitted this situation to continue would have been dereliction of duty. Something had to be done. The President had the courage and foresight to do it.

Price Stabilization

QUESTION: What effect will the program have on farm prices?

ANSWER: It is impossible to tell exactly. We do know that the old program failed to prevent a serious decline in farm prices. We also know that the principal factors in farm prices, as in all others, are supply and demand. The new pro-

U.S. Puts Big Supersonic Bomber Into Production

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Air Force said today it has ordered initial production of the Convair B58 medium bomber, designed to fly faster than the speed of sound.

It disclosed also the placing of a production contract for the Lockheed F104 lightweight fighter, intended to beat down enemy fighters protecting a battle area.

The announcements were made by Harold E. Talbott, secretary of the Air Force, along with a series of other new orders or reorders for planes and engines which he said raised to $1,200,000,000 the value of Air Force contracts placed since July 1.

He did not give either the number or the cost of the planes ordered.

The B58 is understood to be a delta-shaped wing plane and probably to be powered with new jet engines developing twice the power of any American engine now in operation. The most powerful now has about 10,000 pounds thrust.

It is intended eventually to supersede the swept-wing Boeing B47 medium bomber. Talbott said last spring the Air Force planned to "spend about 100 million dollars annually in the development of a new bomber" to replace the B47.

In the same address he said that in the development program were jet ehgines of almost 25,000 pounds thrust. Included among new orders announced today was one for Pratt and Whitney YJ75 engines, possibly the type intended for use in the supersonic B58 bomber.

Talbott also said, without stating either the quantity or the money value, that the Air Force has increased its orders and stepped up production of the Boeing B58 heavy bomber and increased the order for North American F100s.

He also spoke of prior activities as a Communist between 1937 and 1939, before he left the party because of a conviction that it was "dedicated to overthrow of the government by force and violence."

College Professor Named

Asked to name persons who "to your certain knowledge were members of the Communist party," Thomas reeled off a long list, sometimes referring to a typewritten sheet.

Among others, he mentioned Ted Norton, identified as a professor at Lafayette College in Easton, Pa. and a wartime member of the War Manpower Commission. He said Norton was a member of the party's Lehigh Valley section.

Haiti Reports Say Hurricane Killed Scores

'Hazel' Said To Have Virtually Swept City Of Jeremie Into Sea

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 13 (AP)—Unofficial reports said today Hurricane Hazel razed whole towns, killed or injured hundreds and caused untold damage in its sweep across Haiti's southwestern peninsula.

The only official report to come through after last night's storm said two were known dead at Aux Cayes, largest city in the stricken area. Earlier unofficial reports had put the causalties there at 200 dead and 350 injured.

Other unofficial reports said Jeremie, the peninsula's second largest city, was almost swept into the sea, with 200 dead and injured. There was no breakdown of these casualties.

The hurricane, its force somewhat blunted as it passed between the Haitian and Cuban mountains bordering the Windward Passage, headed into the Southeastern Bahamas today.

Aux Cayes, which has a population of 71,000, is the third largest city of this island republic, ranking after only Port au Prince and Cap Haitien. It is a bustling seaport for export of sugar, rum, coffee, cocoa, and rice.

Little was reported left of Jeremie, with a population of 11,000 and with 57,000 living close by. Jeremie is on the northern coast about 130 miles west of Port au Prince.

Two men who crossed mountains near Jeremie today said the hurricane blew the sea into the city and swept away all smaller structures. A prison hospital was demolished, the homes of Roman Catholic sisters and priests were washed into the sea, and the Custom House and bank were damaged.

Tropical Blow Curves Toward U. S. Mainland

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 13 (AP) —Hurricane Hazel, regaining strength after thrashing through Haiti, curved toward the north northwest late today, in the general direction of the American mainland.

The storm was headed for San Salvador, midway in the Bahamas Islands chain, and traveling in a direction between North and northwest. It was about 500 miles southeast of Miami.

Aircraft encountered winds of just under 100 miles per hour in the storm's northeast quadrant, the Miami Weather Bureau said in a 5 p.m. advisory.

At that time it was centered near latitude 22.4 north, longitude 73.5 west or about midway between the islands of Mayaguana and Acklins in the southeastern Bahamas.

Piping Error Found In A-Sub Prototype

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission said tonight that the same kind of defective piping that caused an explosion in the first atomic submarine, the USS Nautilus, has been found in the land-based prototype for a second submarine.

The second prototype is being built at West Milton, N. Y., by the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamics Corp., the firm which built the Nautilus at Groton, Conn.

The AEC said the company has accepted responsibility for what it called the error in the second prototype and is now replacing the piping at its own expense.

Flood Disaster Area

DENVER, Oct. 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower today declared the Pecos River region of New Mexico, which was hit by floods, as a major disaster area eligible for federal aid.

Wilson Arrives For GOP Dinner

Beall Declares Coffee Trading Controls Needed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Sen. Beall (R-Md) said today a new effort will be made in the next Congress to require federal regulation of coffee trading.

Gustavo Lobo Jr., president of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange where most of the trading is done, said his organization will continue to oppose such regulation, contending it would be both unnecessary and ineffective.

They spoke out as a Senate Banking subcommittee which Beall heads completed two days of hearings into the situation which brought sharp increases in coffee prices early this year.

House Derailed Plan

The Senate voted twice at the last session to put the Exchange under supervision of the Agriculture Department's Commodity Exchange Authority, but the House did not approve.

Douglas B. Bagnell, the CEA's director of compliance, testified as the last witness at the hearing. Asked whether he thought his agency could handle supervision of coffee trading, he said the Agriculture Department has repeatedly recommended such legislation.

Special Problems

He conceded, however, that coffee would present some special problems because all supplies are imported and many traders live outside this country.

Both Beall and Sen. Payne (R-Maine), who attended the hearings, told newsmen they considered federal regulation necessary to prevent abuses which might result in unfairly high prices for coffee. Beall said he thought the full Banking Committee would approve the plan, and that legislation would be ready for introduction when the new Senate meets.

Northeast Swelters; Wyoming Has Snow

[By The Associated Press]

The Northeastern United States sweltered in the second day of an autumn heat wave Wednesday but snow fell in Eastern Wyoming.

The mercury zoomed to 85 degrees in New York, breaking a 75-year heat record for the date. Newark, N.J., reported 88, a 14-year record, and Boston 86, only one degree shy of a 24-year record for the date. Washington, D. C., had 89.

Liquor Sellers Will Pay Father Of Crash Victim

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 13 (AP)—Two establishments which sold liquor to a driver subsequently involved in a fatal accident agreed today to pay $22,000 to the man whose daughter was killed.

Joyce Rebstock, 19, died last Nov. 1 when the car in which she was riding collided with another driven by Larence K. Cole, 25.

Her father, John Rebstock, sued a lodge of the Polish National Alliance and a restaurant, accusing them of contributory negligence in selling liquor to Cole before the accident.

The settlement was reached out of court after a four-day trial.

A-Plant Dispute Still Deadlocked

DENVER, Oct. 13 (AP)—A Board of Inquiry looking into a labor dispute at atomic energy plants in Tennessee and Kentucky has reported formally to President Eisenhower that a deadlock still exists.

The Denver White House today made public an Oct. 11 report by the board set up under the Taft-Hartley law.

On Aug. 11 the government obtained an 80-day injunction under the Taft-Hartley law to block a threatened strike at atomic plants in Oak Ridge, Tenn., and at Paducah, Ky.

The dispute involved about 4,000 men at Oak Ridge and 700 at Paducah.

On Oct. 4 Eisenhower ordered the board back into session for a new report.

Burial Service Held For Justice Jackson

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 13 (AP)—The body of Justice Robert H. Jackson was laid to rest today beside those of his parents in a peaceful little cemetery near this home city of his childhood.

A brief service was conducted privately amid the brilliant fall foliage in Maple Grove cemetery at nearby Frewsburg.

Earl W. Warren, the Chief Justice of the United States, and his seven remaining Supreme Court associates, were present as honorary pallbearers. The active bearers were representatives of the Jamestown Bar Assn. which Jackson once served as president.

Big-Power Talks On Disarmament Backed By West

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 13 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France joined Canada today in a call for a big-power group to tackle disarmament problems once more after the long-standing deadlock has been aired fully in the U. N. General Assembly.

They took a stand against a Philippine resolution which would have set Nov. 15 as a deadline for a report from the proposed big power group to the Assembly's political committee. That suggestion was made yesterday by the new Philippine delegate, Felixberto Serrano, without consultation with the big powers here. Western delegates said no real report could be made in such a short time.

Canada Urges Private Talks

Paul Martin, Canadian minister of health and welfare, told the Political Committee Canada believed the disarmament negotiations should be carried on in private, without the searching glare of publicity, just as the talks had been conducted in London last spring.

He proposed that the group be the same as the London conference—the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Soviet Union. It would work under the 12-nation U. N. Disarmament Commission rather than under the auspices of the Political Committee as Serrano proposed.

No Deadline Fixed

Martin did not fix any deadline for a report from the group but indicated the negotiations should be as thorough as possible.

After some spirited procedural talk in the committee, Serrano decided not to press for an immediate vote on his proposal but to wait until all resolutions are voted on at the end of the general debate, which is just beginning.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet delegate, expressed sympathy with the Canadian resolution but said he would have to study it.

Defense Chief Says That He Made Mistake

Secretary Declares 'Dog' Tale Distorted By 'Left-Wing' Foes

CHICAGO, Oct. 13 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said tonight "I am sorry I made inept remarks" about dogs while talking about unemployed workers.

Those remarks, he declared in a speech at a Republican fund-raising dinner, "were distorted by our left wing opponents."

Saying he wanted to "set the record straight," Wilson told his audience that even Republican Gov. William Stratton of Illinois was "disturbed by some incomplete press reports of some recent remarks I made in Detroit."

Stratton earlier today issued a statement urging that the secretary's Chicago speech be canceled because of Wilson's reference in Detroit to bird dogs which hunt for their food and kennel dogs which "sit on their fanny and yell."

Governor Changes Mind

An aide said at the time that Stratton would boycott the dinner. However, the governor announced later in the day that he not only would attend but would introduce Wilson.

"In the first place," Wilson said, "I admit that I made a mistake—an unfortunate mistake—bringing up those bird dogs at the same time I was talking about people. There are times when my remarks get me into trouble—especially in political matters—and I seem to be in trouble now.

"The way my remarks were distorted by our left wing opponents certainly looks terrible in print. I admit that.

"So, right here, right now, I want to say to the American people that I am sorry I made inept remarks which were subject to misinterpretation.

Sympathizes With Labor

"But there is one thing that I will not do, one thing that I know you would not want me to do. It is this: I will not let our political assailants get away with the charge that I am unsympathetic with the problems of workmen or that the vicious interpretation they have put on my statements represent in any manner my feelings for or philosophy toward the working men and women of this country."

The secretary said that the Democrats have "very little to talk about" in the campaign for control of Congress in the November elections.

So, he added, "They pick up and exaggerate all out of proportion inadvertent remarks that unfortunately have been made.

"They have done this to me. Even some Republicans, including your illustrious governor, were disturbed by some incomplete press reports of some recent remarks I made in Detroit."

He said "in fairness to them and to the world" he felt he should "set the record straight."

Train Hurls Truck Into Station Killing 3

MANTECA, Calif., Oct. 15 (AP)—A passenger train hit a truck-trailer at a crossing here today, knocked the vehicle into the railroad station and killed three men.

The victims were station clerk Glenn A. Thomas of Tracy, telegraph operator Lloyd Stuart, Stockton, and the truck driver, Duck Barton of Banta, Calif.

The train was Southern Pacific's West Coast.

U.S. Puts Big Supersonic Bomber Into Production

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Air Force said today it has ordered initial production of the Convair B58 medium bomber, designed to fly faster than the speed of sound.

It disclosed also the placing of a production contract for the Lockheed F104 lightweight fighter, intended to beat down enemy fighters protecting a battle area.

The announcements were made by Harold E. Talbott, secretary of the Air Force, along with a series of other new orders or reorders for planes and engines which he said raised to $1,200,000,000 the value of Air Force contracts placed since July 1.

He did not give either the number or the cost of the planes ordered.

The B58 is understood to be a delta-shaped wing plane and probably to be powered with new jet engines developing twice the power of any American engine now in operation. The most powerful now has about 10,000 pounds thrust.

It is intended eventually to supersede the swept-wing Boeing B47 medium bomber. Talbott said last spring the Air Force planned to "spend about 100 million dollars annually in the development of a new bomber" to replace the B47.

In the same address he said that in the development program were jet ehgines of almost 25,000 pounds thrust. Included among new orders announced today was one for Pratt and Whitney YJ75 engines, possibly the type intended for use in the supersonic B58 bomber.

Talbott also said, without stating either the quantity or the money value, that the Air Force has increased its orders and stepped up production of the Boeing B58 heavy bomber and increased the order for North American F100s.

The Administration Reports

Benson Calls Goal Greater Freedom For Farmers To Plan

This is another in a series of articles by top executives in the Eisenhower administration offered by the New York Herald Tribune Syndicate to some 1,600 daily newspapers throughout the country as a public service. The articles are designed as mid-term reports to the American people on the administration's accomplishments and plans.

By EZRA TAFT BENSON
Secretary of Agriculture

In the extended discussion of farm policy this year, many key questions were raised. They ranged from the effect of the administration program on the nation's economy to what influence it might have on this fall's Congressional elections.

The answers were sometimes lost in the smoke of conflict. Because of this I would like to take up a few of the questions now to facilitate an impartial evaluation of the program.

QUESTION: Why did the administration undertake a revision of farm policy in an election year?

ANSWER: The existing program of rigid price supports was not working and was heading toward inevitable collapse. It was distorting our agricultural economy, piling up unnecessary surpluses, restricting our markets, tightening government controls on farmers and failing to maintain farm income. To have permitted this situation to continue would have been dereliction of duty. Something had to be done. The President had the courage and foresight to do it.

Price Stabilization

QUESTION: What effect will the program have on farm prices?

ANSWER: It is impossible to tell exactly. We do know that the old program failed to prevent a serious decline in farm prices. We also know that the principal factors in farm prices, as in all others, are supply and demand. The new pro-

Government Claims Judge 'Prejudiced' In Lattimore Favor

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The government, in a rare action, today accused U. S. District Judge Luther W. Youngdahl of having "a fixed, personal bias and prejudice" in favor of Owen Lattimore.

U. S. Atty. Leo A. Rover said in an affidavit that the judge "has a fixed opinion" that Lattimore, controversial Far Eastern specialist, is innocent of the perjury charges pending against him.

Rover, although expressing full confidence in Youngdahl's integrity, asked the judge to disqualify himself from any further official connection with the Lattimore case. Lattimore's attorneys served notice they would oppose the request, which they called "scandalous."

Justice Department officials said it was "unusual but not unprecedented" for the government to accuse a judge of bias and prejudice. It is not rare for defense attorneys to file such affidavits.

Youngdahl declined to comment.

He is a former three-term Republican governor of Minnesota and a former judge of the state's Supreme Court. He was named to the federal bench by former President Truman. Some political observers viewed the appointment as inspired by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) to remove Youngdahl, a powerful vote getter, from the Minnesota political arena.

Court officials said it was up to Youngdahl to decide whether to remove himself.

Lattimore has twice been indicted on perjury charges growing out of 12 days of testimony before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee early in 1952.

Judge Youngdahl threw out four of the seven counts of the original indictment against Lattimore and expressed serious doubt as to the materiality of the remaining three.

The U. S. Court of Appeals subsequently reinstated two counts dismissed by Youngdahl but upheld his throwing out the key charge.

A new two-count indictment returned last week in effect replaced the key count of the original indictment. It alleged Lattimore falely testified that he had never been a follower of the Communist party line or a promoter of Communist causes. The new indictment did not use the word "sympathizer," which the courts called invalidly vague.

Man With Skull Fracture Jailed

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—A 69-year-old janitor, who spent part of Tuesday in jail because he was thought to be intoxicated, was in Mercy Hospital today in critical condition with a skull fracture.

John Glaser, the janitor, did not show up today to answer the charge of drunkenness.

Patrolman Harry J. Kaplan explained the situation to Chief Magistrate William F. Laukitis this way:

Kaplan went to Park Avenue and Mulberry Street early yesterday when he saw a crowd gathered about a man sitting on the sidewalk, leaning against a building wall.

Kaplan said an ambulance crew refused to take the man to the hospital, declaring he was intoxicated. He said they asked that the man be taken to jail.

Kaplan said the man answered questions intelligently. But he called a patrol wagon and had him taken to jail.

Power Pact Not Made In Secret, Nixon Declares

LOS ANGELES, Oct.13 (AP)—Vice President Nixon, replying to "loose and generally erroneous talk by the anti-Eisenhower administration spokesmen concerning the Dixon-Yates contract," today denied it was made in secret and was not subject to competitive ing.

In a statement issued through local GOP headquarters Nixon said he thought a "brief summary of the facts of the case might be helpful."

The vice president termed "patently false" criticism that the contract was made in secrecy.

"There was public notice of the proposal in the President's budget message last January, it was again publicized in June, and full details were made available in August," he said.

Of charges that there was no competitive bidding, he said:

"This is a phoney charge because under established procedures electric power is not procured by competitive bidding. Both industry and the government normally negotiate power contracts with suppliers which have the capacity and geographic suitability to provide it. Both the TVA and Interior Department have followed this practice for years."

"Brains" Of $190,000 Holdup Is Convicted

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—A federal jury today convicted Ronald Martin, 22, on two counts growing out of a $190,000 bank holdup in August 1953.

Martin, alleged "brains" of the job, did not personally take part in the robbery. He was found guilty of armed robbery and conspiracy.

He faces up to 25 years on the first count and 5 on the second. The victim was a Floral Park branch of the Franklin National Bank.

George P. McKinney, 27, who pulled off the robbery single-handed, and Clifford Oberkirch, the bank's head bookkeeper, pleaded guilty and testified against Martin.

Defense Chief

Wilson said statements by political opponents that he doesn't sympathize with labor "could not be further from the truth," adding:

"Their phony political charges are completely the insinuations that come from desperate political enemies. Actually, I'll match my labor records with anybody in this nation, and that goes for partisan politicians, labor leaders or anyone else. . . .

"I know what it is to work for a living."

Wilson spoke to a capacity crowd in the ballroom of the Conrad Hilton Hotel. His listeners paid $100 for a $5 dinner, with the balance going into the Republican campaign kitty.

As Wilson spoke, 35 pickets, identified as members of CIO unions, paraded outside the hotel carrying placards referring to the secretary's dog remarks.

When he stepped off a plane from Detroit this afternoon, Wilson described as "foolish" a reporter's question whether he would resign as a result of the dog controversy.

Governor Stratton was not at the airport to greet the secretary, but other Illinois GOP leaders were on hand.

"Canine" That Bit Defense Chief Has Barked Before

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The political baying and howling over Secretary of Defense Wilson's bird dog vs. kennel dog remarks has been heard before in American history. And not too long ago.

Wilson got himself into hot water earlier this week by using a doggy figure of speech during a discussion of unemployment. He said he had a lot of sympathy for people caught by sudden joblessness, but "I've always liked bird dogs better than kennel-fed dogs myself—you know, one who'll get out and hunt for food rather than sit on his fanny and yell."

Since then the secretary has said with great emphasis (1) he wasn't intending to compare anybody with a dog, and (2) he meant no lack of sympathy for the jobless. But the uproar continues, as discordant as a dog pound with a cat show next door.

Dogs have a way of getting into politics.

Vice President Nixon brought his cocker spaniel into the 1952 campaign. Nixon had been under fire from the Democrats over his finances. The candidate and his wife made a now-celebrated television appearance in which Nixon declared he never took a dime that was not properly his.

He did, though, Nixon acknowledged, accept a black and white dog from a Texan on behalf of his children. The kids named it Checkers, he said, and added:

"The kids love the dog and I just want to say this right now, that regardless of what they say about it, we're going to keep it."

Nixon took a lot of kidding about Checkers. But he stayed on the Eisenhower ticket which went on to win the election.

Franklin D. Roosevelt made similar use of his dog—his scottie, Fala. In 1944, running for reelection with Thomas E. Dewey hard behind, the World War II President brought a nationwide roar of laughter with a passage about Fala in a Boston speech.

The Republicans, said Roosevelt, were spreading a phoney story about Fala's being left behind in the Aleutians when the President was visiting there, and about a destroyer's going back to fetch him at a cost of two or three million dollars.

"Fala resents this. His Scotch soul was furious," Roosevelt said. "I am accustomed to hearing malicious falsehoods about myself, but I think I have a right to object to libelous statements about my dog."

President Truman kept out of dog troubles by keeping away from dogs, though he once wrote a letter saying "I wouldn't appoint John L. Lewis dog catcher." An admirer once sent Truman a dog but the President turned it over to his doctor, who liked dogs better.

In platform appearances, Maryland's Republican Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin points to a dog in a picture of his family and tells audiences with a big grin:

"If I don't get reelected, I'll have to sell that dog. I don't make enough money to feed him."

Nehru Seen Staying In Office Six Months

NEW DELHI, India, Oct. 13 (AP)—Political observers predicted tonight that Prime Minister Nehru will stay in office for at least six months.

Nehru told state leaders of his governing Congress party in a monthly letter earlier today he felt stale after seven arduous years as Prime Minister and party president and would like to relinquish his "present routines" in order to regain his "freshness."

But he made it clear he does not "propose to act in a hurry" and is not thinking "in terms of final and irrevocable decisions."

Dog Food Distributed

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 13 (AP)—Members of the CIO United Steelworkers Union stood outside the local office of the state employment service today and handed cans of dog food to persons entering the building.

The name of the dog food was "Wilson's."

Sparkman Sees Censure Voted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) predicted today the Senate will vote censure of Sen. McCarthy "within a week or 10 days" after convening Nov. 8.

Sparkman, just back from a two-month tour of Europe, said he is not "prejudging the issues, but I was terrifically impressed with the fact that six of our able senators came up with a unanimous report."

The six-man bipartisan committee headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) recommended unanimously Sept. 28 that the Senate censure McCarthy on findings that he had been contemptuous of a Senate Elections subcommittee which investigated him in 1952; had used "vulgar" language in criticizing a subcommittee member; and had engaged in "inexcusable" abuse of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker.

The first train robbery in the United States occurred in 1868, near Seymour, Ind.

London's Dock Strike Spreads; Bus Drivers Quit

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The London dock strike spread today to two other major British ports—Southampton and Glasgow. In a second critical labor dispute 1,100 of London's red double-decked buses rumbled to a halt.

The two strikes directly affected some 38,500 men, crippled the country's vital shipping industry and held up thousands of London's commuters.

These were the latest developments in Britain's troubled labor scene:

1. More than 2,000 Southampton longshoremen walked out in a one-day work stoppage to support about 30,000 London waterfront strikers.

2. A thousand Glasgow dockers suddenly stopped working ships in a dispute over pay for unloading a cargo of old bones destined for fertilizer. Later tonight, Michael Byrne, the dockers' leader, said the men would resume work tomorrow and attempt to resolve the dispute.

3. About 5,500 London bus drivers and conductors struck, idling 1,100 buses because of trouble growing out of overtime work.

In London alone, 125 ships were idle. At least 15 ships were affected in Southampton and another 17 were not being worked in Glasgow.

The driver-conductor strike idled about one-seventh of London's 7,600 buses. The city's vast "underground" (subway) network still operated.

During rush hours, long lines formed at underground ticket booths as commuters who ordinarily depend on bus service took the only other transportation available.

Thousands of city workers streamed across London bridge on foot. Others rode bicycles.

Workers End Plant Sitdown

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Several score workers today ended a 14-day sitdown inside the Brooklyn plant of the American Safety Razor Corp. The strike continued, however.

The company claimed only 65 employes took part in the sitdown. The striking United Electrical Workers (IND) set the figure at 150.

The sitdowners fed and entertained themselves inside the plant for two weeks while fellow-employes picketed on the streets outside.

The company plans to move to Staunton, Va. It reached agreement with the union on severance pay and pension details for those of its 1,400 employes who don't want to leave Brooklyn.

However, the company demanded as a condition of such an agreement that the union stop campaigning against the transfer. The union then struck, calling this a company device to break the severence-pension pact.

TO THE SENATORS and CONGRESSMEN

of the United States, I ask you do not censure Senator McCarthy, but give him credit and praise for what he tried to do and did do.

Government Claims Judge 'Prejudiced' In Lattimore Favor

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The government, in a rare action, today accused U. S. District Judge Luther W. Youngdahl of having "a fixed, personal bias and prejudice" in favor of Owen Lattimore.

U. S. Atty. Leo A. Rover said in an affidavit that the judge "has a fixed opinion" that Lattimore, controversial Far Eastern specialist, is innocent of the perjury charges pending against him.

Rover, although expressing full confidence in Youngdahl's integrity, asked the judge to disquality himself from any further official connection with the Lattimore case. Lattimore's attorneys served notice they would oppose the request, which they called "scandalous."

Justice Department officials said it was "unusual but not unprecedented" for the government to accuse a judge of bias and prejudice. It is not rare for defense attorneys to file such affidavits.

Youngdahl declined to comment.

He is a former three-term Republican governor of Minnesota and a former judge of the state's Supreme Court. He was named to the federal bench by former President Truman. Some political observers viewed the appointment as inspired by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) to remove Youngdahl, a powerful vote getter, from the Minnesota political arena.

Court officials said it was up to Youngdahl to decide whether to remove himself.

Lattimore has twice been indicted on perjury charges growing out of 12 days of testimony before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee early in 1952.

Judge Youngdahl threw out four of the seven counts of the original indictment against Lattimore and expressed serious doubt as to the materiality of the remaining three.

The U. S. Court of Appeals subsequently reinstated two counts dismissed by Youngdahl but upheld his throwing out the key charge.

A new two-count indictment returned last week in effect replaced the key count of the original indictment. It alleged Lattimore falely testified that he had never been a follower of the Communist party line or a promoter of Communist causes. The new indictment did not use the word "sympathizer," which the courts called invalidly vague.

Man With Skull Fracture Jailed

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—A 69-year-old janitor, who spent part of Tuesday in jail because he was thought to be intoxicated, was in Mercy Hospital today in critical condition with a skull fracture.

John Glaser, the janitor, did not show up today to answer the charge of drunkenness.

Patrolman Harry J. Kaplan explained the situation to Chief Magistrate William F. Laukitis this way:

Kaplan went to Park Avenue and Mulberry Street early yesterday when he saw a crowd gathered about a man sitting on the sidewalk, leaning against a building wall.

Kaplan said an ambulance crew refused to take the man to the hospital, declaring he was intoxicated. He said they asked that the man be taken to jail.

Kaplan said the man answered questions intelligently. But he called a patrol wagon and had him taken to jail.

Power Pact Not Made In Secret, Nixon Declares

LOS ANGELES, Oct.13 (AP)—Vice President Nixon, replying to "loose and generally erroneous talk by the anti-Eisenhower administration spokesmen concerning the Dixon-Yates contract," today denied it was made in secret and was not subject to competitive ing.

In a statement issued through local GOP headquarters Nixon said he thought a "brief summary of the facts of the case might be helpful."

The vice president termed "patently false" criticism that the contract was made in secrecy.

"There was public notice of the proposal in the President's budget message last January, it was again publicized in June, and full details were made available in August," he said.

Of charges that there was no competitive bidding, he said:

"This is a phoney charge because under established procedures electric power is not procured by competitive bidding. Both industry and the government normally negotiate power contracts with suppliers which have the capacity and geographic suitability to provide it. Both the TVA and Interior Department have followed this practice for years."

"Brains" Of $190,000 Holdup Is Convicted

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—A federal jury today convicted Ronald Martin, 22, on two counts growing out of a $190,000 bank holdup in August 1953.

Martin, alleged "brains" of the job, did not personally take part in the robbery. He was found guilty of armed robbery and conspiracy.

He faces up to 25 years on the first count and 5 on the second. The victim was a Floral Park branch of the Franklin National Bank.

George P. McKinney, 27, who pulled off the robbery single-handed, and Clifford Oberkirch, the bank's head bookkeeper, pleaded guilty and testified against Martin.

Defense Chief

Wilson said statements by political opponents that he doesn't sympathize with labor "could not be further from the truth," adding:

"Their phony political charges are completely the insinuations that come from desperate political enemies. Actually, I'll match my labor records with anybody in this nation, and that goes for partisan politicians, labor leaders or anyone else. . . .

"I know what it is to work for a living."

Wilson spoke to a capacity crowd in the ballroom of the Conrad Hilton Hotel. His listeners paid $100 for a $5 dinner, with the balance going into the Republican campaign kitty.

As Wilson spoke, 35 pickets, identified as members of CIO unions, paraded outside the hotel carrying placards referring to the secretary's dog remarks.

When he stepped off a plane from Detroit this afternoon, Wilson described as "foolish" a reporter's question whether he would resign as a result of the dog controversy.

Governor Stratton was not at the airport to greet the secretary, but other Illinois GOP leaders were on hand.

"Canine" That Bit Defense Chief Has Barked Before

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The political baying and howling over Secretary of Defense Wilson's bird dog vs. kennel dog remarks has been heard before in American history. And not too long ago.

Wilson got himself into hot water earlier this week by using a doggy figure of speech during a discussion of unemployment. He said he had a lot of sympathy for people caught by sudden joblessness, but "I've always liked bird dogs better than kennel-fed dogs myself—you know, one who'll get out and hunt for food rather than sit on his fanny and yell."

Since then the secretary has said with great emphasis (1) he wasn't intending to compare anybody with a dog, and (2) he meant no lack of sympathy for the jobless. But the uproar continues, as discordant as a dog pound with a cat show next door.

Dogs have a way of getting into politics.

Vice President Nixon brought his cocker spaniel into the 1952 campaign. Nixon had been under fire from the Democrats over his finances. The candidate and his wife made a now-celebrated television appearance in which Nixon declared he never took a dime that was not properly his.

He did, though, Nixon acknowledged, accept a black and white dog from a Texan on behalf of his children. The kids named it Checkers, he said, and added:

"The kids love the dog and I just want to say this right now, that regardless of what they say about it, we're going to keep it."

Nixon took a lot of kidding about Checkers. But he stayed on the Eisenhower ticket which went on to win the election.

Franklin D. Roosevelt made similar use of his dog—his scottie, Fala. In 1944, running for reelection with Thomas E. Dewey hard behind, the World War II President brought a nationwide roar of laughter with a passage about Fala in a Boston speech.

The Republicans, said Roosevelt, were spreading a phoney story about Fala's being left behind in the Aleutians when the President was visiting there, and about a destroyer's going back to fetch him at a cost of two or three million dollars.

"Fala resents this. His Scotch soul was furious," Roosevelt said. "I am accustomed to hearing malicious falsehoods about myself, but I think I have a right to object to libelous statements about my dog."

President Truman kept out of dog troubles by keeping away from dogs, though he once wrote a letter saying "I wouldn't appoint John L. Lewis dog catcher." An admirer once sent Truman a dog but the President turned it over to his doctor, who liked dogs better.

In platform appearances, Maryland's Republican Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin points to a dog in a picture of his family and tells audiences with a big grin:

"If I don't get reelected, I'll have to sell that dog. I don't make enough money to feed him."

Nehru Seen Staying In Office Six Months

NEW DELHI, India, Oct. 13 (AP)—Political observers predicted tonight that Prime Minister Nehru will stay in office for at least six months.

Nehru told state leaders of his governing Congress party in a monthly letter earlier today he felt stale after seven arduous years as Prime Minister and party president and would like to relinquish his "present routines" in order to regain his "freshness."

But he made it clear he does not "propose to act in a hurry" and is not thinking "in terms of final and irrevocable decisions."

Dog Food Distributed

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 13 (AP)—Members of the CIO United Steelworkers Union stood outside the local office of the state employment service today and handed cans of dog food to persons entering the building.

The name of the dog food was "Wilson's."

Sparkman Sees Censure Voted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) predicted today the Senate will vote censure of Sen. McCarthy "within a week or 10 days" after convening Nov. 8.

Sparkman, just back from a two-month tour of Europe, said he is not "prejudging the issues, but I was terrifically impressed with the fact that six of our able senators came up with a unanimous report."

The six-man bipartisan committee headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) recommended unanimously Sept. 28 that the Senate censure McCarthy on findings that he had been contemptuous of a Senate Elections subcommittee which investigated him in 1952; had used "vulgar" language in criticizing a subcommittee member; and had engaged in "inexcusable" abuse of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker.

The first train robbery in the United States occurred in 1868, near Seymour, Ind.

London's Dock Strike Spreads; Bus Drivers Quit

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The London dock strike spread today to two other major British ports—Southampton and Glasgow. In a second critical labor dispute 1,100 of London's red double-decked buses rumbled to a halt.

The two strikes directly affected some 38,500 men, crippled the country's vital shipping industry and held up thousands of London's commuters.

These were the latest developments in Britain's troubled labor scene:

1. More than 2,000 Southampton longshoremen walked out in a one-day work stoppage to support about 30,000 London waterfront strikers.

2. A thousand Glasgow dockers suddenly stopped working ships in a dispute over pay for unloading a cargo of old bones destined for fertilizer. Later tonight, Michael Byrne, the dockers' leader, said the men would resume work tomorrow and attempt to resolve the dispute.

3. About 5,500 London bus drivers and conductors struck, idling 1,100 buses because of trouble growing out of overtime work.

In London alone, 125 ships were idle. At least 15 ships were affected in Southampton and another 17 were not being worked in Glasgow.

The driver-conductor strike idled about one-seventh of London's 7,600 buses. The city's vast "underground" (subway) network still operated.

During rush hours, long lines formed at underground ticket booths as commuters who ordinarily depend on bus service took the only other transportation available.

Automobile traffic in downtown London increased as many businessmen used their cars. Commuter trains to outlying districts were jammed.

Thousands of city workers streamed across London bridge on foot. Others rode bicycles.

Workers End Plant Sitdown

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Several score workers today ended a 14-day sitdown inside the Brooklyn plant of the American Safety Razor Corp. The strike continued, however.

The company claimed only 65 employes took part in the sitdown. The striking United Electrical Workers (IND) set the figure at 150.

The sitdowners fed and entertained themselves inside the plant for two weeks while fellow-employes picketed on the streets outside.

The company plans to move to Staunton, Va. It reached agreement with the union on severance pay and pension details for those of its 1,400 employes who don't want to leave Brooklyn.

However, the company demanded as a condition of such an agreement that the union stop campaigning against the transfer. The union then struck, calling this a company device to break the severence-pension pact.

TO THE SENATORS and CONGRESSMEN

of the United States, I ask you do not censure Senator McCarthy, but give him credit and praise for what he tried to do and did do.

"Complicating Angles" Again Factor In New Jersey Voting

By RELMAN MORIN

TRENTON, N. J. Oct. 13 (AP)—A veteran analyst of politics in New Jersey recently observed, "in a Jersey election, there is practically always a complicating angle."

Now, take this year—

It finds a group of Republicans, for different reasons, in furious assault on the GOP nominee for the U.S. Senate, former Rep. Clifford P. Case, a man praised by President Eisenhower.

It finds the Democratic candidate, Rep. Charles R. Howell, telling the voters he gave Eisenhower more voting support than Case gave, and during the last Congress, more than any other Democrat in the House.

Both men have been endorsed by ADA (Americans for Democratic Action) self-styled liberal political organization.

And both have attacked Sen. Joseph McCarthy, but the Republican has gone further than the Democrat in recommending action against the controversial senator from Wisconsin.

To this picture must be added that the tough - minded New Jersey voters swing in giant arcs between the parties. They gave Eisenhower a 245,000 majority in 1952, and then elected a Democratic governor, Robert B. Meyner, by 155,000 in 1953.

In both elections, of course, there were "complicating angles."

This year, the complication may turn out to be the fight between Republicans over Case's nomination.

Largely as a result of this flareup, Democrats express complete confidence that they will elect Howell. Gov. Meyner said, "maybe we should take (Vice President) Nixon's advice and begin running scared." Howell said the situation looks so good to him that "there is a danger of complacency."

Case, discounting the effects of the intra-party fight, says he expects to win again. He was elected five times to Congress by substantial majorities.

He says there is no division over him among "responsible Republicans" in New Jersey, and that he never considered "very significant" the opposition to him within the party.

Nevertheless, it brought thousands of circular letters into the state, written by Republicans, attacking his voting record in Congress. One of them says, "it is not any single individual vote of Mr. Case that is at issue but the composite of his voting record through the years."

And there was a GOP movement to put the name of former Rep. Fred A. Hartley on the ballot in November as a "write-in" candidate. Hartley recently said the proposal was impractical.

In taking himself out of the race, Hartley, co-author of the Taft-Hartley Act, said he would not vote for either Case or Howell. He predicted that "Case is going to be beaten pretty badly."

An anti-Case Republican, who asked not to be identified, said the opposition to him is based on several factors. Among them, he listed the struggle between two wings of the GOP in New Jersey — roughly represented by the former supporters of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft as opposed to the "Eisenhower Republicans" — and the pro-McCarthy elements who recoiled from Case's statement on the Wisconsin senator.

Last July 7, Case issued a statement which said:

"As a member of the U.S. Senate, I shall vote against continuing Sen. McCarthy as chairman, or as a member, of the Committee on Government Operations or any other committee with similar functions."

Democratic sources say New Jersey is one of the states where McCarthy has wide support.

Howell's situation looks eminently serene and his followers are brimming with confidence. Several factors, in the opinion of impartial observers, may be working for him. They say:

1. That the New Jersey Democratic party has had an infusion of young, enthusiastic blood in recent years. The leaders are credited with considerable political know-how.

2. Although long considered a staunch GOP state, the rapid rate of industrialization has been changing the traditional complexion, tipping the balance toward the Democrats. Others do not agree with this second point. They say the voters merely have shown an ever-stronger tendency to cross party lines and vote on men and issues.

The prison population in the United States is higher in 1954 than it has been for the past 13 years. About 3.7 per cent of the prison population is made up of women.

State's Teachers To Get Chance To Speak Piece On Segregation

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (AP)—Maryland's teachers will get a chance in the next few days to speak their piece about ending of segregation in public schools.

They also will be asked to take steps designed to speed the integration of Negroes within the Maryland State Teachers Assn.

Neither is expected to stir up any controversy in the 87th association convention which opens here Thursday morning and continues through Saturday.

The resolutions committee has this statement on school segregation ready for the representative assembly, governing body of the association:

"In accordance with the recent decision of the Supreme Court . . . which declared racial segregation in the public schools to be unconstitutional, The Mayland State Teachers Assn. believes that integration in this state should be effected in a fair and lawful manner. We recommend teachers, pupils and other citizens throughout the state cooperate in effecting this change."

The proposal is scheduled to go before the representative assembly Thursday morning. In the normal course of events, it will come to a vote Saturday morning.

The association never before has gone on record for or against segregation in the schools, although it took steps six years ago toward integration of the separate organizations of white and Negro teachers.

The MSTA, then restricted to white teachers, and the Maryland Education Assn., for Negro teachers, set up several joint committees for dealing with mutual problems.

Three years ago, the MSTA opened its membership to all teachers. It now has integrated local organizations in Allegany, Carroll, Washington, and Baltimore counties and in the Baltimore city school system.

Changes in the by-laws to be proposed to the representative assembly are designed to bring in the Negro teachers in the other 19 counties, without forcing integration at the county level.

If the proposed changes are adopted, it may grant affiliation both to the present MSTA group and the local chapter of the Maryland Education Assn.

Many Negro teachers already have joined MSTA and the bylaw changes are designed to assure them equal representation on the MSTA's advisory council, roughly equivalent to its senate, and on the representative assembly. Local groups have one representative in the assembly for every 35 members.

Byrd Continues Attack On SRC Tunnel Contract

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—H. C. Byrd continued to pound away at the State Roads Commission contract for acquiring Baltimore harbor tunnel rights today in his campaigning for the governorship.

The Democratic Party's standard bearer today issued another statement from his headquarters terming the contract "wasteful and an outrageous handout of public money to friends of the governor."

Byrd's statement was a reply to Republican Gov. McKeldin's reply to the original charge hurled by Byrd.

Under terms of the contract, the State pays about $750,000 for right of way work and coordination of the work of appraisers and engineers.

Byrd claims the contract "bristles with collusion."

He said:

"David M. Nichols (former member of the State Roads Commission connected with the firm the State is doing business with) left the commission and shortly afterward the commission made the contract with him and some others.

"Mr. Nichols was succeeded on the commission by (Bramwell Kelly) a former business associate, who then joined in the contract with Mr. Nichols.

"The whole arrangement takes on the appearance of a scheme under which Gov. McKeldin and his friends deprived the State of a fair and arms-length agreement. Under the Nichols contract, the higher the cost to the State, the greater the commissions to Mr. Nichols and others."

Byrd cited the elimination of the fee system for appraisal and negotiations on real property by the city of Baltimore in 1947.

He said the city's real estate bureau functions at an annual cost of about $30,000 per year and during its seven years of existence has acquired $20,000,000 in property at a cost of about one per cent.

He contrasted that percentage figure with the 7½ percent he said the State would be paying for acquisition of property for a tunnel across Baltimore harbor.

Byrd also claimed that the State Roads Commission has "a large staff" that could handle the job which has been let out on a contract to Nichols and his associates.

The candidate concluded:

"It is high time the contract was rescinded. It seems to me to be reprehensible, if not entirely illegal. It is exorbitant on its face."

Judge Admits Accreditation Of U. Of Md. Not Renewed

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—Judge William P. Cole today acknowledged that accreditation of the entire University of Maryland—not just the medical school—has not yet been renewed.

He added, however, he "is not the slightest bit concerned" and feels that the "University and its medical school will be fully accredited before very long."

Cole referred to the controversial, secret report on the University made by an accrediting committee of the Middle States Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The committee withheld renewal of the University's accreditation pending compliance with several suggestions it made. The accreditation formerly given to the University was not withdrawn.

An official of the Middle States Assn. said today that the university is still an "accredited" member of the association, but would not say whether there are any conditions attached to the accreditation.

Asked whether any such conditions were in effect, Taylor Jones, executive assistant to the association's commission on higher institutions said:

"I cannot answer that question. And by my refusal to answer I do not mean to imply that the answer is yes or no."

The report has become the hottest issue of the campaign for governor. H. C. Byrd, the Democratic candidate and former president of the university, released excerpts from it to defend his reign at the school.

Republicans are demanding that the entire story be told. Judge Cole is calling an emergency session of the regents later this week to discuss releasing the report.

At first, it was thought accreditation of the medical school, only, was the issue.

Judge Cole acknowledged the entire university is involved, but said today:

"The report was left open to give us a chance to comply with certain recommendations, such as a new library at College Park and higher medical faculty salaries.

"The committee couldn't come out and condemn a great university for such reasons. It merely called them to our attention and left its report open.

"We all realize that some of these improvements should be made before the committee returns to re-examine the university."

Brothers' Death Due To Food Poisoning

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP) — Dr. William V. Lovitt, deputy state medical examiner, said today a rare condition of food poisoning, called botulism, took the lives of two Howard County brothers.

The victims, LeRoy Edler, 67, and John Edler, 64, died last weekend within 33 hours of each other.

A third brother, Carroll, also in his 60's was treated at Johns Hopkins Hospital but survived.

The brothers, all bachelors, lived together on Whiskey Bottom Road in Howard County near Laurel. They canned much of their food.

Dr. Lovitt said botulism comes from improperly canned foods.

LeRoy died Friday night and John died Sunday morning.

Maryland Demos Growl At Wilson

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—Maryland Democrats joined today in the attempts to put Secretary of Defense Wilson in the political doghouse.

The baying was over Wilson's remark during a discussion on unemployment when Wilson said he prefers "bird dogs" that will ferret for food, rather than "kennel-fed dogs."

Garmatz warned "the dog will have his day" and that Republicans can only make things right by "retiring Mr. Wilson to General Motors and his kennels."

Garmatz—running for re-election against no GOP opposition—called Wilson's remark "one of the most insolent utterances and inhumanities of man to man."

The chairman of Maryland Democratic State Central Committee, T. Barton Harrington, called Wilson's remark "typical of the Republican party's re-action to the increase in unemployment which has taken place in the two years of Republican rule in Washington," adding:

"The people of Maryland will answer Mr. Wilson on Nov. 2 . . . by voting Democrat . . ."

Baltimore Air Raid System To Be Tested

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP) — Baltimore's air raid warning system of 120 sirens will get its first "surprise test" some time during the period Nov. 8, 9 and 10.

In previous tests, citizens were told the exact hour the exercise would occur. This time, the alert will come without warning at some moment during the 72-hour period.

The regional test in which Baltimore will participate is to cover seven states and the District of Columbia.

Voting Issues Are Aired At Demo Meeting

William L. Wilson, Democratic candidate for the State Senate seat held by Robert B. Kimble, Republican, and Leslie J. Clark, who seeks one of the House of Delegate seats that Allegany County Republicans have held for so many years, asked a series of pertinent questions in their talks before the Frostburg Democratic Club at a meeting Monday in the St. Michael's parish hall.

Both speakers stressed they did not expect the questions to be answered by any of their Democratic listeners, but that they hoped explanations would be attempted before the November election by Republican candidates.

Some of their questions follow:

Why is it that the County Commissioners and members of the House of Delegates, all Republicans, cannot work in harmony?

What has the Allegany County delegation, now holding office, done for their section except draw salaries?

What happened to the 'Maryland Coal for Maryland Institutions' bill?

What happened to the Georges Creek recreation area to be built in the Lonaconing section?

Why have gas and telephone rates, gasoline taxes, automobile taxes and other charges increased during a Republican administration dedicated to economies and lower taxes?

Why so much secrecy about state scholarships awarded by Senator Kimble and the county's delegates?

Scholarships Cited

Elaborating on his state scholarship question Wilson said:

"It's practically impossible to learn anything about the various scholarships Senator Kimble and the delegates are authorized to award.

"There's never any public announcement regarding scholarships that are open, and it's rare that anything is ever published when they are awarded. I doubt if anyone attending this meeting can give the name of any Allegany County student attending college on a scholarship awarded by our Republican officeholders.

"I've heard rumors that these scholarships go to relatives and close friends of these officeholders. I'm not in a position to support these rumors, but I can assure you that if I'm elected you can be certain scholarships assigned to me will not be awarded to any of my relatives.

Would Have Exams

"In fact, it will be my policy to make public announcement of open scholarships and arrange for competitive examinations to be conducted by the Board of Education or some other body. In other words, the scholarships will be awarded on merit rather than political affiliation or other personal considerations."

Clark, during his remarks, pointed out that Allegany County's Republican delegation had done little or nothing to foster legislation designed to assist Western Maryland industries or alleviate unemployment in their area.

"I can recall nothing constructive they have done during their terms," he said. "In fact, it's true that so far as the Republican state leaders are concerned the state ends at the Hancock bridge. They take Allegany County, with its heavy Republican registration for granted. They feel they can count on a wide margin in Allegany without actually doing anything to provide jobs for men and women who are willing and anxious to work."

Mrs. Virginia Dunlap, wife of Graydon S. Dunlap, Democratic candidate for sheriff who was unable to attend the meeting, also made a short talk.

Tickets Available For Demo Dinner

Tickets were made available yesterday for the Allegany County Democratic campaign dinner Saturday, October 30, in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Richard J. Stakem, campaign headquarters director, said he has tickets available at campaign offices in the Algonquin Hotel.

All of the Democratic candidates, headed by Dr. Harry C. Byrd, the gubernatorial aspirant, will be present at the county's biggest rally.

Democratic leaders met Tuesday night to further plans for the dinner and to also make arrangements for the rally last night in the Legion Home in Lonaconing.

There will be another rally in Frostburg on Wednesday, October 20, Stakem pointed out.

The "Cleaningest" Cleaner!

There's Been a Change Made in FINA FOAM

The new Triple Strength Fina Foam produces the highest level cleaning efficiency. It has a definite advantage where the resoiling of carpeting or upholstery is considered. When carpets are home cleaned, a good portion of the cleaner remains in the pile because rinsing has been omitted. Any of the new Fina Foam left in the carpet dries to a fine invisible crystalline powder which is easily removed by vacuuming. Ordinarily, soaps and some synthetic detergents leave a gummy deposit in the pile; this traps dirt and causes the carpet to resoil rapidly. The new Fina Foam does not cause the fibres to mat and on drying leaves the rugs or upholsetry fabrics with an open lofty pile. The new Fina Foam is triple strength. One gallon makes 3 gallons, so not only is it much more efficient and easy to apply, it is much less costly to use. The new Triple Strength Fina Foam is available at Rosenbaum's.

Voting Issues Are Aired At Demo Meeting

William L. Wilson, Democratic candidate for the State Senate seat held by Robert B. Kimble, Republican, and Leslie J. Clark, who seeks one of the House of Delegate seats that Allegany County Republicans have held for so many years, asked a series of pertinent questions in their talks before the Frostburg Democratic Club at a meeting Monday in the St. Michael's parish hall.

Both speakers stressed they did not expect the questions to be answered by any of their Democratic listeners, but that they hoped explanations would be attempted before the November election by Republican candidates.

Some of their questions follow:

Why is it that the County Commissioners and members of the House of Delegates, all Republicans, cannot work in harmony?

What has the Allegany County delegation, now holding office, done for their section except draw salaries?

What happened to the 'Maryland Coal for Maryland Institutions' bill?

What happened to the Georges Creek recreation area to be built in the Lonaconing section?

Why have gas and telephone rates, gasoline taxes, automobile taxes and other charges increased during a Republican administration dedicated to economies and lower taxes?

Why so much secrecy about state scholarships awarded by Senator Kimble and the county's delegates?

Scholarships Cited

Elaborating on his state scholarship question Wilson said:

"It's practically impossible to learn anything about the various scholarships Senator Kimble and the delegates are authorized to award.

"There's never any public announcement regarding scholarships that are open, and it's rare that anything is ever published when they are awarded. I doubt if anyone attending this meeting can give the name of any Allegany County student attending college on a scholarship awarded by our Republican officeholders.

"I've heard rumors that these scholarships go to relatives and close friends of these officeholders. I'm not in a position to support these rumors, but I can assure you that if I'm elected you can be certain scholarships assigned to me will not be awarded to any of my relatives.

Would Have Exams

"In fact, it will be my policy to make public announcement of open scholarships and arrange for competitive examinations to be conducted by the Board of Education or some other body. In other words, the scholarships will be awarded on merit rather than political affiliation or other personal considerations."

Clark, during his remarks, pointed out that Allegany County's Republican delegation had done little or nothing to foster legislation designed to assist Western Maryland industries or alleviate unemployment in their area.

"I can recall nothing constructive they have done during their terms," he said. "In fact, it's true that so far as the Republican state leaders are concerned the state ends at the Hancock bridge. They take Allegany County, with its heavy Republican registration for granted. They feel they can count on a wide margin in Allegany without actually doing anything to provide jobs for men and women who are willing and anxious to work."

Mrs. Virginia Dunlap, wife of Graydon S. Dunlap, Democratic candidate for sheriff who was unable to attend the meeting, also made a short talk.

Tickets Available For Demo Dinner

Tickets were made available yesterday for the Allegany County Democratic campaign dinner Saturday, October 30, in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Richard J. Stakem, campaign headquarters director, said he has tickets available at campaign offices in the Algonquin Hotel.

All of the Democratic candidates, headed by Dr. Harry C. Byrd, the gubernatorial aspirant, will be present at the county's biggest rally.

Democratic leaders met Tuesday night to further plans for the dinner and to also make arrangements for the rally last night in the Legion Home in Lonaconing.

There will be another rally in Frostburg on Wednesday, October 20, Stakem pointed out.

The "Cleaningest" Cleaner!

There's Been a Change Made in FINA FOAM

The new Triple Strength Fina Foam produces the highest level cleaning efficiency. It has a definite advantage where the resoiling of carpeting or upholstery is considered. When carpets are home cleaned, a good portion of the cleaner remains in the pile because rinsing has been omitted. Any of the new Fina Foam left in the carpet dries to a fine invisible crystalline powder which is easily removed by vacuuming. Ordinarily, soaps and some synthetic detergents leave a gummy deposit in the pile; this traps dirt and causes the carpet to resoil rapidly. The new Fina Foam does not cause the fibres to mat and on drying leaves the rugs or upholsetry fabrics with an open lofty pile. The new Fina Foam is triple strength. One gallon makes 3 gallons, so not only is it much more efficient and easy to apply, it is much less costly to use. The new Triple Strength Fina Foam is available at Rosenbaum's.

ATTENDING ANNUAL 4-H DINNER — Miss Dorothy Emerson, assistant state 4-H Club agent; Miss Eleanor Smith, president of the 4-H Trail; and Miss Justine E. Miller, assistant home demonstration agent, are shown at the 4-H Achievement Day program, Tuesday evening in the recreation room of Centre Street Methodist Church. Miss Emerson was guest speaker.

Memorial Auxiliary Expands Scholarship Fund

Mrs. Irving Millenson presided at the fall luncheon meeting of the Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, when the scholarship fund sponsored by the auxiliary was changed to include undergraduates as well as graduates.

At the meeting held in the ballroom of the Fort Cumberland Hotel yesterday, the congested condition of the nurses' home was brought to the attention of the auxiliary, which was asked to do something to alleviate having so many nurses in a room.

Routine reports were given. Mrs. H. W. Eliason served as secretary. The Pediatric department, under Mrs. William Ryan, recorded trays were decorated with little gifts for the children at Easter, Christmas and Thanksgiving. Reports also were made of the auxiliary renewing the six memberships to the YMCA for nurses; and the magazine subscriptions for the nurses home.

An appeal was made for more volunteers for the messenger service the group sponsors. Approximately 12 members were assigned their schedules for the non-clerical work. Workers are needed for Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, which are the busy days. Two women are on duty each morning from 8 until 12 o'clock. Volunteers may register for one day a month, two days a month or one day each week. Mrs. Milton Bernstein is chairman of the project.

Mrs. Milton Granet was appointed chairman of a Nominating committee. She will select two members to work with her and a slate is to be presented at the April meeting. The annual card party in January will be under the direction of Mrs. Fuller Whitworth and Mrs. Richard W. Trevaskis Jr., cochairmen of the Ways and Means committee.

Mrs. William Buchholtz was in charge of the luncheon, which was attended by 38 members.

Mrs. A. D. Lechliter and Mrs. Chester Robinette received the pearl clover award and certificates for 15 years' service as local leaders.

Speaking on a spiritual plane, Miss Emerson talked of the heart in 4-H, telling stories to illustrate her point, including the story of the Little Brown Church in the Vale.

The program, in the form of a talent show, was under the chairmanship of Dorothy Carscaden. It consisted of accordion selections by the Smith triplets, accordion selections by Nancy Vandevort, skits by the Flintstone 4-H and Winchester Road clubs, and solo dance numbers by Judy Youngblood and William Lawler, sponsored by the LaVale club.

AAUW Great Books Group Accepts List, Has Reviews

The Great Books Group of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women accepted the program of books selected by the committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. John A. Cupler II. It also decided at the meeting held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Finley Thompson, Rose Hill Avenue, that meetings will be held the first Tuesday of each month this year.

Included in the list for study are Euripides' "Medea;" "Uncle Tom's Cabin," Stowe; "Das Kapital," Marx; Virgil's "Aeneid;" Locke's "Essay on Human Understanding;" "Tristram Shandy," Sterne; Tennyson's "Idylls of the King," and Malory's "Morte Darthur."

Mrs. Cupler was chairman for the discussion when each member presented a brief resume of the best book she read during the summer. Mrs. Milton Beneman compared "Bhowani Junction" by John Masters, and "God's Country and Mine," by Jacque Barzum. In "God's Country" a Frenchman became an American citizen and was enthusiastic about the United States, calling it a true democracy in every respect and saying that every man is master of his own destiny. John Masters' book shows a whole nation's people adrift and leaderless, left with a caste system which they do not know how to overcome.

Enthusiastic about her book on Maryland, called "Crimson is the Eastern Shore," by Don Tracy, Mrs. Ralph Webster explained it has a setting of the Eastern Shore during the war of 1812. Mrs. G. Morgan Smith reviewed Igor Gouzenko, "The Fall of a Titan," comparing America with Russia and dealing with Soviet intrigue in modern Russia.

Reading from "Leaves from My Grass House," from Don Blandings' book, "My Vagabond House," Miss Dorothy Stone White chose his writing about Hawaii, where he lives.

Gilbert Highet's "Man's Unconquerable Mind" was selected by Mrs. A. J. Mirkin as the most satisfying piece of prose she had read. In it he compares American education with education in other countries. He says teachers have to be optimistic first of all, and lists three "faults" with American education, saying too much emphasis is placed on socializing the child, that education comes to a dead end when school is over education is over, and that education has to show a profit in the United States.

Mrs. Amer Suter gave a review of Andre Maurois' "Life of George Sand, Lelia," which she described as fascinating reading. Dr. Lelia Stevens found Riesman's "The Lonely Crowd" a challenging book. Mrs. W. A. VanOrmer talked of "Mary Ann," by Daphne Du Maurier, which is the story of an ambitious woman and the men she used as stepping stones. She felt it fell short of Du Maurier's other novels.

Having spent the summer in Nova Scotia, Mrs. Thompson chose Thomas Halburton's "Sam Slick," which tells of life in Nova Scotia in 1836. Dr. Carolyn Dunlap found "The Lady in the Pulpit," Laura Kerr, a worthwhile book which tells of the first ordained woman minister in the country. Mrs. A. L. Rogers told of modern South Africa as presented in "The Curve and the Tusk," by Stewart Cloete.

In reading out of Pratt Library, Baltimore, Mrs. Howard Briggs told of "Clieta" by Lafcadio Hearne and referred to "Blackboard Jungle" as being a good book. Mrs. Max Bastian, looking for humor reviewed "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," by Emily Kimbrough and Cornelia Otis Skinner. Mrs. Granville Shirley was interested in "The Captains and the Kings," by Edith Dunham Helm. Mrs. Helm was social secretary at the White House during the Wilson, Roosevelt and Truman regimes.

A study of Daniel Dafoe was made by Mrs. Cupler, notably "Ma Flanders" and "Roxanna," are early English novels depicting life among the common people of London, rather than the nobility.

Concluding the meeting refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Webster, 852 Camden Avenue, at 8 p. m. November 2, at which time Mrs. Smith will review Euripides' "Medea."

Society Plans To Send Aid To Orphans

An appeal for material and clothing was made and members of the Women's Society of World Service were reminded of the Keyser rally to be held November 2, at the meeting Tuesday evening at Bethany Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Mrs. Hale Burgess presided at the business session and led in prayer. Mrs. Beatrice Linaberg reminded the women of the Keyser rally to be held in Bethany Church November 2. Rev. Leslie Shirley, missionary to Sierra Leone, West Africa, is to be the speaker. Mrs. John E. Oliver will preside at both the 2:30 and the 7:30 sessions. A fellowship supper will be held at 6 o'clock.

The women were asked to bring material and clothing to the church to be given at the World Service Day program for Korean relief November 5.

For this year's project it was decided to send a gift to the children at the Quincy, Pa., orphanage on their birthdays.

The group sang "Bringing in the Sheaths," and routine reports were given by Mrs. Edna Knotts, the secretary of Spiritual Life, the secretary of Missionary Education and the secretary of Children's Work.

Mrs. Linaberg led the devotional program. Her worship theme was "Christ's Call to World-Wide Witnessing." The Scripture was read by Mrs. Ruth Hare and the group sang "Jesus Calls Me." Mrs. Ethel Shoemaker offered prayer and a reading, "Giving Thanks to God," was given by the leader. Mrs. Burgess recited a poem, "A Job for Me;" Mrs. Thelma Long gave a reading, "I Met God in the Morning," and Mrs. Edna Knotts, "This Is My Beloved Son." The meeting closed with the reading of the missionary covenant and prayer.

One visitor and 17 members attended.

Country Club Halloween Dance Is 30th

The annual fall costume party, sponsored by the Playground Association of the Cumberland Country Club will be held October 30.

Music will be by Peck Mills and his orchestra, playing from 10 p. m. until 2 a. m.

Customary awards will be given for the costumes.

Tickets are being mailed to the members this weekend. Additional tickets may be obtained from Mrs. John Geare, The Dingle, or from Carroll Boggs at the club.

Members of the Dance committee are Mrs. Kenneth Farrell, Mrs. Monroe Shearer and Mrs. Geare.

Nominating Committee Named By Homemakers

The Valley Road Homemakers Club named Mrs. L. H. Shafferman, Mrs. E. C. Kilroy, Miss Winifred Harper the Nominating committee, at the meeting Tuesday in the home demonstration agent's office. A vice president and secretary are to be named in November.

Reports were given by Mrs. Clarence Sweitzer and Mrs. Edgar Davis. Plans for the open house December 8 in the home demonstration office, and for the county Achievement Day program October 28 in Centre Street Church social room, were discussed.

Miss Mary Wise, county agent, and Mrs. G. Frank Malin, president of the club, demonstrated preparing and serving a quick meal.

Widening Of Pea Vine Run Road Sought

An appeal to widen Pea Vine Run Road, the connecting link between Valley and Bedford roads was made to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners at the meeting yesterday.

A delegation headed by W. Ward Wilson and David Watson presented two petitions containing the names of 75 resident of that section who use the county road.

William H. Lemmert, board president, informed the group that the next step in the procedure will be the acquisition of rights-of-way.

Buses Use Road

Wilson pointed out there are five school buses using Pea Vine Run Road each morning and afternoon.

He said for long stretches two-way traffic is not possible. Several years ago, the Bowman's Addition Fire Company truck was enroute to a fire and because of the narrowness, left the road, hit a tree with a volunteer firemen being killed, Wilson declared.

Commissioner James Holmes pointed out that in the days when he was serving on the board and WPA money was available, residents of that section refused to give the necessary land for the wider right-of-way.

Lemmert then said the procedure after filing the petition was to obtain the rights-of-way for the wider road.

After these are in, the engineering portion will be undertaken and later the work let out for contract, it was indicated.

Water Complaint

Lemmert explained that all rights-of-way must be obtained. He said in one instance, the Messick Road, over one and one-half years has been spent in acquiring the rights-of-way.

Another road condition was called to the attention of the county commissioners by Benjamin Divico of 523 Virginia Avenue.

He said his cottage located about one-quarter mile of Mill Run Road is receiving much water in rainy weather from this thoroughfare.

He requested the commissioners to look into the situation as he feared there might be considerable damage this winter.

Texan Is Killed In Fall From Train

Sidney Harold Abbott, 71, of San Antonio, Texas, was killed early Friday when he fell from the eastbound National Limited of the B&O three miles east of Paw Paw.

A schoolboy patrol member and a lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve have been killed in similar accidents in the same locale within the past several months.

Railroad officials said Abbott, traveling in a day coach with his 70-year-old wife, apparently became confused due to weariness and opened the wrong door. His body was found along the tracks at Kesler's Curve by an engineer of another train.

In the boy's death, a spokesman said, investigation established that he was a sleepwalker.

Widening Of Pea Vine Run Road Sought

An appeal to widen Pea Vine Run Road, the connecting link between Valley and Bedford roads was made to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners at the meeting yesterday.

A delegation headed by W. Ward Wilson and David Watson presented two petitions containing the names of 75 resident of that section who use the county road.

William H. Lemmert, board president, informed the group that the next step in the procedure will be the acquisition of rights-of-way.

Buses Use Road

Wilson pointed out there are five school buses using Pea Vine Run Road each morning and afternoon.

He said for long stretches two-way traffic is not possible. Several years ago, the Bowman's Addition Fire Company truck was enroute to a fire and because of the narrowness, left the road, hit a tree with a volunteer firemen being killed, Wilson declared.

Commissioner James Holmes pointed out that in the days when he was serving on the board and WPA money was available, residents of that section refused to give the necessary land for the wider right-of-way.

Lemmert then said the procedure after filing the petition was to obtain the rights-of-way for the wider road.

After these are in, the engineering portion will be undertaken and later the work let out for contract, it was indicated.

Water Complaint

Lemmert explained that all rights-of-way must be obtained. He said in one instance, the Messick Road, over one and one-half years has been spent in acquiring the rights-of-way.

Another road condition was called to the attention of the county commissioners by Benjamin Divico of 523 Virginia Avenue.

He said his cottage located about one-quarter mile of Mill Run Road is receiving much water in rainy weather from this thoroughfare.

He requested the commissioners to look into the situation as he feared there might be considerable damage this winter.

Texan Is Killed In Fall From Train

Sidney Harold Abbott, 71, of San Antonio, Texas, was killed early Friday when he fell from the eastbound National Limited of the B&O three miles east of Paw Paw.

A schoolboy patrol member and a lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve have been killed in similar accidents in the same locale within the past several months.

Railroad officials said Abbott, traveling in a day coach with his 70-year-old wife, apparently became confused due to weariness and opened the wrong door. His body was found along the tracks at Kesler's Curve by an engineer of another train.

In the boy's death, a spokesman said, investigation established that he was a sleepwalker.

Matching Fund Aiding Civil Defense Setup

Federal, state, county and city Civil Defense groups may spend a total of $24,100 in Allegany and Garrett counties under matching fund program grants during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1955.

Sherley Ewing, state Civil Defense director, said under the matching funds program, approved purchases may be made by a county if it pays only 25 per cent of the cost. Allocation to each county and Baltimore City is based on the ratio of the subdivision population to that of the entire state.

Programs eligible for federal and state contributions are warning device systems (in critical target areas), communications, medical, education or training, rescue, emergency welfare and engineering.

Under the program Allegany County's total is made up as follows: $5,700 federal; $2,850 state; $2,850 county; for a total of $11,400.

Garrett County's setup looks like this: $1,350 federal; $75 state; $675 county; for a total of $2,700.

The Allegany total is exceeded only by Baltimore City and Baltimore County with $121,200 and $34,800 respectively; Montgomery County, $21,300; and Prince George's County, $24,900.

Washington County and Frederick County, the other two Western Maryland subdivisions, can get $10,500 and $8,100 respectively.

Giant clams have been found that weighed more than 500 pounds, most of the weight being in the heavy shell.

Buchholtz Sees New Payloader Tested

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said yesterday he expects to introduce an order next Monday for purchase of a new payloader for his department.

The motorized, shovel-type machine of the McClung-Logan Company, lowest of three bidders on the equipment, was inspected Tuesday by Buchholtz and Department Clerk John Wilson in Baltimore.

Both said they were pleased with the demonstration. Buchholtz emphasizing anticipated saving which will result when the machine is put into operation here. He said not only will it speed up truck loading, save time and man hours, but will serve a dual purpose in loading of snow during the winter.

The city has had to rent a payloader from time to time at $9 an hour, the commissioner added and said the machine will pay for itself within a short time.

This is in keeping, he said, with department policy to keep operation costs low at a saving to the taxpayer.

Cost of the machine is about $7 900 under terms of the low bid. The same machine bought direct would cost $10,000, Buchholtz said.

Few Strong Issues Prop Highly Mixed Stock Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP) — The Stock Market was a mixed affair today with a few strong issues providing a much needed prop.

On average, the market advanced, thanks to bulging gains in a handful of railroads. By actual count, gains and losses were fairly evenly balanced.

Airlines also were higher and distillers were up, but otherwise the market's strength were lodged in individual issues.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 20 cents at $136.10. The advance was due entirely to the gain of $1.10 in the railroad component. The industrials were off 40 cents and utilities were down 10 cents.

There were 437 gainers and 464 losers in the list of 1,178 individual issues traded.

Royal Dutch Petroleum, up 2⅝ yesterday as the second most active issue, was 2⅜ at 70 as today's most active issue on volume of 88,700 shares. It opened on a block of 11,000 shares at 67⅞.

Tide Water Associated Oil was second up ½ at 27. It traded one block of 9,000 shares at 27.

Few Strong Issues Prop Highly Mixed Stock Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP) — The Stock Market was a mixed affair today with a few strong issues providing a much needed prop.

On average, the market advanced, thanks to bulging gains in a handful of railroads. By actual count, gains and losses were fairly evenly balanced.

Airlines also were higher and distillers were up, but otherwise the market's strength were lodged in individual issues.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 20 cents at $136.10. The advance was due entirely to the gain of $1.10 in the railroad component. The industrials were off 40 cents and utilities were down 10 cents.

There were 437 gainers and 464 losers in the list of 1,178 individual issues traded.

Royal Dutch Petroleum, up 2⅜ yesterday as the second most active issue, was 2⅜ at 70 as today's most active issue on volume of 88,700 shares. It opened on a block of 11,000 shares at 67⅞.

Tide Water Associated Oil was second up ½ at 27. It traded one block of 9,000 shares at 27.

Secretaries To See Office Equipment Display Today

An exhibit of office machinery and equipment will be open to the public today from noon to 5 p. m. as a feature of the seminar for secretaries being held here by Cumberland's Algonquin Chapter of the National Secretaries Association.

The exhibit will be held at Ali Ghan City Shrine Club, 122 South Centre Street, where the seminar is being conducted. The equipment is being displayed by local and out of town dealers and manufacturers.

Tonight's seminar session will get under way at 7 p. m. with a talk by Charles S. Catherman Jr., vice president of Catherman's Business College. He will speak on the purpose, preparation and origin of the Certified Professional Secretary program.

His talk will be followed by a demonstration by Miss Marilyn Brown, international speed typist employed by International Business Machines Corp. Her demonstration will be on "Secrets of Typing."

Highlight of the night's program will be an address on "Personal Grooming" by Miss Frances Koltun, associate fashion and merchandise editor of Charm magazine. In conjunction with her address a fashion show of typical office clothing will be presented by Rosenbaums.

The seminar will conclude with a demonstration of office equipment by the exhibitors.

Some 300 persons attended the opening session of the seminar last night, according to Miss Dorothy L. Campbell, project chairman for Algonquin Chapter. One of last night's features was a showing of "After 5" fashions by Rosenbaums.

gram will cut down the supply. It will increase the demand through expansion of markets. Therefore, it is inevitable that farm prices will be more stable than under the old surplus program. A third factor in farm income is price support. Under the new act, supports will be just as high as before as long as farmers gear their production to our needs. Therefore, it is simple arithmetic that prices can be just as high, or higher, under the new act as the old. Price alone, however, is a false gauge of farm prosperity. It is income that is important. This is made up of price multiplied by volume. The new act will increase volume.

Advantage To Consumers

QUESTION: What does the general public stand to gain through a system of flexible price supports? ANSWER: Primarily the assurance of a continuing and abundant supply of food and fiber at reasonable prices. Production will be maintained in better balance with demand through flexible supports which move upward when additional output is needed and downward when supplies become excessive. This will discourage the accumulation of huge surpluses which are costing taxpayers large sums to acquire and store. Today Commodity Credit Corporation has more than $6½ billion invested in farm price support operations. It costs $700,000 each day—one quarter of a billion dollars a year—just to store the C. C. C. inventory. In addition, this agency's actual financial losses in disposing of surpluses are heavy. Flexible price supports will save tax dollars.

Full Effects Delayed

QUESTION: Will flexible price supports mean greater freedom for farmers to make their own management decisions? ANSWER: In the long run, very definitely. For the immediate future, however, the supplies accumulated under the old program make it necessary to continue production controls on such crops as wheat and cotton. It must be remembered, too, that flexible price supports do not become effective until next year's crops are harvested. By encouraging farmers to produce for the market, rather than for storage in government warehouses, we can bring down to size some of the price-depressing surpluses which were built up through wartime price supports continued long after the emergency had ended. These excessive supplies have been accumulating over a period of years. It is also likely to take several years to work them off in domestic and foreign markets. Our goal is greater freedom for farmers in planning tomorrow's operations.

QUESTION: How does the small farmer fit into the picture? ANSWER: He received scarcely any help from the old program. In many instances the small farmer paid out more in taxes for support of the program than he received in benefits. Under the new act he will share in the general expansion of our agricultural economy as well as receive about the same level of price support. The President and I are vitally interested in the welfare of small farmers. The Department of Agriculture already has a study under way to see what can be done to make a better life for this group.

Not Party Matter

QUESTION: Is the farm program a partisan issue? ANSWER: Definitely not. Flexible price supports were enacted in 1948 and 1949 on a nonpartisan basis even though they never went into effect. There was a good deal of bipartisan support for the program approved this year—also some Republican opposition. A few people are now attempting to put a political label on the program, but even the titular head of the Democratic party recently called the old rigid supports far from perfect. We must recognize that our farm economy is too important to be treated as a political football. I think the Republican party will be stronger at the polls this November as a result of the farm legislation. Along with the President, I believe what is right is good politics. I do not think the farm vote is for sale to the highest bidder. Farmers know their best interests lie in a sound program. The administration's program of flexible supports was supported by the country's foremost farm leaders and by many of the ablest members of the Congress.

Moscow Reacts Automatically

Moscow's reaction to the London agreement on rearming West Germany was automatic. Russia does not want Western defenses strengthened to the point where the Soviet mass army will have a less intimidating effect on Europe, but Russia must always pose as the leader of the world's peace forces.

So Radio Moscow declaimed: "The nine-power conference shows that the social forces standing for peace must redouble their efforts . . . for the enemies of peace are not standing idle."

This Aesopian language needs a little decoding. "The social forces standing for peace" means Communists and their stooges. "The enemies of peace" means all anti-Communists, especially the United States. The whole message is intended to alert Communists everywhere to intensify their efforts to destroy or weaken Western unity.

If Moscow's forces for peace really wanted peace, of course, they could prove it in many ways. Perhaps it is too much to expect them to reduce their swollen armaments. But the "forces of peace" could embrace the United States' "atoms for peace" proposal, which is entirely non-military. The "forces for peace" could stop rearming East Germany. The "forces for peace" could agree to UN-supervised all-Korean elections.

The "forces for peace" could stop shooting down passenger and patrol planes over the open seas. The "forces for peace" could sign the Austrian peace treaty instead of insisting on keeping occupation armies in Austria.

Such actions as these would be steps toward real peace in the world. The "forces for peace" refuse to consider them. The "enemies of peace" urge them. It's code, all right.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Too Soft

The function of an American political campaign is not only to elect public officials but to discuss, debate, argue, fight over political issues and personalities. It is the one chance for the people to know what their elected officials have done and to hear the good and bad about them.

This has made campaigns interesting and important for the citizens. The most recent example of a worthwhile campaign was in 1948 when Harry Truman took his gloves off, rolled up his sleeves, and banged the so and so out of Tom Dewey. The American people decided that Harry Truman was their man and elected him to public office. In the current campaign, Stephen Mitchell, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, permits himself the luxury of calling Vice President Nixon a liar, which the vice president says he is not.

Now along comes Palmer Hoyt, publisher of "The Denver Post," who wants the campaigns to be refined. He wants them conducted according to ballroom manners which, in effect, would remove the issues from the electorate and be so devoid of personalities as to become meaningless. He has organized a "Fair Campaign Practices Committee" and has associated with him Barry Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier Journal, Norman Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, Gardner Cowles, publisher of Look magazine, Ralph McGill of the Atlanta Constitution and some churchmen.

These nice gentlemen want everything nice and quiet, so that national differences ". . . are tempered by an essential unity of outlook—a genuine concern for the good of our country. In the nature of things, there must be divisions on policy but there must be fair play in discussion."

Fair play for whom? For the voters? For the people? Or for politicians who want scandals covered over? They object to animus with which ". . . the American democracy, which has brought with it the greatest good to the greatest number of people in the history of the world, cannot long endure."

I do not know much about the phony word, democracy, because up to 1933, this used to be called a republic, which is a more precise term. Nor do I find that the Constitution bothers much about the greatest good for the greatest number, but it does place restrictions upon government officials while it specifies the rights of individuals. Maybe these refined gentlemen are less concerned about the Constitution than they are about how to speak softly and not hurt anyone's feelings and how to avoid disclosing corruption and subversion. But that is not what an American political campaign is for.

According to Mr. Hoyt's letter:

"One of the most hopeful movements to emerge in the present year is the Fair Campaign Practices Committee. This was signalized by the meeting in Washington of the Republican and Democratic national chairmen, Mr. Hall and Mr. Mitchell, who agreed to abide by the terms of the Fair Campaign Practices Code . . ."

The committee, for some reason, needs money to get politicians not to blast each other. Maybe that is why Mitchell calls Nixon a liar and gives the impression that there is crookedness in the Dixon-Yates contract. Why should a committee ask contributors to provide ". . . immediately a minimum of $100 (tax exempt) to its budget during the present campaign period. Your help will be greatly appreciated." Why should such contributions be tax exempt when they are for political purposes? Also, if a large sum of money comes in, how can it be spent? Are we to have billboards on our roads reciting the virtues of a prissy campaign in which the Republican will say to the Democrat: "If I don't tell on you, don't you tell on me."

Oh! Dear! Oh! Dear! We must really have become senile as Joe said of Ralph, if we cannot take a little hard-hitting in a campaign. If these gentlemen had their way, imagine what would have happened in New Jersey! Nobody would have known that the ADA endorsed both the Republican and Democratic candidates for U. S. senator and that in New York, the Democratic candidate, the junior Roosevelt, is regarded by many Republicans as somewhat to the right of the Republican candidate for attorney general, Jacob Javits.

The American way is not to hush-hush but to tell the truth, no matter who is hurt by it. Sweetness and light has its place but not in a political campaign.

Justice Jackson Promised Presidency And Top Supreme Court Seat By FDR

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The only man who was definitely promised the presidency of the United States by Franklin Roosevelt, died in the apartment of his secretary the other day. He died a somewhat embittered man.

If the promise made to Justice Robert H. Jackson had been carried out, the history of the United States might have been far different. In the first place, Roosevelt would have run for only two terms, not four. Second, our conduct of the war might have been different. Finally, Thomas E. Dewey would not have been governor of New York today.

And it will be a paradoxical twist of fate if Dewey now takes the Supreme Court seat of the man who would have been governor of New York in his stead.

It was in May 1937 that FDR called in Bob Jackson, then a crusading young assistant attorney general, and said: "Bob, I want you to sit in this chair."

The plan to put him in that chair was carefully worked out. Jackson, whose home was in Jamestown, N. Y., was to become governor of New York in 1938. From this springboard and with new York's strong delegation behind him, plus the personal backing of FDR, he was to be elected president in 1940.

Jackson Vs. Mellon

Jackson at that time was the most lustrous legal star in the New Deal crown. Also he was the least controversial. Chosen for the inconspicuous post of counsel of Internal Revenue, he had picked up the Andrew W. Mellon income-tax case where a Pittsburgh grand jury dropped it and waged a court battle against the former secretary of the treasury that ended with Mellon donating his paintings, plus the National Gallery of Art, to the nation's capital. After that, Jackson turned round and brought an anti-trust action against Mellon's aluminum corporation.

Paradoxically, the Mellons became more liberal in later years, while Jackson became more conservative. And as Bob Jackson died, the Mellon's aluminum company was sponsoring liberal commentator Edward R. Murrow while Dick Mellon was building the famed Golden Triangle for the City of Pittsburgh.

Bob Jackson was in on some of Roosevelt's most important economic strategy, such as the Holding Corporation Act, though he never felt the fusillade of big business opposition as did brain-trusters Ben Cohen and Tom Corcoran. Without opposition, he stepped from the Justice Department's tax division to the antitrust division to be solicitor general.

But when Roosevelt proposed him as governor of New York, he ran into his first road block—in the person of likable and at that time loyal Jim Farley. But Farley too wanted to be governor of New York. And when Ernest Cuneo, who was doing Jackson's New York City scouting, talked to Farley, Jim replied:

"I've just come from the President and he tells me he wants me to be governor.

Jackson's Opposition

Behind Jim Farley and against Bob Jackson was the full weight of Tammany; also Ed Flynn, boss of the Bronx, who, after Jackson's speech attacking monopolies, emitted a proverbial Bronx cheer. Exploded Flynn: "It's the worst amateur hour I've ever listened to."

And crusty old Cactus Jack Garner, then vice president of the United States, had this to say when he heard about plans for grooming Jackson: "We don't want any New Dealers heading the Democratic ticket in 1940."

So, as a compromise, Herbert Lehman ran again for governor of New York, to be succeeded later by an up-and-coming young Republican named Dewey, then under 40. And Roosevelt, with war engulfing Europe in 1939, decided to break all American historical precedents and run for a third term.

Bob Jackson, then not embittered, became attorney general, and, in 1941, associate justice of the Supreme Court. Before taking the court appointment, however, he asked Roosevelt specifically if it would interfere with another pledge FDR had made him, that he would become chief justice of the United States. FDR reaffirmed that pledge.

Roosevelt had promised Jackson the chief justiceship when plans to make him president fizzled; though later, when Charles Evans Hughes retired, Roosevelt yielded to friends and decided it was wiser to appoint Harlan Fiske Stone, Republican, an older man, as chief justice. The understanding was, however, that Jackson would succeed Stone.

Second Disappointment

Jackson was at Nuremburg, Germany, in charge of the American prosecution of Nazi war criminals when Chief Justice Stone died, and it was then that he began to get bitter. For Truman, not bound by FDR's pledges, appointed his old friend, Fred Vinson, not Jackson, as chief justice of the United States.

To Bob Jackson, who had taken the Nuremburg job not because he wanted to, but because he thought it his duty, this was the last straw. But being human, he appeared to become slightly off balance. Other men in high places in wartime have done the same.

It was at this time that he fired the uncalled for denunciation at his colleague, Justice Hugo Black, for sitting on a case in which Black's partner of 20 years ago, Crampton Harris, was attorney.

The fact that Jackson criticized his colleague from across the Atlantic when he was in no position to follow Supreme Court proceedings, indicated to friends that something had happened. Some, of course, blamed Justice Felix Frankfurter, an enemy of Black's, for needling Jackson.

But, from that time on, Justice Jackson was never quite the same Bob Jackson his friends had known before. He was nervous and not in good health.

Stephens, Brownell May Be Named To Supreme Court

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — If, as reported from Denver, President Eisenhower is planning to appoint this time someone with judicial experience to the vacancy on the Supreme Court of the United States, then Chief Judge Harold M. Stephens of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia is the logical choice.

Judge Stephens was the selection recommended for the Supreme Court by the Department of Justice when Homer Cummings was attorney general, but President Roosevelt thought he wasn't liberal enough and appointed a New Dealer. Actually, Judge Stephens, who has now been on the bench here for nearly 20 years, has made a truly great record and is widely respected by the bar of the nation, especially the judiciary. He is neither conservative nor liberal but one of those rare individuals who is intellectually honest and decides cases on their merits.

Judge Stephens happens to be a devout Catholic, and that's another consideration which — while not talked about out loud, because it is rather delicate — is often a factor just the same. President William Howard Taft appointed Edward Douglas White, a Catholic, to be chief justice. Taft was a Unitarian and won wide acclaim for his action.

An Independent Democrat

Since then, presidents have tried, when they could, to take into account that in the highest court in the land all religious faiths should be represented. Justice Butler of Minnesota and Justice Frank Murphy, former governor of Michigan, were the last Catholics to sit on the Supreme Court. When Justice Murphy died, it was generally assumed that President Truman would appoint a Catholic to the vacancy but he was reported at the time to have brushed the suggestion aside with the alleged remark that he felt under no compulsion to take religion into account. It was understood nevertheless that he was impressed with the criticism and actually promised the next vacancy to Howard McGrath, then attorney general, who is a Catholic. No vacancy occured for that pledge to be fulfilled.

Judge Stephens, moreover, is "geographically right," as the saying goes in politics. There is at present no justice on the Supreme Court from the Rocky Mountain region and Judge Stephens hails from Utah, where he served on the bench before coming to the Department of Justice as an assistant attorney general in 1933. Judge Stephens is an independent Democrat, and that's the group from which Mr. Eisenhower is seeking support nowadays.

If the President feels he must choose a jurist who originally was a Republican, then Chief Judge Orie L. Phillips of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Denver is a natural selection. He is one of the great judges of today and was up for consideration when Chief Justice Warren was appointed.

If, however, the President follows another tradition and looks to the Department of Justice, he is expected to give consideration to the appointment of his attorney general, Herbert Brownell. The following men, each of whom was an attorney general, were appointed to the Supreme Court of the United States in the last 40 years:

James McReynolds, appointed by President Wilson in 1914.

Harlan Stone appointed by President Coolidge in 1.25.

Frank Murphy appointed by President Roosevelt in 1940.

Robert H. Jackson appointed by President Roosevelt in 1941.

Tom C. Clark appointed by President Truman in 1949.

To this list might be added Solicitor General Stanley F. Reed, appointed to the Supreme Court by President Roosevelt in 1938.

No Record Vote

The dispatches from Denver saying Attorney General Brownell is "controversial," and hence shouldn't be appointed, reflect neither knowledge of the past nor fairness on the part of those who originated such an objection. For most all men who serve at the head of the Department of Justice become involved in public controversies. The late Justice Jackson, when serving as assistant attorney general, made speeches defending President Roosevelt's plan to "pack" the Supreme Court, yet it was not held against him by the Senate. His appointment to the Supreme Court was confirmed by the Senate on July 7, 1941, without even a record vote.

Just what are the "controversies" that are associated with Mr. Brownell? By order of the President, he had one of his attorneys appear for the department in the segregation case. He also made a speech last year exposing the neglect of the Truman administration to fire Harry Dexter White after receiving FBI reports pointing plainly to his contacts with the Communists. This speech was deliberately distorted by Trumanites to make it appear that Mr. Brownell attacked the loyalty, rather than the administrative efficiency, of the Democratic President.

Certainly it would be tragic irony if President Eisenhower allowed this episode to block the appointment to the Supreme Court of a man of the integrity and fairness of Herbert Brownell. The attorney general is an able lawyer. His recent speech giving due weight to both sides of the controversy over Fifth Amendment witnesses was a judicial document of true impartiality.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Every too often those government fractioneers gild the decimal point. This time they have reduced the cost of living by two per cent of the realm.

Two per cent isn't muchness. But every little helps as the old lady said when she shook the tablecloth out of the window.

This two per cent is not something you notice right away. If you didn't wear spectacles you would know you had a pimple in the back of your ear.

Twenty years ago we wrote: "In spite of the high cost of living it's worth it."

We still feel the same with accrued interest. Even though it is not now so expensive the reasons for living balance up. The calibration does not show on wall maps, thermometers or on welcome mats. It's just like a crowded bus stopping to pick up another passenger.

Incidentally, the two per cent leaves you still 98 per centum short of getting a seat in the subway. Everything is operating on the new time schedule except the fans.

We could add some et ceteras but we fear them. They have wrecked civilization. Never give the true figures on the amount of rice pudding eaten in boarding schools.

If we all pooled our two per cent bonus it would amount to a rock fall in an eye dropper.

You cannot cash it at the pay window, you cannot kick it around a 40-acre lot, it is what we call the intangibles. Like the tinkle of a cash register bell in a haunted house.

Kanabec County

By Joseph Alsop

MORA, MINN.

If you want to get an idea of the impact of the Eisenhower farm program on the politics of Minnesota, it is not a bad idea to come to Kanabec County.

This reporter came to Kanabec County with Minnesota's Republican senatorial nominee, Val Bjornson, a solid, humorous, intelligent, hard-hitting but fair-minded man who does high credit to his party.

Bjornson is an Icelander by origin, learned among other things the great Icelandic sagas; and he was chanting the sagas' bold rhythms as he pulled into this pleasant little town of Mora. From the burning Njal and Bergthora and the sheer glory of Skarphedinn's fight a thousand years ago, it was an odd transition to the pleasant, quiet, tree-shaded Mora main street.

The first stop was the office of the country weekly, where the shrewd young editor gave the statistics that posed Val Bjornson's problem. In 1952, Kanabec County gave Dwight D. Eisenhower 2,200 votes to 1,700 votes for Adlai Stevenson. But in the recent primary, when the turnout was of course smaller, there were only 908 Republican votes for Val Bjornson against 1,250 Democratic-Farmer Labor votes for Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

Shows The Trend

"I hope I'm wrong, but I'm afraid it shows the trend," said the editor. "And if this is the trend, then the cause is the cut in farm support prices. That really hurt our people here."

"Support Ike," was the Bjornson theme; and he was eloquent and effective in his plea until he came to the farm program, admitting that Secretary of Agriculture Benson had made bad mistakes, but rather lamely urging that Ike must still be supported. All the same, there was applause at the finish. After the speech came coffee and a fairly gloomy report from the Republican ladies gathered in Ed and Esther's Cafe, and then the next item on the schedule was a plowing contest.

The contest was held on a green hill in a sun-warmed landscape of neat houses and barns and still-green fields and woodlets glowing with autumn's cock pheasant colors. Twenty or more farmers had gathered for the contest, and Bjornson made his speech again, shortly, but effectively, in the interval between the plowing and the beginning of the tractor-driving. The winner of the plowing contest, a sun-burned, sinewy, quiet spoken young dairy farmer, stood on one side, listening to Bjornson with a group of his friends. His plowing success had pleased him, although he was deprecating about it—"Hell," he said, "It's like puttin' in corn. You never think you're doin' any good till it comes up." But he was not pleased by the plea for Republican votes.

"I hear," he remarked sardonically, "that Secretary Benson says the farmers are better off. I guess he means they're better off away from the farm. I'm doin' part time work in Mora right now, and have been ever since my milk price went down after the support was dropped." His friends agreed they were all in the same trouble. Finally, the winner of the plowing contest gave a wry grin, and summed up without rancor:

"Maybe it's just the evolution of farming. We're all veterans. We all wanted to be on our own. We all started family sized farms. We all did pretty well for a while. But now it's different. Maybe little fellows like us are due to be squeezed out." From the plowing contest Bjornson went to call on the county's banker, J. D., as everyone called him, a kindly, serious, older man who gave the other side of the picture. The deposits in J. D.'s bank were still increasing. His $400,000 of veteran's loans had been paid down to $150,000 without a single default. Kanabec County was "doing all right," and the only ones who were "really hurting were the farmers running four or five different notes at the bank, for a new television set, new car and new God knows what." But when J. D. asked whether the winner of the plowing contest was one of these, he answered quickly:

"God no, doesn't owe me a nickle, one of the finest young fellows in the county! Maybe it is hard on the ones who are just getting going. But don't believe everything you hear from Doc, here. He talks like the Farmers Union." Doc, who is a dentist and the Republican county chairman, was not quite so inflammatory as J. D. suggested. But he had a sheaf of statistics to show that the drop of dairy supports from 90 per cent to 75 per cent of parity had hit his constituents very hard indeed. For the owner of a small herd like the winner of the plowing contest, Doc showed a cut in cash income of about $500 a year—"and that's not any trifle," he added in a hard voice, "when you and a big family are getting on with less than $4,000 a year. I tell you, I hate to see our people working so hard and getting so little."

Sinus Trouble Begins When Ducts Become Stopped Up

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Sinuses are curious little air spaces in the skull. Not all are present at birth but the majority are well developed by the third birthday. The frontal sinuses are scarcely more than hollow spaces above the eyes. The ethmoids are more complex. Located behind the nose, they consist of a cavity honeycombed with thin walled spaces (ethmoid cells).

Sinuses are lined with the same mucous membrane as the nose and the secretions that form drain through the small ducts connecting each sinus with the nasa passageway. Trouble usually begins when the opening is plugged, preventing escape of the secretions.

Many physicians believe that ordinary nose cold is accompanied by a similar blockage in the sinuses. This complication is masked by the irritation, discharge, and stuffiness so typical of nasal infection.

After the nasal disorder has subsided the sinus infection may linger. This is more likely to happen when the septum is deviated or the inner lining of the nose is swollen sufficiently to obstruct the sinus ducts. This holds the mucous in the sinus and the retained secretions become infected.

Headache is the most common symptom of a sinus disorder. It generally is worse on arising in the morning. Pain is most severe when the frontal sinuses are involved, especially when the structures are distended wtih pus. Now and then there is no distress even though a sinus is obstructed. Apparently, pressure is not great enough to stimulate the nerve endings.

Involvement of the ethmoid sinus may produce a sense of fullness between or above the eyes. There may be a continuous nasal discharge, which increases on lying down. When lying on the right side, the right nostril becomes blocked and vice versa. Nasal discharge may affect the throat and lead to soreness, irritation, and cough.

Halitosis often is traceable to sinusitis. When one or more roots of the upper teeth become abscessed and the infection erodes into the maxillary sinus, the breath becomes unusually foul.

Some forms of sinusitis are diagnosed with a special light but X-ray is more reliable and accurate. Treatment is more or less stereotyped and includes measures that promote drainage and kill the causative germs. When allergy is responsible, more detailed studies may be needed to determine and eliminate the irritant before cure can be expected.

TOMORROW: Diet and dental caries.

MUSTARD FOR ARTHRITIS

E.A.M. writes: Recently I read that nitrogen mustard has produced remarkable results in rheumatoid arthritis. Can you give me any information in this connection?

REPLY

If you will send me the source of your information I will look up the references.

IMMUNIZATION

Mrs. T. L. writes: What age is best for vaccinating a baby and why?

REPLY

During the first year because most infants have little defense against contagious diseases. Some physicians start the procedures toward the latter part of the first six months to protect the youngster from whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, and smallpox. Booster "shots" or re-vaccinations are in order just before entering school.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Frank Sullivan says he wants to live just long enough to see a news story about a tremendously eccentric old lady who left all her vast fortune to relatives and not a cent to her beloved Pekinese dog, not to mention an item about thieves who broke into a store and rifled the cash register, which contained $24 and a $50 savings bond. "Concealed in a drawer underneath the register was a shoe box containing $7,640 in cash," continues Mr. Sullivan, "but in my story, the thieves took that, too!"

My own eight-year-old Jonathan suffered a not-too-severe attack of the measles. On the fourth day, his spirits were sufficiently revived for him to enjoy a reading of "King Arthur and His Knights," and call for his crayons and drawing board. In short order he had quite a collection of vivid pictures for us to exclaim over: his usual somewhat startling menagerie of wild animals—elephants, tigers, kangaroos, gorillas. In this set, however, there was one sharp departure from the accepted pattern. Every one of the animals had the measles.

You're Telling Me!

At a banquet in Paris one of the delicacies was a dish of stewed grasshoppers. Aitch Kay says he bet the diners got quite a kick out of that.

During the 16-day Octoberfest, residents of Munich, Germany, gulped down more than a half-million gallons of beer. Now, that's what we call really wet weather!

A new type of tomato is being developed, according to an item. Wonder if it will be baseball-shaped and sized—suitable for use during political campaigns?

Archeologists have found in a 2,400-year-old tomb the skeleton of a man clutching a coin in his hand. Apparently, he tried to take it with him.

Moscow Reacts Automatically

Moscow's reaction to the London agreement on rearming West Germany was automatic. Russia does not want Western defenses strengthened to the point where the Soviet mass army will have a less intimidating effect on Europe, but Russia must always pose as the leader of the world's peace forces.

So Radio Moscow declaimed: "The nine-power conference shows that the social forces standing for peace must redouble their efforts . . . for the enemies of peace are not standing idle."

This Aesopian language needs a little decoding. "The social forces standing for peace" means Communists and their stooges. "The enemies of peace" means all anti-Communists, especially the United States. The whole message is intended to alert Communists everywhere to intensify their efforts to destroy or weaken Western unity.

If Moscow's forces for peace really wanted peace, of course, they could prove it in many ways. Perhaps it is too much to expect them to reduce their swollen armaments. But the "forces of peace" could embrace the United States' "atoms for peace" proposal, which is entirely non-military. The "forces for peace" could stop rearming East Germany. The "forces for peace" could agree to UN-supervised all-Korean elections.

The "forces for peace" could stop shooting down passenger and patrol planes over the open seas. The "forces for peace" could sign the Austrian peace treaty instead of insisting on keeping occupation armies in Austria.

Such actions as these would be steps toward real peace in the world. The "forces for peace" refuse to consider them. The "enemies of peace" urge them. It's code, all right.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Too Soft

The function of an American political campaign is not only to elect public officials but to discuss, debate, argue, fight over political issues and personalities. It is the one chance for the people to know what their elected officials have done and to hear the good and bad about them.

This has made campaigns interesting and important for the citizens. The most recent example of a worthwhile campaign was in 1948 when Harry Truman took his gloves off, rolled up his sleeves, and banged the so and so out of Tom Dewey. The American people decided that Harry Truman was their man and elected him to public office. In the current campaign, Stephen Mitchell, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, permits himself the luxury of calling Vice President Nixon a liar, which the vice president says he is not.

Now along comes Palmer Hoyt, publisher of "The Denver Post," who wants the campaigns to be refined. He wants them conducted according to ballroom manners which, in effect, would remove the issues from the electorate and be so devoid of personalities as to become meaningless. He has organized a "Fair Campaign Practices Committee" and has associated with him Barry Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier Journal, Norman Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, Gardner Cowles, publisher of Look magazine, Ralph McGill of the Atlanta Constitution and some churchmen.

These nice gentlemen want everything nice and quiet, so that national differences ". . . are tempered by an essential unity of outlook—a genuine concern for the good of our country. In the nature of things, there must be divisions on policy but there must be fair play in discussion."

Fair play for whom? For the voters? For the people? Or for politicians who want scandals covered over? They object to animus with which ". . . the American democracy, which has brought with it the greatest good to the greatest number of people in the history of the world, cannot long endure."

I do not know much about the phony word, democracy, because up to 1933, this used to be called a republic, which is a more precise term. Nor do I find that the Constitution bothers much about the greatest good for the greatest number, but it does place restrictions upon government officials while it specifies the rights of individuals. Maybe these refined gentlemen are less concerned about the Constitution than they are about how to speak softly and not hurt anyone's feelings and how to avoid disclosing corruption and subversion. But that is not what an American political campaign is for.

According to Mr. Hoyt's letter:

"One of the most hopeful movements to emerge in the present year is the Fair Campaign Practices Committee. This was signalized by the meeting in Washington of the Republican and Democratic national chairmen, Mr. Hall and Mr. Mitchell, who agreed to abide by the terms of the Fair Campaign Practices Code . . ."

The committee, for some reason, needs money to get politicians not to blast each other. Maybe that is why Mitchell calls Nixon a liar and gives the impression that there is crookedness in the Dixon-Yates contract. Why should a committee ask contributors to provide ". . . immediately a minimum of $100 (tax exempt) to its budget during the present campaign period. Your help will be greatly appreciated." Why should such contributions be tax exempt when they are for political purposes? Also, if a large sum of money comes in, how can it be spent? Are we to have billboards on our roads reciting the virtues of a prissy campaign in which the Republican will say to the Democrat: "If I don't tell on you, don't you tell on me."

Oh! Dear! Oh! Dear! We must really have become senile as Joe said of Ralph, if we cannot take a little hard-hitting in a campaign. If these gentlemen had their way, imagine what would have happened in New Jersey! Nobody would have known that the ADA endorsed both the Republican and Democratic candidates for U. S. senator and that in New York, the Democratic candidate, the junior Roosevelt, is regarded by many Republicans as somewhat to the right of the Republican candidate for attorney general, Jacob Javits.

The American way is not to hush-hush but to tell the truth, no matter who is hurt by it. Sweetness and light has its place but not in a political campaign.

Old Tenants Reappear

Justice Jackson Promised Presidency And Top Supreme Court Seat By FDR

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The only man who was definitely promised the presidency of the United States by Franklin Roosevelt, died in the apartment of his secretary the other day. He died a somewhat embittered man.

If the promise made to Justice Robert H. Jackson had been carried out, the history of the United States might have been far different. In the first place, Roosevelt would have run for only two terms, not four. Second, our conduct of the war might have been different. Finally, Thomas E. Dewey would not have been governor of New York today.

And it will be a paradoxical twist of fate if Dewey now takes the Supreme Court seat of the man who would have been governor of New York in his stead.

It was in May 1937 that FDR called in Bob Jackson, then a crusading young assistant attorney general, and said: "Bob, I want you to sit in this chair."

The plan to put him in that chair was carefully worked out. Jackson, whose home was in Jamestown, N. Y., was to become governor of New York in 1938. From this springboard and with new York's strong delegation behind him, plus the personal backing of FDR, he was to be elected president in 1940.

Jackson Vs. Mellon

Jackson at that time was the most lustrous legal star in the New Deal crown. Also he was the least controversial. Chosen for the inconspicuous post of counsel of Internal Revenue, he had picked up the Andrew W. Mellon income-tax case where a Pittsburgh grand jury dropped it and waged a court battle against the former secretary of the treasury that ended with Mellon donating his paintings, plus the National Gallery of Art, to the nation's capital. After that, Jackson turned round and brought an anti-trust action against Mellon's aluminum corporation.

Paradoxically, the Mellons became more liberal in later years, while Jackson became more conservative. And as Bob Jackson died, the Mellon's aluminum company was sponsoring liberal commentator Edward R. Murrow while Dick Mellon was building the famed Golden Triangle for the City of Pittsburgh.

Bob Jackson was in on some of Roosevelt's most important economic strategy, such as the Holding Corporation Act, though he never felt the fusillade of big business opposition as did brain-trusters Ben Cohen and Tom Corcoran. Without opposition, he stepped from the Justice Department's tax division to the antitrust division to be solicitor general.

But when Roosevelt proposed him as governor of New York, he ran into his first road block—in the person of likable and at that time loyal Jim Farley. But Farley too wanted to be governor of New York. And when Ernest Cuneo, who was doing Jackson's New York City scouting, talked to Farley, Jim replied:

"I've just come from the President and he tells me he wants me to be governor.

Jackson's Opposition

Behind Jim Farley and against Bob Jackson was the full weight of Tammany; also Ed Flynn, boss of the Bronx, who, after Jackson's speech attacking monopolies, emitted a proverbial Bronx cheer. Exploded Flynn: "It's the worst amateur hour I've ever listened to."

And crusty old Cactus Jack Garner, then vice president of the United States, had this to say when he heard about plans for grooming Jackson: "We don't want any New Dealers heading the Democratic ticket in 1940."

So, as a compromise, Herbert Lehman ran again for governor of New York, to be succeeded later by an up-and-coming young Republican named Dewey, then under 40. And Roosevelt, with war engulfing Europe in 1939, decided to break all American historical precedents and run for a third term.

Bob Jackson, then not embittered, became attorney general, and, in 1941, associate justice of the Supreme Court. Before taking the court appointment, however, he asked Roosevelt specifically if it would interfere with another pledge FDR had made him, that he would become chief justice of the United States. FDR reaffirmed that pledge.

Roosevelt had promised Jackson the chief justiceship when plans to make him president fizzled; though later, when Charles Evans Hughes retired, Roosevelt yielded to friends and decided it was wiser to appoint Harlan Fiske Stone, Republican, an older man, as chief justice. The understanding was, however, that Jackson would succeed Stone.

But, from that time on, Justice Jackson was never quite the same Bob Jackson his friends had known before. He was nervous and not in good health.

The late Justice Jackson, when serving as assistant attorney general, made speeches defending President Roosevelt's plan to "pack" the Supreme Court, yet it was not held against him by the Senate. His appointment to the Supreme Court was confirmed by the Senate on July 7, 1941, without even a record vote.

Just what are the "controversies" that are associated with Mr. Brownell? By order of the President, he had one of his attorneys appear for the department in the segregation case. He also made a speech last year exposing the neglect of the Truman administration to fire Harry Dexter White after receiving FBI reports pointing plainly to his contacts with the Communists. This speech was deliberately distorted by Trumanites to make it appear that Mr. Brownell attacked the loyalty, rather than the administrative efficiency, of the Democratic President.

Certainly it would be tragic irony if President Eisenhower allowed this episode to block the appointment to the Supreme Court of a man of the integrity and fairness of Herbert Brownell. The attorney general is an able lawyer. His recent speech giving due weight to both sides of the controversy over Fifth Amendment witnesses was a judicial document of true impartiality.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Every too often those government fractioneers gild the decimal point. This time they have reduced the cost of living by two per cent of the realm.

Two per cent isn't muchness. But every little helps as the old lady said when she shook the tablecloth out of the window.

This two per cent is not something you notice right away. If you didn't wear spectacles you would know you had a pimple in the back of your ear.

Twenty years ago we wrote: "In spite of the high cost of living it's worth it."

We still feel the same with accrued interest. Even though it is not now so expensive the reasons for living balance up. The calibration does not show on wall maps, thermometers or on welcome mats. It's just like a crowded bus stopping to pick up another passenger.

Incidentally, the two per cent leaves you still 98 per centum short of getting a seat in the subway. Everything is operating on the new time schedule except the fans.

We could add some et ceteras but we fear them. They have wrecked civilization. Never give the true figures on the amount of rice pudding eaten in boarding schools.

If we all pooled our two per cent bonus it would amount to a rock fall in an eye dropper.

You cannot cash it at the pay window, you cannot kick it around a 40-acre lot, it is what we call the intangibles. Like the tinkle of a cash register bell in a haunted house.

Kanabec County

By Joseph Alsop

MORA, MINN.

If you want to get an idea of the impact of the Eisenhower farm program on the politics of Minnesota, it is not a bad idea to come to Kanabec County.

This reporter came to Kanabec County with Minnesota's Republican senatorial nominee, Val Bjornson, a solid, humorous, intelligent, hard-hitting but fair-minded man who does high credit to his party.

Bjornson is an Icelander by origin, learned among other things the great Icelandic sagas; and he was chanting the sagas' bold rhythms as he pulled into this pleasant little town of Mora. From the burning Njal and Bergthora and the sheer glory of Skarphedinn's fight a thousand years ago, it was an odd transition to the pleasant, quiet, tree-shaded Mora main street.

The first stop was the office of the country weekly, where the shrewd young editor gave the statistics that posed Val Bjornson's problem. In 1952, Kanabec County gave Dwight D. Eisenhower 2,200 votes to 1,700 votes for Adlai Stevenson. But in the recent primary, when the turnout was of course smaller, there were only 908 Republican votes for Val Bjornson against 1,250 Democratic-Farmer Labor votes for Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

Shows The Trend

"I hope I'm wrong, but I'm afraid it shows the trend," said the editor. "And if this is the trend, then the cause is the cut in farm support prices. That really hurt our people here."

"Support Ike," was the Bjornson theme; and he was eloquent and effective in his plea until he came to the farm program, admitting that Secretary of Agriculture Benson had made bad mistakes, but rather lamely urging that Ike must still be supported. All the same, there was applause at the finish. After the speech came coffee and a fairly gloomy report from the Republican ladies gathered in Ed and Esther's Cafe, and then the next item on the schedule was a plowing contest.

The contest was held on a green hill in a sun-warmed landscape of neat houses and barns and still-green fields and woodlets glowing with autumn's cock pheasant colors. Twenty or more farmers had gathered for the contest, and Bjornson made his speech again, shortly, but effectively, in the interval between the plowing and the beginning of the tractor-driving. The winner of the plowing contest, a sun-burned, sinewy, quiet spoken young dairy farmer, stood on one side, listening to Bjornson with a group of his friends. His plowing success had pleased him, although he was deprecating about it—"Hell," he said, "It's like puttin' in corn. You never think you're doin' any good till it comes up." But he was not pleased by the plea for Republican votes.

"I hear," he remarked sardonically, "that Secretary Benson says the farmers are better off. I guess he means they're better off away from the farm. I'm doin' part time work in Mora right now, and have been ever since my milk price went down after the support was dropped." His friends agreed they were all in the same trouble. Finally, the winner of the plowing contest gave a wry grin, and summed up without rancor:

"Maybe it's just the evolution of farming. We're all veterans. We all wanted to be on our own. We all started family sized farms. We all did pretty well for a while. But now it's different. Maybe little fellows like us are due to be squeezed out." From the plowing contest Bjornson went to call on the county's banker, J. D., as everyone called him, a kindly, serious, older man who gave the other side of the picture. The deposits in J. D.'s bank were still increasing. His $400,000 of veteran's loans had been paid down to $150,000 without a single default. Kanabec County was "doing all right," and the only ones who were "really hurting were the farmers running four or five different notes at the bank, for a new television set, new car and new God knows what." But when J. D. asked whether the winner of the plowing contest was one of these, he answered quickly:

"God no, doesn't owe me a nickle, one of the finest young fellows in the county! Maybe it is hard on the ones who are just getting going. But don't believe everything you hear from Doc, here. He talks like the Farmers Union." Doc, who is a dentist and the Republican county chairman, was not quite so inflammatory as J. D. suggested. But he had a sheaf of statistics to show that the drop of dairy supports from 90 per cent to 75 per cent of parity had hit his constituents very hard indeed. For the owner of a small herd like the winner of the plowing contest, Doc showed a cut in cash income of about $500 a year—"and that's not any trifle," he added in a hard voice, "when you and a big family are getting on with less than $4,000 a year. I tell you, I hate to see our people working so hard and getting so little."

Sinus Trouble Begins When Ducts Become Stopped Up

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Sinuses are curious little air spaces in the skull. Not all are present at birth but the majority are well developed by the third birthday. The frontal sinuses are scarcely more than hollow spaces above the eyes. The ethmoids are more complex. Located behind the nose, they consist of a cavity honeycombed with thin walled spaces (ethmoid cells).

Sinuses are lined with the same mucous membrane as the nose and the secretions that form drain through the small ducts connecting each sinus with the nasal passageway. Trouble usually begins when the opening is plugged, preventing escape of the secretions.

Many physicians believe that ordinary nose cold is accompanied by a similar blockage in the sinuses. This complication is masked by the irritation, discharge, and stuffiness so typical of nasal infection.

After the nasal disorder has subsided the sinus infection may linger. This is more likely to happen when the septum is deviated or the inner lining of the nose is swollen sufficiently to obstruct the sinus ducts. This holds the mucous in the sinus and the retained secretions become infected.

Headache is the most common symptom of a sinus disorder. It generally is worse on arising in the morning. Pain is most severe when the frontal sinuses are involved, especially when the structures are distended with pus. Now and then there is no distress even though a sinus is obstructed. Apparently, pressure is not great enough to stimulate the nerve endings.

Involvement of the ethmoid sinus may produce a sense of fullness between or above the eyes. There may be a continuous nasal discharge, which increases on lying down. When lying on the right side, the right nostril becomes blocked and vice versa. Nasal discharge may affect the throat and lead to soreness, irritation, and cough.

Halitosis often is traceable to sinusitis. When one or more roots of the upper teeth become abscessed and the infection erodes into the maxillary sinus, the breath becomes unusually foul.

Some forms of sinusitis are diagnosed with a special light but X-ray is more reliable and accurate. Treatment is more or less stereotyped and includes measures that promote drainage and kill the causative germs. When allergy is responsible, more detailed studies may be needed to determine and eliminate the irritant before cure can be expected.

TOMORROW: Diet and dental caries.

MUSTARD FOR ARTHRITIS

E.A.M. writes: Recently I read that nitrogen mustard has produced remarkable results in rheumatoid arthritis. Can you give me any information in this connection?

REPLY

If you will send me the source of your information I will look up the references.

IMMUNIZATION

Mrs. T. L. writes: What age is best for vaccinating a baby and why?

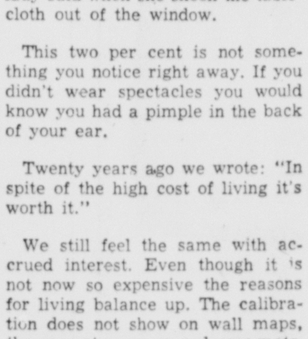

REPLY

During the first year because most infants have little defense against contagious diseases. Some physicians start the procedures toward the latter part of the first six months to protect the youngster from whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, and smallpox. Booster "shots" or re-vaccinations are in order just before entering school.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Frank Sullivan says he wants to live just long enough to see a news story about a tremendously eccentric old lady who left all her vast fortune to relatives and not a cent to her beloved Pekinese dog, not to mention an item about thieves who broke into a store and rifled the cash register, which contained $24 and a $50 savings bond. "Concealed in a drawer underneath the register was a shoe box containing $7,640 in cash," continues Mr. Sullivan, "but in my story, the thieves took that, too!"

My own eight-year-old Jonathan suffered a not-too-severe attack of the measles. On the fourth day, his spirits were sufficiently revived for him to enjoy a reading of "King Arthur and His Knights," and call for his crayons and drawing board. In short order he had quite a collection of vivid pictures for us to exclaim over: his usual somewhat startling menagerie of wild animals—elephants, tigers, kangaroos, gorillas. In this set, however, there was one sharp departure from the accepted pattern. Every one of the animals had the measles.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

At a banquet in Paris one of the delicacies was a dish of stewed grasshoppers. Aitch Kay says he bet the diners got quite a kick out of that.

During the 16-day Octoberfest, residents of Munich, Germany, gulped down more than a half-million gallons of beer. Now, that's what we call really wet weather!

A new type of tomato is being developed, according to an item. Wonder if it will be baseball-shaped and sized—suitable for use during political campaigns?

Archeologists have found in a 2,400-year-old tomb the skeleton of a man clutching a coin in his hand. Apparently, he tried to take it with him.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS) — Around the world in 80 seconds:

Vienna — Imitation may be the sincerest form of flattery, but when the Cominform goes to the trouble and cost of trying to duplicate an existing international organization like the World Veterans Federation, a lot more than flattery is involved.

The WVF for the past five years has been increasingly successful in winning the spirit of veterans all over the world to the cause of peace with freedom. It has in its fold 112 different vet organizations (doesn't include the American Legion) from 25 countries, including a number of one-time enemies. The fourth largest non-governmental organization in the world, has 18,000,000 members on its rolls, active and otherwise, and has been given its biggest lift through American leadership.

Former PT-boat Commander Alfred Gwynn Vanderbilt is a leading figure, as is Harold Russell, the handless boy in Sam Goldwyn's "Best Years." President Eisenhower has endorsed its aims.

The fifth general assembly of the federation will be held in Vienna November 29 through December 5. The Reds have formed something called the "European Federation of Resistance Fighters" and have scheduled a conclave of its people in Vienna during the same period. Purpose: To confuse world opinion. Vienna should be an interesting city around convention time!

Tokyo — Katsuo Okazaki, foreign minister of Japan, has written Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, MacArthur's long-time G-2 and author of "MacArthur, 1941-1951," as follows:

"I look forward to the publication of your book, which I believe, will contribute much to deeper understanding and appreciation of Japanese-American relations as well as to the elucidation of many a wartime question which still remains obscure.

"The section devoted to his majesty's role in terminating the war is, to my mind, a clear and precise presentation of pertinent facts. You may quote me to that effect, if you like. I do not think there is anything to be added to it.

"The book will, I am sure, be in great demand here. I will do my part in helping its circulations in Japan. With warm regards . . ."

The Willoughby book goes deeply into the back-stage palace politics, deliberations and protocol leading up to the historic decision to surrender rather than fight to the death—a decision which saved millions of lives and billions of dollars on both sides.

Frankfurt, Germany — "The State Department sponsors lots of trips and groups to come over here and spread our culture," INP man Irwin M. Tress writes to this column, "but sports are way back on the list. Whoever picks the people for the trips must have the idea that unless a ballet dancer, historian or abstract painter is chosen, we are not properly interpreting the United States.

"They're fine and dandy, but we're missing something by overlooking sports. You'd be surprised how well the Russian athletes are doing in events through Germany in track and field, gymnastics, cycling, swimming and, coming up, ice hockey.

"Another thing, Germans are crazy for American jazz. A team of American jazz artists, sponsored by the State Department, would out-draw any other culture-spreader (except sports) ten to one. After all, jazz is inherently American and, it seems to me, more a part of our culture than much that we do send over here."

B&O Veterans Plan To Greet Road Officials

Visit Expected During November

KEYSER — Plans will be made at a meeting of B&O Veterans, Division 27, and the C. W. VanHorn Auxiliary Friday at 7:30 p. m., in the Veterans quarters on the B&O grounds here, for entertaining a group of B&O Railroad Company officers next month.

Leo C. Wilcox, president of the Vets, says there are several officers of the company coming to Keyser in November, who have expressed a wish to meet with the veterans on their call here. Roy E. Collins, grand president of the Veterans Employes Association, has already given notice that he will oe in attendance at the November meeting.

Committees have been working on a special program for that meeting, but some additional features will be added for the visit of company officers.

Mr. Wilcox expressed himself well pleased with an improvement made around the Veterans' Building here, in which the ground has been levelled and made into a good parking lot that will take care of many cars of veterans and visitors at meetings. Hardy County Democrats Hold Rally

Rep. Staggers Talks On Parity

MOOREFIELD — Congressman Harley O. Staggers told Hardy County Democrats at rallies in Wardensville and Mathias Saturday night that he had been unable to get any cooperation from the present administration in halting the present decline in poultry and egg prices.

Congressman Staggers said that farm prices had declined 18 per cent since 1951 while big business profits had made a huge increase. He declared that the farmer and the small businessman were suffering under the control of the 'big businessman's cabinet'.

Accompanying Staggers on the speakers platforms were State Senator Clarence Martin Jr., Martinsburg, and Delegate James Miley, Moorefield, both candidates for reelection. State Senator Ralph J. Bean, chairman of the Hardy County Democratic Committee, presided at the meetings which were held in the high school auditoriums.

Staggers, in his talk, charged that the Republican controlled congress had failed to do anything to alleviate the crisis in West Virginia's coal fields, had failed to assist the farmer and small businessman and had not lived up to any of the major campaign promises.

State Senator Martin spoke briefly on conditions in West Virginia, emphasizing the collection of sales taxes on West Virginia business had declined due to lack of help from Washington.

Both candidates urged all voters to get out on election day and asked the Democrats to take the lead in seeing to it that every voter has an opportunity to vote.

Democrats gained seven and Republicans lost four in the November registration figures, according to the report made by County Clerk R. M. Gamble, this week. Total registration for Hardy County voters is 5,888 compared with 5,887 in the August election.

A breakdown of the registration shows 4,100 Democratic registrations compared with 4,093 in August. Republican registration was 1,728 in August compared with 1,724 in the November registration. Other parties and independents show 66 in August compared with 64 for November.

Hyde Speaks At Grantsville

Credits GOP With Stabilization

GRANTSVILLE—At a Republican rally at the Grantsville Elementary School in Garrett County Congressman DeWitt Hyde told his audience that, "under the previous Administration, 20 years of New Deal and Fair Deal orgy of spending made us drunk with green backs which left us a hangover of inflation.

"We may have carried a few more dollars in our pockets, but we gained little if anything in real wealth," he said. "Despite the mistaken predictions of the Democrat who said the removal of price and wage controls would send the cost of living to prohibitive heights, the Eisenhower Administration has achieved a remarkable stabilization of the dollar by virtually halting the runaway cost of living," Hyde continued.

"The value of the 1939 dollar, which had dwindled to 52.2 cents in the last twelve years of the New Deal rule, has been held to 51.6 cents by the Republicans in the past one and a half years—a slight variation as compared to the rate of loss under the New Deal. The cost of living which soared 112 per cent in 20 New Deal years has risen only 1 per cent in one and one-half Republican years," he concluded.

Keyser Council Discusses Bills On Swim Pool

Bonding Co. Trustee Outlines Problem

KEYSER — Mayor John C. Freeland and council had a meeting Tuesday afternoon with the representative of the bonding company and contractor on the settlement of accounts for the building of the municipal swimming pool. Bills for supplies and labor were presented and checked against the account of the Scott Trucking Company, builders of the pool, and Edward W. Erdley, Charleston, trustee for the bonding company, reported that the outstanding bills will be presented to the company and he expects payment to be made very soon to satisfy all creditors.

Council and the trustee and representatives of the contractors, determined the amount of penalty at $15 per day. The penalty amounts to $1,350 from July 1 to September 30. Against the penalty payment, the Scott Trucking Company, contractors, did extra work amounting to $862.77, leaving a penalty balance of $487.23.

Present at the meeting in addition to the mayor, council, city clerk, Mr. Erdley, were: Rexford T. McKeny, president of the contracting firm; Cecil Cavendish, superintendent of the construction work, both of Charleston; Harold Snyder, representing Blunon, Snyder and Small, local engineers on the job; Jacob Shear, president of Keyser Recreation board; Dakin Moorehouse, who furnished concrete for the job and Charles Smith, city attorney.

After the pool matter was cleared away, the council heard the reading of a letter from Dr. E. E. "The value of the 1939 dollar, which had dwindled to 52.2 cents in the last twelve years of the New Deal rule, has been held to 51.6 cents by the Republicans in the past one and a half years—a slight variation as compared to the rate of loss under the New Deal. The cost of living which soared 112 per cent in 20 New Deal years has risen only 1 per cent in one and one-half Republican years," he concluded.

Keyser Council Discusses Bills On Swim Pool

Bonding Co. Trustee Outlines Problem

KEYSER — Mayor John C. Freeland and council had a meeting Tuesday afternoon with the representative of the bonding company and contractor on the settlement of accounts for the building of the municipal swimming pool. Bills for supplies and labor were presented and checked against the account of the Scott Trucking Company, builders of the pool, and Edward W. Erdley, Charleston, trustee for the bonding company, reported that the outstanding bills will be presented to the company and he expects payment to be made very soon to satisfy all creditors.

Council and the trustee and representatives of the contractors, determined the amount of penalty at $15 per day. The penalty amounts to $1,350 from July 1 to September 30. Against the penalty payment, the Scott Trucking Company, contractors, did extra work amounting to $862.77, leaving a penalty balance of $487.23.

Present at the meeting in addition to the mayor, council, city clerk, Mr. Erdley, were: Rexford T. McKeny, president of the contracting firm; Cecil Cavendish, superintendent of the construction work, both of Charleston; Harold Snyder, representing Blunon, Snyder and Small, local engineers on the job; Jacob Shear, president of Keyser Recreation board; Dakin Moorehouse, who furnished concrete for the job and Charles Smith, city attorney.

After the pool matter was cleared away, the council heard the reading of a letter from Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College, asking that there be no parking on State Street from Fort Avenue to Arnold Street excepting on Sundays, because of the amount of travel on that thoroughfare. The request was granted, and the curbing will be painted yellow, as a warning.

OAKLAND, Oct. 13—Scoring on sustained drives of 55 and 63 yards in the third and fourth quarters Terra Alta High defeated a stubborn Southern High eleven here, 14-6, before a crowd of approximately 1,500 spectators today.

The defeat was the second straight for Coach James DeMoss' Southern gridders who are in their first season of football at the Garrett County School. The Highlanders lost to Beall's "B" team, 7-6 after tying West Virginia School for Deaf, 6-5, in their opener. The win was the third for Terra Alta.

Sought First Win

Seeking their first victory against the Preston County team, the Southern gridders filled the air with passes, attempting 24 and completing seven for 126 yards. However four of the Highlander aerials were intercepted by Terra Alta defenders and it was one of these that was turned into the first scoring march.

Coach Roger Cassidy's Terra Altans pilfered a Tobey Colaw pass on their own 45 midway in the third period and immediately smashed and ground their way 55 yards for the touchdown which broke a scoreless deadlock. Don Sypolt plunged over for the six-pointer from three yards out and Joe Collins added the first of two plunges for the extra points.

Another intercepted aerial, this time by Tobey Colaw of Southern on the Highlanders' 37, was returned to midfield where Southern came roaring back for its tally.

A 15-yard pass from Tobey Colaw to Dan Garrett set up Southern touchdown and moments later Colaw hit Bill Savage in the end zone for the 25. Charles Mason's plunge for the tying point was stopped.

Score Clinching Touchdown

Terra Alta then took the ensuing kickoff on its 37 and marched uninterruptedly for the clinching six-pointer, Ronnie Hill carrying it the final nine yards on a reverse. Collins again added the point on a plunge.

Outstanding for the visitors were Collins, Hill, Sypolt and Tim and Mickey Friend. Fred Colaw and Tobey were best for Southern.

George Stimmel ran for three touchdowns, two on intercepted passes, yesterday to lead the undefeated Fort Hill High School Jayvees eleven to an easy 26-0 victory over the LaSalle Little Explorers.

The loss was the first for Coach Bob Hall's LaSalle Jayvees as Mentor Wayne Boor's charges chalked up their third straight triumph.

Played in Fort Hill stadium the game turned into a rout as Stimmel ran wild to tally the first three Little Sentinels scores.

The Fort Hill halfback gave the Sentinels a 6-0 halftime lead when he bucked over from the six-yard line midway in the second stanza.

In the third Stimmel intercepted a Joe Cioni pass and raced 20 yards for another Fort Hill score and then came back moments later in the same period to pilfer another LaSalle aerial, this time romping 40 yards for the six-pointer.

Bill Powell's 30-yard pass to Russ McGaughey in the end zone in the fourth quarter ended the Fort Hill scoring.

The longest run for LaSalle was Jerry McGreevy's 45-yard romp to midfield for the Explorers in the second quarter. The lineups:

Determine, Derby Winner, Withdraws From International

LAUREL, Md. Oct. 13 (AP)—Determine, the little gray colt who streaked home first in the Kentucky Derby last spring, limped out of the International race picture today, leaving a committee of experts the task of picking his successor.

The Andy Crevolin colt popped a splint (bone growth) while training in California. Trainer Willie Molter announced that the injury would keep Determine out of Laurel's Washington, D. C., International Nov. 3.

The selection committee will have two alternates to choose from—Stanley Mikell's Brush Burn and Jaclyn Stable's Closed Door.

The other American entry in the International is King Ranch's High Gun.

TCU Gridder Is Best Back

Ronnie Clinkscale Star Against USC

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 13 (AP)—Some of the critics said Texas Christian's football team couldn't operate efficiently with Ronnie Clinkscale at quarterback.

The results to that time indicated they were speaking the truth.

Ronnie decided to do something about it. Last week he led TCU to one of the big upsets of the season as the Horned Frogs whipped ninth-ranked Southern California 20-7. He piloted the team flawlessly, scored two touchdowns and set up the third, was a whale of a defensive player and all-in-all was so good he was picked as The Associated Press Back of the Week.

Clinkscale's performance, which included a 60-yard touchdown dash on a quarterback sneak, a 58-yard kickoff return and a 4-yard scamper around end for another touchdown, came at a most opportune time.

Among other high ranking backs in last week's play was Joe Gattuso, who led Navy to a 25-0 victory over Stanford.

Southern Wins Cross Country

Defeats Northern, Bayard Harriers

OAKLAND, Oct. 13—Despite the fact a Northern High School runner finished first in the mile-and-a-half cross country race Southern High's team defeated Bayard, W. Va. High and the Accid it harriers to win the special event here today.

Fifteen high school boys participated in the first running of a cross country race to be held in Garrett County with Southern emerging the victor with 30 points, Bayard second with 43½ and Northern last with 46½.

Coached by Tom Stevenson, Southern High's track mentor, the Oakland harriers hosted Bayard and Northern in the cross country event as part of half-time ceremonies at the Terra Alta-Southern football game here today.

Northern's Charles Mazer came home first at the end of the 1½ mile grind, breaking the tape in 8 minutes, 46 seconds. Second was Moreland of Bayard while Upole of Southern was third.

However, on a team basis, with one point for first and two for second, etc., Southern's five entries garnered the lowest number of points for the victory.

Trabert will play Mexico's Mario Llamas for the title tomorrow.

Arkansas Tops College Gridiron Punting Field

Averages 42.9 Yards, Navy Defense Best

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP) — The five best punting teams in major college football are in the Southwest—Arkansas, Southern Methodist, New Mexico, Texas Christian and Kansas State—NCAA Service Bureau figures showed today.

These are the only teams in the country averaging 40 yards a kick. Arkansas is averaging 42.9 yards a punt, SMU 42.0, New Mexico 40.5, TCU 40.4 and Kansas State 40.2. And in the rest of the top ten the only Southern team is Virginia, down in No. 8.

The rest of the defensive team statistics have an unusual aspect this week, too. Navy is the only team in the country that has yielded only one touchdown, and leads in scoreboard defense with an average of 2.3 points allowed a game. But the Middies dropped to sixth place in total defense yardage. However, they are the only team in the top ten in defense as well as offense.

Mississippi, the rushing defense leader with only 62.8 yards a game yielded through its line, has a few oddities to its credit also. It's the country's No. 1 team in passing—with an average of 211 yards a game and the country's most frequently passed-against team, with 95 enemy aerials attempted.

Battling Mississippi for the ground defense leadership is Miami (Fla.), which has given up 65.3 yards a game. Then come Boston College with 77.3, Richmond with 80 and Yale with 82.

Richmond is the total defense leader, holding four foes to 119.8 yards a game. West Virginia, which has played only two games so far, is next at 129.5 and Boston College, in three times, third at 130.

Syracuse, allowing only seven defense completions and 38 yards in its two games, is the pass defense leader with a 19-yards-a-game yield, while Texas A&M has permitted only 20.5 in four games.

Behind Navy in "scoreboard defense" is Colorado, the nation's top offensive team. The Buffaloes were unscored upon until Saturday's 40-18 victory over Arizona, and they've now allowed 4.5 points a game. Then it's Richmond, 4.8; Georgia, 5.0; Alabama, 5.3; Boston College, 5.3; Duke and Penn State, 6.3; West Virginia, 6.5; and Ohio State, 6.7.

West Virginia is fourth in pass defense, having given up 65 yards in two games for an average of 32.5, while Richmond is sixth with a yield of 159 yards in four games or a 39.8 average.

Ready Cash Won Franchise In Majors For Kansas City

Owners Afraid West Coast Wasn't Right

CHICAGO, Oct. 13 (AP)—Hard cash and club owner caution made the difference between Kansas City and Los Angeles as new home of the Philadelphia Athletics.

In their nine-hour meeting yesterday when Kansas City-bound Arnold Johnson got the nod, American League owners gave serious thought to Los Angeles which might have won the A's if an offer by the Texas Murchison interests was acceptable.

It wasn't, not only because it fell far short of Johnson's $3,375,000 in cold cash—although matching it on paper—but also for reason that the club owners doubted Los Angeles would be easy to crack for a major league team, according to a reliable source.

There was some sentiment for a jump to the West Coast, beating the National League to the punch, even though it was argued it would be impractical to have one member club that distance from the rest of the league.

The idea of several owners reportedly was to get a foot in the door and perhaps line up San Francisco in five, or even 10 years, if some other franchise should falter as the St. Louis Browns and A's have done within the past 13 months.

The concensus was that 1. Evidence is lacking Los Angeles is a good baseball town; 2. The Pacific Coast League would fight invasion tooth-and-nail; and 3. It might take two years to place a team in Los Angeles.

The Washington Senators, particularly, preferred to have the A's shift to Los Angeles where according to two county officials, appearing at the meeting, Wrigley Field probably could be obtained for the 1955 season on a major league level.

There was a suspected tie-up between Robert F. Thompson of Dallas, who made the Los Angeles pitch for wealthy Clint Murchison; The two Los Angeles County emissaries; and Bill Veeck, who long has been surveying the West Coast for big league ball.

However, the Murchison offer was only one million in cash and the rest in notes to make up $3,375,000. This was no solution to the Mack family, some $1,900,000 in debt and wanting $1,504,000 for their club stock.

Columbia St. Whites, John Humbird Wallop Touch League Foes

John Humbird and Columbia Street Whites walloped foes in the grade school division of the Cumberland Rec Department's touch football league yesterday.

Humbird downed Virginia Avenue 60-0 as G. Twigg scored five touchdowns at Taylor Field. At Stitcher field M. Van Meter tallied six touchdowns and J. Van Meter another in Columbia Street Whites' 62-6 triumph over Gephart.

In a high school division game at Penn Avenue the Rockets beat the Mustangs 42-6 with Wrightsman and Shell each getting a pair of touchdowns for the winners. The scores:

Saddler Pays $300 For Parking Tickets

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Featherweight boxing champion Sandy Saddler paid $300 today to settle six parking tickets, some dating back to 1951.

"It is quite evident you came in when you saw what happened to Saxton," commented Magistrate John M. Murtagh, who had given Saddler the alternative of 12 days in jail.

Murtagh told Johnny Saxton on Oct. 4 that he would have to go to jail for 15 days after his welterweight fight with champion Kid Gavilan on Oct. 20. Saxton had ignored a dozen traffic tickets.

Chris Chataway Smashes 5,000 Meters Record

World Mark Is Set By Red-Haired Briton

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP) — Chris Chataway, London's merry brewer who finished second in four world record races this year, smashed the world record for 5,000 meters tonight in a spectacular duel with Russia's Vladimir Kuc.

The red-haired, cigar-smoking Briton sped the distance in 13:51.6, five seconds faster than Kuc's still unratified record, to finish a stride in front of the Russian in one of the great races of all time.

Kuc also bettered the time with a clocking of 13:51.8 and en route passed the three mile marker in 13:27 for another record-buster. The previous best time for three miles was Kuc's 13:27.8 in Bern last August when he broke the 5,000 mark in the European track and field championships.

The first of the three world record bettering performances in this floodlit meet between Moscow and London in White City Stadium was chalked up by Russia's Yuriy Lituyev, who skimmed 440-yard hurdles in 51.3 seconds, three-tenths of a second faster than the listed world mark of 51.6 set by America's Charlie Moore in 1952.

OAKLAND, Oct. 13—Scoring on sustained drives of 55 and 63 yards in the third and fourth quarters Terra Alta High defeated a stubborn Southern High eleven here, 14-6, before a crowd of approximately 1,500 spectators today.

The defeat was the second straight for Coach James DeMoss' Southern gridders who are in their first season of football at the Garrett County School. The Highlanders lost to Beall's "B" team, 7-6 after tying West Virginia School for Deaf, 6-5, in their opener. The win was the third for Terra Alta.

Sought First Win

Seeking their first victory against the Preston County team, the Southern gridders filled the air with passes, attempting 24 and completing seven for 126 yards. However four of the Highlander aerials were intercepted by Terra Alta defenders and it was one of these that was turned into the first scoring march.

Coach Roger Cassidy's Terra Altans pilfered a Tobey Colaw pass on their own 45 midway in the third period and immediately smashed and ground their way 55 yards for the touchdown which broke a scoreless deadlock. Don Sypolt plunged over for the six-pointer from three yards out and Joe Collins added the first of two plunges for the extra points.

Another intercepted aerial, this time by Tobey Colaw of Southern on the Highlanders' 37, was returned to midfield where Southern came roaring back for its tally.

A 15-yard pass from Tobey Colaw to Dan Garrett set up Southern touchdown and moments later Colaw hit Bill Savage in the end zone for the 25. Charles Mason's plunge for the tying point was stopped.

Score Clinching Touchdown

Terra Alta then took the ensuing kickoff on its 37 and marched uninterruptedly for the clinching six-pointer, Ronnie Hill carrying it the final nine yards on a reverse. Collins again added the point on a plunge.

Outstanding for the visitors were Collins, Hill, Sypolt and Tim and Mickey Friend. Fred Colaw and Tobey were best for Southern.

Oakland's final game of the season will be against the Keyser High Jayvees October 23 at 1 p. m. in Oakland. The lineups:

George Stimmel ran for three touchdowns, two on intercepted passes, yesterday to lead the undefeated Fort Hill High School Jayvees eleven to an easy 26-0 victory over the LaSalle Little Explorers.

The loss was the first for Coach Bob Hall's LaSalle Jayvees as Mentor Wayne Boor's charges chalked up their third straight triumph.

Played in Fort Hill stadium the game turned into a rout as Stimmel ran wild to tally the first three Little Sentinels scores.

The Fort Hill halfback gave the Sentinels a 6-0 halftime lead when he bucked over from the six-yard line midway in the second stanza.

In the third Stimmel intercepted a Joe Cioni pass and raced 20 yards for another Fort Hill score and then came back moments later in the same period to pilfer another LaSalle aerial, this time romping 40 yards for the six-pointer.

Bill Powell's 30-yard pass to Russ McGaughey in the end zone in the fourth quarter ended the Fort Hill scoring.

The longest run for LaSalle was Jerry McGreevy's 45-yard romp to midfield for the Explorers in the second quarter. The lineups:

Determine, Derby Winner, Withdraws From International

LAUREL, Md. Oct. 13 (AP)—Determine, the little gray colt who streaked home first in the Kentucky Derby last spring, limped out of the International race picture today, leaving a committee of experts the task of picking his successor.

The Andy Crevolin colt popped a splint (bone growth) while training in California. Trainer Willie Molter announced that the injury would keep Determine out of Laurel's Washington, D. C., International Nov. 3.

The selection committee will have two alternates to choose from—Stanley Mikell's Brush Burn and Jaclyn Stable's Closed Door.

The other American entry in the International is King Ranch's High Gun.

TCU Gridder Is Best Back

Ronnie Clinkscale Star Against USC

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 13 (AP)—Some of the critics said Texas Christian's football team couldn't operate efficiently with Ronnie Clinkscale at quarterback.

The results to that time indicated they were speaking the truth.

Ronnie decided to do something about it. Last week he led TCU to one of the big upsets of the season as the Horned Frogs whipped ninth-ranked Southern California 20-7. He piloted the team flawlessly, scored two touchdowns and set up the third, was a whale of a defensive player and all-in-all was so good he was picked as The Associated Press Back of the Week.

Clinkscale's performance, which included a 60-yard touchdown dash on a quarterback sneak, a 58-yard kickoff return and a 4-yard scamper around end for another touchdown, came at a most opportune time.

Among other high ranking backs in last week's play was Joe Gattuso, who led Navy to a 25-0 victory over Stanford.

Southern Wins Cross Country

Defeats Northern, Bayard Harriers

OAKLAND, Oct. 13—Despite the fact a Northern High School runner finished first in the mile-and-a-half cross country race Southern High's team defeated Bayard, W. Va. High and the Accid it harriers to win the special event here today.

Fifteen high school boys participated in the first running of a cross country race to be held in Garrett County with Southern emerging the victor with 30 points, Bayard second with 43½ and Northern last with 46½.

Coached by Tom Stevenson, Southern High's track mentor, the Oakland harriers hosted Bayard and Northern in the cross country event as part of half-time ceremonies at the Terra Alta-Southern football game here today.

Northern's Charles Mazer came home first at the end of the 1½ mile grind, breaking the tape in 8 minutes, 46 seconds. Second was Moreland of Bayard while Upole of Southern was third.

However, on a team basis, with one point for first and two for second, etc., Southern's five entries garnered the lowest number of points for the victory.

Trabert will play Mexico's Mario Llamas for the title tomorrow.

Averages 42.9 Yards, Navy Defense Best

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP) — The five best punting teams in major college football are in the Southwest—Arkansas, Southern Methodist, New Mexico, Texas Christian and Kansas State—NCAA Service Bureau figures showed today.

These are the only teams in the country averaging 40 yards a kick. Arkansas is averaging 42.9 yards a punt, SMU 42.0, New Mexico 40.5, TCU 40.4 and Kansas State 40.2. And in the rest of the top ten the only Southern team is Virginia, down in No. 8.

The rest of the defensive team statistics have an unusual aspect this week, too. Navy is the only team in the country that has yielded only one touchdown, and leads in scoreboard defense with an average of 2.3 points allowed a game. But the Middies dropped to sixth place in total defense yardage. However, they are the only team in the top ten in defense as well as offense.

Mississippi, the rushing defense leader with only 62.8 yards a game yielded through its line, has a few oddities to its credit also. It's the country's No. 1 team in passing—with an average of 211 yards a game and the country's most frequently passed-against team, with 95 enemy aerials attempted.

Battling Mississippi for the ground defense leadership is Miami (Fla.), which has given up 65.3 yards a game. Then come Boston College with 77.3, Richmond with 80 and Yale with 82.

Richmond is the total defense leader, holding four foes to 119.8 yards a game. West Virginia, which has played only two games so far, is next at 129.5 and Boston College, in three times, third at 130.

Syracuse, allowing only seven defense completions and 38 yards in its two games, is the pass defense leader with a 19-yards-a-game yield, while Texas A&M has permitted only 20.5 in four games.

Behind Navy in "scoreboard defense" is Colorado, the nation's top offensive team. The Buffaloes were unscored upon until Saturday's 40-18 victory over Arizona, and they've now allowed 4.5 points a game. Then it's Richmond, 4.8; Georgia, 5.0; Alabama, 5.3; Boston College, 5.3; Duke and Penn State, 6.3; West Virginia, 6.5; and Ohio State, 6.7.

West Virginia is fourth in pass defense, having given up 65 yards in two games for an average of 32.5, while Richmond is sixth with a yield of 159 yards in four games or a 39.8 average.

Ready Cash Won Franchise In Majors For Kansas City

Owners Afraid West Coast Wasn't Right

CHICAGO, Oct. 13 (AP)—Hard cash and club owner caution made the difference between Kansas City and Los Angeles as new home of the Philadelphia Athletics.

In their nine-hour meeting yesterday when Kansas City-bound Arnold Johnson got the nod, American League owners gave serious thought to Los Angeles which might have won the A's if an offer by the Texas Murchison interests was acceptable.

It wasn't, not only because it fell far short of Johnson's $3,375,000 in cold cash—although matching it on paper—but also for reason that the club owners doubted Los Angeles would be easy to crack for a major league team, according to a reliable source.

There was some sentiment for a jump to the West Coast, beating the National League to the punch, even though it was argued it would be impractical to have one member club that distance from the rest of the league.

The idea of several owners reportedly was to get a foot in the door and perhaps line up San Francisco in five, or even 10 years, if some other franchise should falter as the St. Louis Browns and A's have done within the past 13 months.

The concensus was that 1. Evidence is lacking Los Angeles is a good baseball town; 2. The Pacific Coast League would fight invasion tooth-and-nail; and 3. It might take two years to place a team in Los Angeles.

The Washington Senators, particularly, preferred to have the A's shift to Los Angeles where according to two county officials, appearing at the meeting, Wrigley Field probably could be obtained for the 1955 season on a major league level.

There was a suspected tie-up between Robert F. Thompson of Dallas, who made the Los Angeles pitch for wealthy Clint Murchison; The two Los Angeles County emissaries; and Bill Veeck, who long has been surveying the West Coast for big league ball.

However, the Murchison offer was only one million in cash and the rest in notes to make up $3,375,000. This was no solution to the Mack family, some $1,900,000 in debt and wanting $1,504,000 for their club stock.

Saddler Pays $300 For Parking Tickets

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Featherweight boxing champion Sandy Saddler paid $300 today to settle six parking tickets, some dating back to 1951.

"It is quite evident you came in when you saw what happened to Saxton," commented Magistrate John M. Murtagh, who had given Saddler the alternative of 12 days in jail.

Murtagh told Johnny Saxton on Oct. 4 that he would have to go to jail for 15 days after his welterweight fight with champion Kid Gavilan on Oct. 20. Saxton had ignored a dozen traffic tickets.

Chris Chataway Smashes 5,000 Meters Record

World Mark Is Set By Red-Haired Briton

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP) — Chris Chataway, London's merry brewer who finished second in four world record races this year, smashed the world record for 5,000 meters tonight in a spectacular duel with Russia's Vladimir Kuc.

The red-haired, cigar-smoking Briton sped the distance in 13:51.6, five seconds faster than Kuc's still unratified record, to finish a stride in front of the Russian in one of the great races of all time.

Kuc also bettered the time with a clocking of 13:51.8 and en route passed the three mile marker in 13:27 for another record-buster. The previous best time for three miles was Kuc's 13:27.8 in Bern last August when he broke the 5,000 mark in the European track and field championships.

The first of the three world record bettering performances in this floodlit meet between Moscow and London in White City Stadium was chalked up by Russia's Yuriy Lituyev, who skimmed 440-yard hurdles in 51.3 seconds, three-tenths of a second faster than the listed world mark of 51.6 set by America's Charlie Moore in 1952.

Mary Downey Sets Mark In First Round

BETHESDA, Md., Oct. 13 (AP)—Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore Country Club set a new women's competitive course record for Congressional Country Club today when she fired a 73 to take the first round lead in the annual Payne Cup Tournament.

The Payne Cup is a 54-hole tournament ending the major competitive season of Maryland and District women golfers. Eighteen holes will be played tomorrow with the final 18 set for Friday.

Miss Downey, who won the Eastern championship over this course last year, was out in 36 and back in 37—two over men's par and one under women's par.

Mrs. Edward C. Ferriday Jr., last year's District champion from Chevy Chase Club, trailed by a stroke with a 74 in a round that included an eagle three on the 492 yard par four 5th hole. She reached the green in two wood shots and dropped a 15-footer.

Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, four-time winner of the Payne Cup, went over par on the first two and the last two holes and finished with a 77. WAF Capt. Lucille Busch, the Washington champion, and Mrs. Morton Wasserkrug, of Woodholme in Baltimore, tied with 78's. The other 80-breaker was Mrs. Charles Egenroad, club champion at Washington Golf and Country Club in Arlington, Va.

In seventh place was Mrs. William Bibby, Cumberland, Md., with a 41-39—80. Scores of other Cumberland golfers included Mrs. W. Royce Hodges, 43-47—90; Mrs. Gordon Bowie, 44-47—91, and Mrs. Powell Wise, 49-48—97.

Colts Release Flowers

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Baltimore Colts today cut loose Dick Flowers, injury ridden quarterback from Northwestern, and Coach Weeb Eewbank installed Cotton Davidson, rookie flash from Baylor, as the pro team's No. 1 tactician.

A cat's jaw, unlike that of a dog, moves only up and down and not sidewise.

Highest octane you can buy! This is the real measure of anti-knock performance in your car. Day-in-and-day-out no other gasoline has consistently equaled the anti-knock power of ESSO EXTRA.

Point by point here's why

NEW TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA outsells every other premium gasoline!

1. Extra mileage where it counts most! Over one half of all trips are less than 5 miles in length. Amazing isn't it? Yet U. S. Government statistics prove that around-town driving – to market, to school – accounts for 62% of all trips. New TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA is the first gasoline engineered to give greater mileage under these extreme gasoline-consuming conditions.

2. More delivered horsepower! The horsepower your car can deliver depends on the gasoline as well as the engine. The horsepower potential of TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA is so great that one of the nation's leading automobile manufacturers found it to be the best gasoline obtainable for rating the horsepower output of its new high-compression engines.

3. "New Car" performance—longer! ESSO EXTRA burns so completely that more of every drop is converted into sheer energy and less remains to form power-robbing carbon deposits. Thus, it keeps the "New Car" power and performance of your engine for many thousands of extra miles.

4. Unbeatable warm-up! NEW TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA gives fastest possible starting and warm-up, especially important in cold weather. As a result, it increases gasoline mileage and prolongs battery life.

5. Prevents stalling due to carburetor icing! You may find it hard to believe, but ice is most apt to form in your carburetor when the outside temperature is above freezing. Thanks to an Esso-discovered de-icing additive—F-38—TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA actually keeps ice from forming and prevents your engine from stalling.

6. Highest octane you can buy!

The fact is NEW TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA delivers the finest possible performance in today's high-compression engines. No so-called "Hi-Test" gasoline, at any price, can give you all these important advantages. For "Happy Motoring," try a tankful of TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA today. It's the best gasoline you can buy!

ESSO STANDARD OIL COMPANY

FACTS | 8,960,000 TEST MILES 1,195 CARS AND ENGINES

All these statements are supported by facts compiled by the world-famous Esso Research Laboratories in the most comprehensive series of road and laboratory tests ever run by any oil company.

These facts are not based on "promotional" tests, but on a continuing long-range program of testing – including close cooperation with the automobile industry. The result has been not only better fuels for the cars of today, but new super gasolines which will make possible the cars of tomorrow. Esso Research is credited with more "firsts" in gasoline quality improvements than any other oil company. Esso Extra sets the pace!

Mrs. Bibby Gets An 80 For 7th In Payne Cup

Mary Downey Sets Mark In First Round

BETHESDA, Md., Oct. 13 (AP)—Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore Country Club set a new women's competitive course record for Congressional Country Club today when she fired a 73 to take the first round lead in the annual Payne Cup Tournament.

The Payne Cup is a 54-hole tournament ending the major competitive season of Maryland and District women golfers. Eighteen holes will be played tomorrow with the final 18 set for Friday.

Miss Downey, who won the Eastern championship over this course last year, was out in 36 and back in 37—two over men's par and one under women's par.

Mrs. Edward C. Ferriday Jr., last year's District champion from Chevy Chase Club, trailed by a stroke with a 74 in a round that included an eagle three on the 492 yard par four 5th hole. She reached the green in two wood shots and dropped a 15-footer.

Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, four-time winner of the Payne Cup, went over par on the first two and the last two holes and finished with a 77. WAF Capt. Lucille Busch, the Washington champion, and Mrs. Morton Wasserkrug, of Woodholme in Baltimore, tied with 78's. Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 13—(INS)—I can tell you that the Liberace deal at Warner Brothers is all set, and his first picture for them will be called "Sincerely Yours," the title of his record album. Henry Blancke will produce this highly secret project and Irving Wallace is writing the original story.

The studio is banking on the popularity of the famous pianist to provide a ready-made audience for the picture. Wladzin Valentino (better known as Lee) will portray a pianist, of course.

I'm wondering if he will wear the black and gold tuxedo with matching shoes that he wore at the "A Star Is Born" premiere. He is certainly a good showman!

I hear, oh, so straight, that William Holden is the first actor signed for Edna Ferber's story, "Giant."

And here's something even more interesting: Robert Clark, head of ABC in London, has a commitment with Audrey Hepburn for four pictures, and since Warner's owns considerable stock in this company, it looks as if Producer-Director George Stevens will get his heart's desire—and that's Audrey Hepburn in the leading role opposite Holden.

Ava Gardner's sister, Bea, telephoned to tell me that she'd brought me a message from Nichol Fontana, the Italian couturier who was here several years ago. "She's now in Chicago and is coming to San Francisco," said Bea, "but I doubt if she'll stop in Hollywood."

"Ava," said her sister, "was so tired after the premiere of "Barefoot Contessa" and the excitement in New York that she's gone to Palm Springs to remain there until she's needed at MGM."

I asked if Ava is going to do "Bhowani Junction" and Bea said she believed she would after a few changes are made in the script.

Ann Sothern's romance with John Beck is as cold as last year's newspaper. She is now seeing Bill Andrews, the choreographer of her night club act.

Terry Moore sure has dibs on handsome Jacques Sernas. She's the only girl he's appeared with. At the Luau at dinner he didn't take his eyes off her.

Frank Sinatra decided that his singing of "Young at Heart" had been heard by so many people that he shouldn't sing it in his picture of that name, so Doris Day is doing the job and will deliver the number that Frankie made famous.

San Francisco Attorney Melvin Belli's life story by Bob Wallace, "The Monster From Telegraph Hill," is being reprinted in part in Life magazine this week. Belli is representing Boni Buehler in her case against the owners of the Lake Arrowhead resort where she lost an arm and a leg.

Cleo Moore's 16-year-old red-haired sister, Marilea, who has been longing for a screen career, has won a scholarship at UCLA, so now she's going to take Cleo's advice and complete her education.

Through Red Skelton's generosity it may be possible for Father Joseph Stadler to keep up his school in Banning for retarded boys. There are a hundred children in the orphanage who need food and clothing. Red is putting on a show in the stadium at San Bernardino October 17 to help raise money.

Pierre Galante sent Olivia De Havilland a set of photographs of a birthday party he had in Paris for Livvie's son, Benjamin.

Gloria Stewart joins her husband Jimmy in Santa Fe, New Mexico, where he's on location with "Man From Laramie."

Miriam and Dore Schary hosted a dinner at Bob Dalton's for Johnny and Bunny Green and Doris Day and Marty Melcher. It was Johnny's birthday.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Halloween Program Slated By South End Businessmen

More detailed plans for the annual Halloween celebration in South End Friday, October 29, were announced yesterday by Gladys Fuller, general chairman.

Sponsored by the South Cumberland Business Men's Association, one of the features of the mummers' parade which gets under way at 7 p. m. is the "Ridgelyettes," a baton-twirling club composed of 50 youngsters.

Raymond Whitehair will be marshal of the parade which will move from Laing to Virginia Avenue, to First Street, turn right on First Street to Race Street and disband.

It was also noted that the Fort Hill High School Senior Band will lead the line parade which will also include the Toonerville and Fort Hill Junior High School bands.

No competition in the band field is being held.

The Toonerville Band will play for dancing at the Acme Market on Virginia Avenue and a free cartoon show for children will be provided in Millenson's parking lot through courtesy of Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, the chairman said.

Fort Hill Senior Band will give a concert at Virginia Avenue School.

Nelson W. Russler will be in charge of a talent show which will be staged in front of the Russler-Chadwick Company Store, Virginia Avenue. Prizes will be awarded.

Stores on the avenue are cooperating by decorating windows in the Halloween motif and streets will be appropriately lighted and decorated.

The judges' stand will be located at Cumberland Savings Bank.

The teenager who pays attention to her beauty program has the greatest chance of being an attractive woman.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The earlier you embark on a program for developing beauty and charm, the more years you have in which to achieve your potential. That's why teenagers are lucky! It takes time to be beautiful, but all the time spent in making a teen blossom into a lovely young woman is worthwhile.

Cleanliness is the first step in a girl's beauty program. (In a woman's, too!) The daily bath or shower is a must. Make it a rule to top off your shiny freshness with bath powder and deodorant.

Your hair should be another shining attribute. Give it regular attention — daily brushing, weekly shampoo. Choose a becoming, natural style, and comb your locks often so they're neat as well as clean.

Your Makeup

"Natural" is the word for makeup . . . the painted look belongs on walls! Here's what I suggest for normal skin: At least twice a day, wash your face with soap and water, and "wash" again with cleanser. You may use a light powder base to cover minor blemishes, give your skin an even texture, and protect the pores from harmful grime. Go light on powder, and extra-light on rouge.

Eyes are important; a little makeup will give them added interest, but apply it with a soft touch. Pluck stray hairs from the browline — between, beneath, never above. Follow the outline of your lips when applying lipstick, and use a brush — as the models do — for a clean, sharp line.

Watch your posture! You'll be thankful the rest of your life for the good posture efforts you make now. (Send for my booklet, "Your Posture!", and use it.) A girdle is posture insurance, the Powers Girls contend; it is an aid also to smoothly-fitting skirts, and guards those youthful contours.

Exercise, proper food, and personal discipline are essentials for a ship-shape figure. Never skimp on food to stay slim; be sure your diet includes the right foods for growth, vitality, a clear skin, and gleaming hair.

Clothes Hints

Simplicity is perfection in clothing. Remember that vertical lines slenderize, horizontal lines add pounds. No matter how becoming a particular dress is to Mary Jones —whose age, weight, and coloring are similar to yours — it won't look good on you if she has a misses' figure, while yours is a junior size. Study the styles in fashion photographs to decide which lines are your best.

Good grooming includes a poised walk and pleasing talk, just as much as the matters I've already mentioned. Others are looking and listening . . . I hope they're paying you compliments!

YOUR POSTURE

To achieve grace of the highest degree—to make yours the posture ideal—to improve stance, figure, health and the appearance of your clothes as well, read the informative, easy-to-follow booklet "YOUR POSTURE". For a copy, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to help cover cost.

DEFENSE IN THE DARK

NOBODY, so far as known, has ever compiled any statistics on the number of tricks taken by declarers because the defense was in the dark regarding important details of a deal. It would surely be quite a figure, however, perhaps a trick once in every three or four hands. One fact nearly always obscure to the defenders is the probable length of a club suit which opened the bidding, due to the penchant of many players for such a bid on a short suit.

	♠ A 10 9 5 2 ♥ K 10 7 ♦ K 4 ♣ Q 8 2
♠ K 4 ♥ A Q J ♦ Q J 10 9 7 2 ♣ 10 3	N W E S	♠ Q 7 ♥ 9 8 5 4 2 ♦ 8 6 5 3 ♣ 5 4
	♠ J 8 6 3 ♥ 6 3 ♦ A ♣ A K J 9 7 6

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♦	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

This deal was a good example of the ways that Phil Garland of Tacoma, Washington, got some of his top scores in a series of duplicate tournaments. After his partner showed more interest in proclaiming his point count than his spades with 2-No Trumps, Mr. Garland saw fit to bid the spades himself. That caused him to become the declarer, with the length of his clubs concealed.

West's diamond Q lead to the A was followed by a spade to the A, a heart discard on the diamond K and a low spade to draw the Q and K together. West now put on his thinking cap. Deciding there was no sense in laying down the heart A, and unable to conceive of South having such a long club suit, he led his club 10. The clubs then furnished discards of all three hearts from the dummy, after which the last South heart was ruffed to give the declarer twelve tricks.

What might have happened on this deal if West had been a certain kind of trickster? Suppose his opening lead had been the heart Q because North's bid of 2-No Trumps had located the K. If you had been the declarer, would you have put in the K or not? If not, you could have lost two heart tricks plus a later spade to get bottom score on the deal. But that lead would have been rather mean, wouldn't it?

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 8 5 3 2 ♥ 8 7 ♦ A K Q 10 7 ♣ 6 4
♠ A 6 ♥ Q J 10 9 2 ♦ 4 2 ♣ K J 8 3	N W E S	♠ 10 9 7 4 ♥ 6 4 3 ♦ J 9 8 5 ♣ 9 5
	♠ K Q J ♥ A K 5 ♦ 6 3 ♣ A Q 10 7 2

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

What is South's sound play for 3-No Trumps after he wins the second heart lead?

DEFENSE IN THE DARK

NOBODY, so far as known, has ever compiled any statistics on the number of tricks taken by declarers because the defense was in the dark regarding important details of a deal. It would surely be quite a figure, however, perhaps a trick once in every three or four hands. One fact nearly always obscure to the defenders is the probable length of a club suit which opened the bidding, due to the penchant of many players for such a bid on a short suit.

This deal was a good example of the ways that Phil Garland of Tacoma, Washington, got some of his top scores in a series of duplicate tournaments. After his partner showed more interest in proclaiming his point count than his spades with 2-No Trumps, Mr. Garland saw fit to bid the spades himself. That caused him to become the declarer, with the length of his clubs concealed.

West's diamond Q lead to the A was followed by a spade to the A, a heart discard on the diamond K and a low spade to draw the Q and K together. West now put on his thinking cap. Deciding there was no sense in laying down the heart A, and unable to conceive of South having such a long club suit, he led his club 10. The clubs then furnished discards of all three hearts from the dummy, after which the last South heart was ruffed to give the declarer twelve tricks.

What might have happened on this deal if West had been a certain kind of trickster? Suppose his opening lead had been the heart Q because North's bid of 2-No Trumps had located the K. If you had been the declarer, would you have put in the K or not? If not, you could have lost two heart tricks plus a later spade to get bottom score on the deal. But that lead would have been rather mean, wouldn't it?

What is South's sound play for 3-No Trumps after he wins the second heart lead?

Five Youths Held Here In Robbery Of Serviceman

Watch Stolen In Scuffle Recovered

One of the five youths, Dallas G. Bittner, 22, of LaVale, was picked up around noon yesterday by City Police Detective Donald H. Smith and Cpl. William F. Baker of the State Police Barracks at LaVale.

Bittner, who was working at a saw mill off Braddock Road was arrested for investigation. Last night four others, who reportedly admitted being with Bittner on an alleged beer drinking spree prior to the attack, were also arrested by City Police Detectives Joseph H. Stitcher and Smith, and Trooper Lindberg Cook of the State Police.

They are Donald I. Davidson, 19, RD 5, city; Edward R. Grabenstein, RD 5, city; Ronald W. Keiser, 23, RD 1, city and James D. Warden, 21, of RD 5, city.

They were questioned last night and reportedly admitted taking part in the attack on Sfc. Maurice Campbell, who is stationed in Fort Lewis, Wash. Campbell told police the watch was removed from his arm and his assailants attempted to get his wallet when an approaching car scared them off.

Tuesday evening the five youths got together, went to Keyser and came back to Cumberland, went over to Ridgeley and had a couple of beers. Later they went to a bar on North Centre Street and continued drinking.

The group then went to a bar on Virginia Avenue for more beer and later ended up in nearby Pennsylvania. Returning to Cumberland early yesterday morning they went to a local restaurant, ate and left.

The five youths then drove up North Centre Street, police said, and saw Sgt. Campbell walking up the street.

The youths circled the block and returned to the area where Sgt. Campbell was walking. Davidson, according to police, got out of the car which was parked on the opposite side of the street, grabbed the serviceman, apparently knocking him to the ground, and removed the watch from his wrist.

They then left the scene. The car was reported to have belonged to Warden, who was recently discharged from the service in California and his car still bears license tags of that state.

The five youths will be taken to the State's Attorney's office this morning for questioning, police added. The watch has been recovered.

Plan Firemen's Convention

Members of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association convention committee met last night at the LaVale Fire Hall to begin arrangements for the 63d annual State Firemen's Convention which will be held here next summer. It will be the first time since 1951 that the convention has been brought to Cumberland. Pictured, left to right, are John Prichard, David E. Kirk, publicity chairman; Cromwell C. Zembower, committee co-chairman; Alvin H. Rankin, convention treasurer, and William A. Wilson. Other committee members not present last night were Nelson W. Russler, co-chairman, and Harry M. DeHaven.

Sportsmen Hit Trespass Signs Along C&O Canal

Mass Protest Meeting To Be Held Next Week

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 13 (AP) — Sportsmen in Washington County said today a mass meeting would be held Oct. 20 to protest the posting of trespassing signs along the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal right-of-way in Washington County.

They said it was the first time the area has been posted since the government took over the right-of-way in the 1930s.

The small orange-yellow signs bear the name of the National Capital Parks Service and bar from the canal right-of-way anyone carrying fire arms or having hunting dogs.

In Washington, the park service said it has posted no signs against trespassing. It suggested the signs probably were put up by private property owners. The park service said it has hung some chains across roads to keep cars out of the canal area.

Carl Schlotterbeck, chairman of the Washington County chapter of the Izaak Walton League, said members of rod and gun and fish and game clubs in the county have been invited to the protest meeting in Hagerstown next Wednesday night.

Sportsmen said they have been unable to determine a reason for the sign posting.

There has been a proposal to build a parkway along the canal from Cumberland to Washington, D. C., but this has met with protests from sportsmen in Washington and Frederick counties.

The Maryland Legislature has authorized the State to join with the government in the construction of a route from Hancock to Cumberland in Allegany County, where there was no strong opposition to the parkway idea.

Magazine Article Features Fort Hill Student's Hobby

The boy is Billy Matheney, now a ninth grader at Fort Hill.

Billy became interested in three-dimensional movies after seeing "Bwana Devil," the first of the lot. Since then he has seen just about every one that has come to Cumberland.

The young student constructed a model theatre with a cineramic screen in the early development of his hobby. He has pointed out to fellow students that three cameras must be used to produce the cineramic vision.

Billy also has developed a model cinemascope screen in his demonstration. This is the large curved-type screen which is used in many motion picture houses. For cinemascope a regular camera with what is called an anamorphic lens is used.

"The purpose of cinerama is to fill the vision with what is on the screen," Matheney explains. "The three cameras throw three separate pictures onto the screen. Tnree-dimension gives depth to the screen, while cinemascope allows the spectator to see the spread-out picture from the sides of his eyes as well as straight ahead."

Billy is a boy with many hobbies. He has collected approximately 1,500 stamps from all over the world. He collects model airplanes and has made a scrapbook of airplanes and another of airplane material. He also has an accumulation of pennies.

A picture of the Fort Hill student and his miniature theatre also is included with the article, which was written by Carole Lillard, another Fort Hill student.

Police Report Shows 4 Hurt In September

Four pedestrians were injured in motor vehicle accidents in Cumberland during last month, according to a report compiled at Police Headquarters, and there were also 22 accidents during the course of the month in the city limits.

Two of the pedestrians injured were in the 5-14 age group; one was between 45 and 64, and the fourth person was over 65 years of age.

Five of the auto accidents occurred on Mondays and Thursdays of September; four each on Wednesdays and Fridays; two on Saturdays and one each on Tuesdays and Sundays.

A summary of the probable causes of the various accidents, according to the report, included:

Five drivers who failed to give the right-of-way; four who were driving recklessly or, pedestrians running in front of or into motor vehicles; three drivers who had been drinking.

Two motorists were following too closely, while other mishaps were caused by failure to obey traffic controls; equipment violations, parking violations and another, by a boy tampering with a motor vehicle.

In other police activities during September, 221 parking violations were listed on the docket, five fines being suspended and one case dismissed. Some 114 motorists used the courtesy meter at Police Headquarters. The number of state cases investigated was 30 and there were six drunken driving cases.

One motorist was arrested for speeding with the use of the radar speedmeter and one motorist was arrested for speeding without the speedmeter use. Local police held one person for the State Police in traffic enforcement, and one person violated City Ordnance No. 1530, parking in a restricted area.

The 221 parking violations of last month was quite a drop from the 485 violations of the same month in 1953 and 893 such violations in 1952, police noted.

Reforestation Concerns Most Land Owners

Interest Highest In This District

Reforestation seems to be the chief concern of Maryland woodland owners participating in the cooperative forest management program, according to a report by the State Department of Forests and Parks.

Out of 2,123 requests made during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1,317 were concerned with reforestation.

Considerably more than half of the state reforestation requests were made in District Forester William H. Johnson's Western Maryland sector where 766 of them came. In Oakland, serving all of Garrett County, 345 of the 395 requests received in the past year were for reforestation advice. Others were woodland fencing, 15; woodland examination, 11; timber stand improvement and insects and disease, six each; woodland marking, four; marketing, cutting examination, assistance for operators and miscellaneous, two each.

At Cumberland, serving Allegany County and the western part of Washington County, the requests were more varied. Reforestation accounted for only 118 of the 288 requests. Others were woodland fencing, 31; woodland eaxmination, 21; plantation examination, 15; woodland marking, 10; timber stand improvement, five; Conservancy District Act, two; marketing, one, and miscellaneous, 85.

Frederick, serving Frederick County and eastern Washington County, had 303 reforestation requests among a total of 363. Others were woodland examination, 25; insects and diseases, 22; woodland marking, nine; timber stand improvement and marketing, two each.

This district had virtually half, 1,046 of the 2,123 requests made throughout the state.

District II in Southern Maryland had only 331 requests during the past fiscal year. District III on the Eastern Shore had 224 and District IV in Central Maryland had 522.

Plan For Water Line To Plant Gets Approval

B&O, City Officials Confer In Baltimore

Tentative approval of a plan to allow the City of Cumberland to run part of its water line to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant at North Branch just inside the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad right-of-way was obtained yesterday.

Mayor Roy W. Eves and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum yesterday conferred with representatives of the Chief Engineer of the B&O in Baltimore to seek approval of the plan.

Mayor Eves explained last night upon his return to the city that he and Nuzum were seeking information from the B&O yesterday and got what they wanted. As a result the survey for the water line will proceed.

While in Baltimore the two city officials also conferred with representatives of the State Roads Commission concerning plans for improvements to Oldtown Road.

The railroad is planning to establish a yard in the vicinity of the new $34,000,000 plant. Uncertainty over just how far the B&O right-of-way eventually will extend was cited as one of the reasons for the meeting.

Mayor Eves hopes to have a meeting in the future which will bring together city officials, B&O representatives and spokesmen for the States Roads Commission to ascertain that their plans are in conformity. The proposed development of the C&O Canal Parkway is another feature which must be considered.

Park's Bear About Ready To Hibernate

Along about this time of the year, the big brown bear at Constitution Park begins to get ideas of doing a little hibernating for the winter season.

But before she "sacks in" for the coming cold weather, her home, as well as the homes of the other park animals, will be inspected by Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, who expects to complete this chore sometime this week.

Robert R. Golden, park superintendent, said the bear actually doesn't go into her cave at the first sign of chilly breezes and remain hibernated until the spring thaw, but usually comes outside about once a day.

Half-asleep, the bear will come out of the cave, eat a little food, drink a little water, look about the area, and then head back to bed.

When the wind blows cold and leaves swirl about her cage, "Atsme" — that's her name — gathers up the leaves and through a lesson taught by Mother Nature, prepares a warm bed for herself.

This is a hint for park personnel to provide hay for the animal's bed, assuring warmer sleeping quarters. Regardless of the temperature the bear will occasionally take a bath in the water trough provided in the cage.

Golden said he has seen the bear wandering about her cage with icicles hanging from her fur, but apparently this doesn't bother her.

Atsme is not always in the best of spirits in the winter months, Golden added, and often appears grouchy and irritable, impatiently waiting for the first sign of spring.

Mother Is Given 18-Month Term For Delinquency

Mrs. Hazel Myers Ordered To Prison

A mother of five was sentenced to 18 months in the Maryland Reformatory for Women and a local man was ordered held for action of the January grand jury following separate hearings yesterday in Juvenile Court on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Trial Magistrate Morris Baron presided at both hearings.

Mrs. Hazel Virginia Myers, about 25, of 172 Wineow Street, who was charged with contributing to the delinquency of her five minor children, was given 18 months in the Reformatory.

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, said Mrs. Myers was under investigation for about a week prior to her hearing yesterday in Juvenile Court. The children are now in the custody of her husband's parents.

Mrs. Myers' husband, Roland B. Myers, 33, received a two-year suspended sentence in the House of Correction on October 7 in Allegany County Circuit Court when he entered a guilty plea to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of his minor stepdaughter.

In the other hearing yesterday, Louis Donius, this city, who was arrested Tuesday by City Police, was taken to Allegany County Jail in default of $250 bond, after he waived a preliminary hearing and requested a jury trial.

He is being held for action of the January term of the grand jury. Police said they received a complaint from Mrs. Carrie Easton Tuesday afternoon saying Donius was sitting on the curb with a three-year-old girl on Bellevue Street and was offering her cigarets and candy. He was later arrested.

County Junior High Attendance Best In Years

Junior high schools in Allegany County recorded their best September attendance in the past five years last month with a percentage of 98.2, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county public schools.

Eight junior high schools had their best September attendance average over the past five years. They were the Beall Elementary School seventh grade, 99.2 per cent; Mt. Savage, 99 per cent; Beall High School, 98.8 per cent; Bruce High School, 98.3 per cent; Flintstone, 97.9 per cent; Oldtown, 97.8 per cent; Valley High School, 97.8 per cent, and Fort Hill, 97.6 per cent.

On the elementary school level, Allegany County had its second highest percentage for September in five years with 98.2 per cent, just one-tenth of one per cent under the lowest.

Elementary schools with their highest in five years for September were Hammond Street School, Westernport, 99; Gephart School, 98.9; McCoole, 98.8; Pennsylvania Avenue, 98.6; Cresaptown, 98.4; East Side, 98.4; Mt. Savage, 98.3, and West Side, 97.7.

Senior high schools of the county had their third best September mark over the five-year period with 97.7 per cent. The combined junior-senior high school percentage of 98.1 per cent was the best over the five years. Allegany Senior High School had its best percentage over the span, 98.2 per cent.

The attendance averages of the colored schools for September were not quite up to their past records. Carver Elementary had 97.6 per cent; Lincoln, 98.3 per cent; Carver Junior High, 98 per cent, and Carver Senior High, 95.6 per cent.

Last Concrete For Bridge Deck Will Be Poured

If there is no rain today, workmen for the S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company will pour the last concrete for the deck of the new Valley Street Bridge across Wills Creek.

The company still retains December 1 as its target date for the completion of the new span. Last week, City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum reported that the work was about 76 per cent finished. Probably only about one-fifth of the work now remains to be done.

Chest Fund Drive Reaches $67,941.50

Community Chest workers at a report meeting at Central YMCA yesterday reported $67,941.50, or over 67 per cent of the $100,999.23 goal has been collected.

A breakdown shows: Advance gifts, $46,899; classified, $17,522; sales army, $1,919; and residential, $1,601.50.

O. B. Case, plant manager of Allegany Ballistics, reported his firm has subscribed 100 per cent with a total of $3,200 contributed to the campaign.

The next report meeting is set for tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Bolt And Forge Recalls 25 Men

Some 25 furloughed Baltimore and Ohio Railroad workers yesterday were recalled to their jobs at the railroad's Bolt and Forge shop.

A spokesman for the railroad said the men were recalled on the basis of seniority. They bring to 313 the number employed there. All recalled workers got their notices Tuesday night and were to report for work yesterday.

County Board Vows Crackdown On Vandalism

Concerned with the unreasonable amount of damage to public and private property reported as a result of Halloween pranksters, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday adopted a resolution stressing that acts of vandalism will not be tolerated.

The commissioners said they are firmly convinced that the American tradition of "Trick or Treat" in the Halloween season is a pleasurable and proper one, but believe that "the destruction of public and private property does not now and never has represented a proper expression of the spirit of this holiday season."

"The County Commissioners of Allegany County hereby request the State's Attorney's Office, the Sheriff's Office, county constables and all other persons and agencies connected with law enforcement in Allegany County to make every effort to curb acts of vandalism and destruction of public and private property in those areas of Allegany County outside the corporate limits of the towns and cities in the county, which said areas are under the jurisdiction of the County Commissioners.

"Be it further resolved that this resolution shall not be taken or construed to be an effort to curtail the wholesome celebration of the Halloween season in the traditional American fashion, but the destruction of public and private property is not now and never has been part of that tradition and should not be tolerated."

T. E. Widerman Delivers Speech At Dinner Meet

Thomas E. Widerman, general manager of the Maryland Motor Truck Association, Inc., of Baltimore, was the guest speaker at last night's dinner meeting of the Tri-State Traffic Club at Ali Ghan Country Club. Widerman was introduced by Francis Sanders, president of the Western Maryland chapter and vice president of the state group.

With nearly a million vehicles registered in Maryland, Widerman stated, about 33,800 were trucks of 20,000 to 65,000 pounds gross rating. Describing the growth of the trucking industry, the speaker mentioned that if all truck operation stopped for 96 hours the entire country would be paralyzed; service stations would be out of gas, power plants would have to shut down because fuel oil and coal would not be available and food stocks would be exhausted in many localities.

With around 25,000 communities in the United States serviced only by trucks, 615 of these, Widerman said, are in Maryland. Railroads, truck lines, airlines, steamship, water and pipe lines can all coexist, the speaker stated, but the transportation industry should not be over regulated.

Arrangements for the meeting were under the direction of Andrew N. Phillips, Clarence E. Gehr and John L. Carnochan.

Fire Prevention Programs Planned

Although Fire Prevention Week ended officially last Saturday, the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association is continuing its programs on the subject for the rest of the month.

Cromwell C. Zembower will speak on the topic today at noon at the Cumberland Kiwanis Club meeting. Next Monday he will address the Midland PTA. Tuesday he will speak at a public meeting at the Bloomington Fire Hall. Thursday, October 21, he will be at the Ellerslie PTA meeting.

Blunk Joins Fraternity

John Blunk, freshman at Denison University, Granville, Ohio, has been pledged to Phi Delta fraternity. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Blunk, 818 Buckingham Road.

Blind News Vendor To Spend Week At Leader Dog School

Walter "Ike" Herboldsheimer, blind operator of the news stand in the Post Office building, plans to be away from his place of business for a week or so, beginning Sunday.

Ike explained that he is going to Rochester, Mich., to the Leader Dogs for the Blind training center to get a new leader dog, or to have his present companion and guide, "Rocky," retrained.

A couple of months ago, Rocky was injured about the head when he was struck by a hit-and-run driver on North Centre Street. Rocky saw the speeding car approaching and stepped in front of Ike to keep his master from being run down.

Communicating with the school where he originally obtained Rocky, Herboldsheimer was advised by the director to come there and have Rocky retrained. If this proves impracticable, a new dog will be trained for him.

Criminal Trials Start Monday

Criminal trials for the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court have been docketed for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

The trial of Donald Lee Festerman, 20, RFD 2, Frostburg, charged with manslaughter in the traffic death of Charles Junior Beeman, 52, of Moscow, has been set for Wednesday. Beeman was killed instantly September 12 when he was struck by Festerman's car, according to police.

Trial of three Lonaconing men charged with carnal knowledge of a 15-year old Cresaptown girl is docketed for Tuesday. All other criminal trials are booked for Monday.

The docket lists all civil appeals cases for Thursday, October 21. Fourteen days have been set aside for civil jury trials. They start Monday, October 26, and end Monday, November 15.

A-Bomb Use Was Mistake; Declares VA Chaplain

The atomic bomb should not have been used by the United States during World War II, according to Father James F. McCarthy, chaplain of the Newton D. Baker VA Center, Martinsburg, W. Va., who was guest speaker Tuesday night at a meeting of Chief Justice Taney Assembly at the Knights of Columbus Home here.

He asserted that by letting the world know about the existence of such a bomb, "the most ruthless country on the face of the globe" now has the secret of the A-bomb.

He remarked that the first A-bomb mission was from the base in the Pacific where he was stationed, and that the first news of its having been dropped came by radio to the base.

The chaplain summed up his talk by saying the United States could have kept the secret of the A-bomb longer if it had not been used in World War II.

He also remarked that the most recent H-bomb dropped in a proving grounds test was 600 times more powerful than the first A-bomb.

William A. Wilson Resigns Position To Avoid Confusion

To eliminate confusion over similar names, William A. Wilson of Midland will resign as president of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors effective November 1.

He will be succeeded by Victor M. Hebb, this city, the other Republican on the board. The change is expected to be only temporary with Wilson resuming the chairmanship shortly after the election.

Wilson explained that this move has been made so that there will be no confusing him with William L Wilson Jr., Cumberland attorney, who is running for State Senate on the Democratic ticket.

The election board chairman is a Republican and his name appears following a notation on the front of the folded ballot.

The absentee ballots for servicemen already have been printed with William A. Wilson's name on the face of the ballot as board president.

Five Youths Held Here In Robbery Of Serviceman

Watch Stolen In Scuffle Recovered

Five area youths were arrested yesterday by City Police in connection with an attack on a Wiley Ford serviceman, whose 21-jewel wrist watch was taken from him early yesterday on North Centre Street during a scuffle.

One of the five youths, Dallas G. Bittner, 22, of LaVale, was picked up around noon yesterday by City Police Detective Donald H. Smith and Cpl. William F. Baker of the State Police Barracks at LaVale.

Bittner, who was working at a saw mill off Braddock Road was arrested for investigation. Last night four others, who reportedly admitted being with Bittner on an alleged beer drinking spree prior to the attack, were also arrested by City Police Detectives Joseph H. Stitcher and Smith, and Trooper Lindberg Cook of the State Police.

They are Donald I. Davidson, 19, RD 5, city; Edward R. Grabenstein, RD 5, city; Ronald W. Keiser, 23, RD 1, city and James D. Warden, 21, of RD 5, city.

They were questioned last night and reportedly admitted taking part in the attack on Sfc. Maurice Campbell, who is stationed in Fort Lewis, Wash. Campbell told police the watch was removed from his arm and his assailants attempted to get his wallet when an approaching car scared them off.

Authorities pieced the story together this way:

Tuesday evening the five youths got together, went to Keyser and came back to Cumberland, went over to Ridgeley and had a couple of beers. Later they went to a bar on North Centre Street and continued drinking.

The group then went to a bar on Virginia Avenue for more beer and later ended up in nearby Pennsylvania. Returning to Cumberland early yesterday morning they went to a local restaurant, ate and left.

The five youths then drove up North Centre Street, police said, and saw Sgt. Campbell walking up the street.

The youths circled the block and returned to the area where Sgt. Campbell was walking. Davidson, according to police, got out of the car which was parked on the opposite side of the street, grabbed the serviceman, apparently knocking him to the ground, and removed the watch from his wrist.

They then left the scene. The car was reported to have belonged to Warden, who was recently discharged from the service in California and his car still bears license tags of that state.

The five youths will be taken to the State's Attorney's office this morning for questioning, police added. The watch has been recovered.

Sportsmen Hit Trespass Signs Along C&O Canal

Mass Protest Meeting To Be Held Next Week

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 13 (AP) — Sportsmen in Washington County said today a mass meeting would be held Oct. 20 to protest the posting of trespassing signs along the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal right-of-way in Washington County.

They said it was the first time the area has been posted since the government took over the right-of-way in the 1930s.

The small orange-yellow signs bear the name of the National Capital Parks Service and bar from the canal right-of-way anyone carrying fire arms or having hunting dogs.

In Washington, the park service said it has posted no signs against trespassing. It suggested the signs probably were put up by private property owners. The park service said it has hung some chains across roads to keep cars out of the canal area.

Carl Schlotterbeck, chairman of of the Washington County chapter of the Izaak Walton League, said members of rod and gun and fish and game clubs in the county have been invited to the protest meeting in Hagerstown next Wednesday night.

Sportsmen said they have been unable to determine a reason for the sign posting.

Schlotterbeck contended the posting bars hunters from the Potomac River owned by Maryland, because the canal parallels the river throughout the county.

The canal area is being patrolled by a capital parks man on a motorcycle.

There has been a proposal to build a parkway along the canal from Cumberland to Washington, D. C., but this has met with protests from sportsmen in Washington and Frederick counties.

The Maryland Legislature has authorized the State to join with the government in the construction of a route from Hancock to Cumberland in Allegany County, where there was no strong opposition to the parkway idea.

Magazine Article Features Fort Hill Student's Hobby

Billy became interested in three-dimensional movies after seeing "Bwana Devil," the first of the lot. Since then he has seen just about every one that has come to Cumberland.

The young student constructed a model theatre with a cineramic screen in the early development of his hobby. He has pointed out to fellow students that three cameras must be used to produce the cineramic vision.

Billy also has developed a model cinemascope screen in his demonstration. This is the large curved-type screen which is used in many motion picture houses. For cinemascope a regular camera with what is called an anamorphic lens is used.

The young movie enthusiast also shows how two separate pictures are used for 3-D type movies. Special glasses are necessary for such films.

"The purpose of cinerama is to fill the vision with what is on the screen," Matheney explains. "The three cameras throw three separate pictures onto the screen. Three-dimension gives depth to the screen, while cinemascope allows the spectator to see the spread-out picture from the sides of his eyes as well as straight ahead."

Billy is a boy with many hobbies. He has collected approximately 1,500 stamps from all over the world. He collects model airplanes and has made a scrapbook of airplanes and another of airplane material. He also has an accumulation of pennies.

Police Report Shows 4 Hurt In September

Four pedestrians were injured in motor vehicle accidents in Cumberland during last month, according to a report compiled at Police Headquarters, and there were also 22 accidents during the course of the month in the city limits.

Two of the pedestrians injured were in the 5-14 age group; one was between 45 and 64, and the fourth person was over 65 years of age.

Five of the auto accidents occurred on Mondays and Thursdays of September; four each on Wednesdays and Fridays; two on Saturdays and one each on Tuesdays and Sundays.

A summary of the probable causes of the various accidents, according to the report, included:

Five drivers who failed to give the right-of-way; four who were driving recklessly or, pedestrians running in front of or into motor vehicles; three drivers who had been drinking.

Two motorists were following too closely, while other mishaps were caused by failure to obey traffic controls; equipment violations, parking violations and another, by a boy tampering with a motor vehicle.

In other police activities during September, 221 parking violations were listed on the docket, five fines being suspended and one case dismissed. Some 114 motorists used the courtesy meter at Police Headquarters. The number of state cases investigated was 30 and there were six drunken driving cases.

One motorist was arrested for speeding with the use of the radar speedmeter and one motorist was arrested for speeding without the speedmeter use. Local police held one person for the State Police in traffic enforcement, and one person violated City Ordnance No. 1530, parking in a restricted area.

The 221 parking violations of last month was quite a drop from the 485 violations of the same month in 1953 and 893 such violations in 1952, police noted.

Reforestation Concerns Most Land Owners

Interest Highest In This District

Reforestation seems to be the chief concern of Maryland woodland owners participating in the cooperative forest management program, according to a report by the State Department of Forests and Parks.

Out of 2,123 requests made during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1,317 were concerned with reforestation.

Considerably more than half of the state reforestation requests were made in District Forester William H. Johnson's Western Maryland sector where 766 of them came. In Oakland, serving all of Garrett County, 345 of the 395 requests received in the past year were for reforestation advice. Others were woodland fencing, 15; woodland examination, 11; timber stand improvement and insects and disease, six each; woodland marking, four; marketing, cutting examination, assistance for operators and miscellaneous, two each.

At Cumberland, serving Allegany County and the western part of Washington County, the requests were more varied. Reforestation accounted for only 118 of the 288 requests. Others were woodland fencing, 31; woodland eaxmination, 21; plantation examination, 15; woodland marking, 10; timber stand improvement, five; Conservancy District Act, two; marketing, one, and miscellaneous, 85.

Frederick, serving Frederick County and eastern Washington County, had 303 reforestation requests among a total of 363. Others were woodland examination, 25; insects and diseases, 22; woodland marking, nine; timber stand improvement and marketing, two each.

This district had virtually half, 1,046 of the 2,123 requests made throughout the state.

District II in Southern Maryland had only 331 requests during the past fiscal year. District III on the Eastern Shore had 224 and District IV in Central Maryland had 522.

Plan For Water Line To Plant Gets Approval

B&O, City Officials Confer In Baltimore

Tentative approval of a plan to allow the City of Cumberland to run part of its water line to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant at North Branch just inside the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad right-of-way was obtained yesterday.

Mayor Roy W. Eves and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum yesterday conferred with representatives of the Chief Engineer of the B&O in Baltimore to seek approval of the plan.

The proposal must yet get the approval of the top officials of the railroad before it is final.

Mayor Eves explained last night upon his return to the city that he and Nuzum were seeking information from the B&O yesterday and got what they wanted. As a result the survey for the water line will proceed.

While in Baltimore the two city officials also conferred with representatives of the State Roads Commission concerning plans for improvements to Oldtown Road.

The railroad is planning to establish a yard in the vicinity of the new $34,000,000 plant. Uncertainty over just how far the B&O right-of-way eventually will extend was cited as one of the reasons for the meeting.

Mayor Eves hopes to have a meeting in the future which will bring together city officials, B&O representatives and spokesmen for the States Roads Commission to ascertain that their plans are in conformity. The proposed development of the C&O Canal Parkway is another feature which must be considered.

Park's Bear About Ready To Hibernate

Along about this time of the year, the big brown bear at Constitution Park begins to get ideas of doing a little hibernating for the winter season.

But before she "sacks in" for the coming cold weather, her home, as well as the homes of the other park animals, will be inspected by Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, who expects to complete this chore sometime this week.

This is the third winter the bear will be making her residence at the local park.

Robert R. Golden, park superintendent, said the bear actually doesn't go into her cave at the first sign of chilly breezes and remain hibernated until the spring thaw, but usually comes outside about once a day.

Half-asleep, the bear will come out of the cave, eat a little food, drink a little water, look about the area, and then head back to bed.

When the wind blows cold and leaves swirl about her cage, "Atsme" — that's her name — gathers up the leaves and through a lesson taught by Mother Nature, prepares a warm bed for herself.

This is a hint for park personnel to provide hay for the animal's bed, assuring warmer sleeping quarters. Regardless of the temperature the bear will occasionally take a bath in the water trough provided in the cage.

Golden said he has seen the bear wandering about her cage with icicles hanging from her fur, but apparently this doesn't bother her.

Atsme is not always in the best of spirits in the winter months, Golden added, and often appears grouchy and irritable, impatiently waiting for the first sign of spring.

Last Concrete For Bridge Deck Will Be Poured

If there is no rain today, workmen for the S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company will pour the last concrete for the deck of the new Valley Street Bridge across Wills Creek.

The company still retains December 1 as its target date for the completion of the new span. Last week, City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum reported that the work was about 76 per cent finished. Probably only about one-fifth of the work now remains to be done.

Chest Fund Drive Reaches $67,941.50

Community Chest workers at a report meeting at Central YMCA yesterday reported $67,941.50, or over 67 per cent of the $100,999.23 goal has been collected.

A breakdown shows: Advance gifts, $46,899; classified, $17,522; sales army, $1,919; and residential, $1,601.50.

O. B. Case, plant manager of Allegany Ballistics, reported his firm has subscribed 100 per cent with a total of $3,200 contributed to the campaign.

The next report meeting is set for tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Bolt And Forge Recalls 25 Men

Some 25 furloughed Baltimore and Ohio Railroad workers yesterday were recalled to their jobs at the railroad's Bolt and Forge shop.

A spokesman for the railroad said the men were recalled on the basis of seniority. They bring to 313 the number employed there. All recalled workers got their notices Tuesday night and were to report for work yesterday.

Mother Is Given 18-Month Term For Delinquency

Mrs. Hazel Myers Ordered To Prison

A mother of five was sentenced to 18 months in the Maryland Reformatory for Women and a local man was ordered held for action of the January grand jury following separate hearings yesterday in Juvenile Court on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Trial Magistrate Morris Baron presided at both hearings.

Mrs. Hazel Virginia Myers, about 25, of 172 Wineow Street, who was charged with contributing to the delinquency of her five minor children, was given 18 months in the Reformatory.

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, said Mrs. Myers was under investigation for about a week prior to her hearing yesterday in Juvenile Court. The children are now in the custody of her husband's parents.

Mrs. Myers' husband, Roland B. Myers, 33, received a two-year suspended sentence in the House of Correction on October 7 in Allegany County Circuit Court when he entered a guilty plea to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of his minor stepdaughter.

In the other hearing yesterday, Louis Donius, this city, who was arrested Tuesday by City Police, was taken to Allegany County Jail in default of $250 bond, after he waived a preliminary hearing and requested a jury trial.

He is being held for action of the January term of the grand jury. Police said they received a complaint from Mrs. Carrie Easton Tuesday afternoon saying Donius was sitting on the curb with a three-year-old girl on Bellevue Street and was offering her cigarets and candy. He was later arrested.

County Board Vows Crackdown On Vandalism

Concerned with the unreasonable amount of damage to public and private property reported as a result of Halloween pranksters, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday adopted a resolution stressing that acts of vandalism will not be tolerated.

The commissioners said they are firmly convinced that the American tradition of "Trick or Treat" in the Halloween season is a pleasurable and proper one, but believe that "the destruction of public and private property does not now and never has represented a proper expression of the spirit of this holiday season."

"The County Commissioners of Allegany County hereby request the State's Attorney's Office, the Sheriff's Office, county constables and all other persons and agencies connected with law enforcement in Allegany County to make every effort to curb acts of vandalism and destruction of public and private property in those areas of Allegany County outside the corporate limits of the towns and cities in the county, which said areas are under the jurisdiction of the County Commissioners.

"Be it further resolved that this resolution shall not be taken or construed to be an effort to curtail the wholesome celebration of the Halloween season in the traditional American fashion, but the destruction of public and private property is not now and never has been part of that tradition and should not be tolerated."

A-Bomb Use Was Mistake; Declares VA Chaplain

The atomic bomb should not have been used by the United States during World War II, according to Father James F. McCarthy, chaplain of the Newton D. Baker VA Center, Martinsburg, W. Va., who was guest speaker Tuesday night at a meeting of Chief Justice Taney Assembly at the Knights of Columbus Home here.

He asserted that by letting the world know about the existence of such a bomb, "the most ruthless country on the face of the globe" now has the secret of the A-bomb.

He remarked that the first A-bomb mission was from the base in the Pacific where he was stationed, and that the first news of its having been dropped came by radio to the base.

T. E. Widerman Delivers Speech At Dinner Meet

Thomas E. Widerman, general manager of the Maryland Motor Truck Association, Inc., of Baltimore, was the guest speaker at last night's dinner meeting of the Tri-State Traffic Club at Ali Ghan Country Club. Widerman was introduced by Francis Sanders, president of the Western Maryland chapter and vice president of the state group.

With nearly a million vehicles registered in Maryland, Widerman stated, about 33,800 were trucks of 20,000 to 65,000 pounds gross rating. Describing the growth of the trucking industry, the speaker mentioned that if all truck operation stopped for 96 hours the entire country would be paralyzed; service stations would be out of gas, power plants would have to shut down because fuel oil and coal would not be available and food stocks would be exhausted in many localities.

With around 25,000 communities in the United States serviced only by trucks, 615 of these, Widerman said, are in Maryland. Railroads, truck lines, airlines, steamship, water and pipe lines can all coexist, the speaker stated, but the transportation industry should not be over regulated.

Arrangements for the meeting were under the direction of Andrew N. Phillips, Clarence E. Gehr and John L. Carnochan.

Fire Prevention Programs Planned

Although Fire Prevention Week ended officially last Saturday, the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association is continuing its programs on the subject for the rest of the month.

Blind News Vendor To Spend Week At Leader Dog School

Walter "Ike" Herboldsheimer, blind operator of the news stand in the Post Office building, plans to be away from his place of business for a week or so, beginning Sunday.

Ike explained that he is going to Rochester, Mich., to the Leader Dogs for the Blind training center to get a new leader dog, or to have his present companion and guide, "Rocky," retrained.

A couple of months ago, Rocky was injured about the head when he was struck by a hit-and-run driver on North Centre Street. Rocky saw the speeding car approaching and stepped in front of Ike to keep his master from being run down.

Although Rocky was treated by veterinarians, he has been highly nervous since the accident.

Communicating with the school where he originally obtained Rocky, Herboldsheimer was advised by the director to come there and have Rocky retrained. If this proves impracticable, a new dog will be trained for him.
